THE SMARTEST FASHIONS OF WELL DRESSED FOLK

AN EASTER SONG

MY DEAREST MADGE:
On this glorious day my heart is still thrilling with peace and happiness that spring with its rebirth in nature always brings to mortals. I can see you, dear, sitting with your child at your knee, an appropriate addition to the song of the day. How lovely is the dress that I know you will wear. Verily, there are many kinds of symphonies! Your costume is art that redounds to the credit of your fingers and to your good taste. I cannot but compare you with the blossoms which have put on their best apparel in honor of the happy morn. How powerful and restful is beauty. This is just an Easter greeting, dear one, from one who is with you in spirit.
With love, ELEANOR.

CZAR IN FEAR OF PREDICTED DISASTER

Nicholas Fears the Warning of Astrologer That 1912 Will Be Fateful.

Women Members of Moravian Community Organize New Cult.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—It is no secret in St. Petersburg that the Tsar is an extremely superstitious man. He is easily influenced by alleged occult influences.

It is not surprising, therefore, that his health should be very seriously affected by a prophecy made several years ago by an astrologer, who warned him that 1912 would be a fateful year for him.

The prophecy did not forecast any direct evil for his majesty. In fact, it was contained in these words: "Beware the year 1912. After that all is dark." Seances are frequently held in the royal palace and often the advice of his ministers is examined by messages from the other world received through mediums.

Thirty female members of the Moravian community at Loda, who had formed themselves into a new sect, endeavored to persuade a man of the name of Kowalski, whom they regard as their savior, to allow himself to be crucified so that they might be enabled, by his resurrection, to prove the truth of their tenets. Kowalski naturally refused to be tested in this manner and shut himself up in his house. His followers attacked his abode, and only the timely arrival of the police saved him from assassination.

Russia shelters many strange sects, and it was not so very long ago since the police authorities discovered that about a dozen persons had apparently been burned alive in a number of funeral pyres which had been erected on a plot of ground within the province of Viatka. Inquiries proved that the remains found were those of members of a religious sect known as the "Vozyski," who believe in human sacrifices.

Some time previously a man was arrested in Tveropol, a town in South Russia, on suspicion of having caused the deaths of no fewer than thirty-two persons, the bodies of whom were found buried in the neighborhood of his dwelling. He was head of the "Bogomil" sect, a body of men and women who have the belief that if a few of their number die by their own hands or those of others their deaths will expiate the sins of the world.

In a large house in one of the fashionable quarters of St. Petersburg, a remarkable sect of devil worshippers recently took up their abode, and, according to the Russian papers, the members are drawn almost exclusively from the aristocratic people in the capital, including many high officials. It is said that masses with weird ceremonial are celebrated at the headquarters of the sect, those attending wearing fantastic costumes and going through an elaborate service.

COIFFURES AND NIGHT CAPS FROM PARIS.

PRINCESS OF SWEDEN

PRINCESS PATRICIA OF CONNAUGHT

With Those Who Are Found on This Cable Page

The latest vogue in Paris is a revival of the bonnet du nuit, of which we give two examples above, the one on the left being worn by Mlle. Greuse, the famous beauty, while the sleepy person on the right is the same charming actress. In addition are presented two new coiffures which are much admired, and copied, in the Gay City.

Speaking of fashions, here are three hats from Paris: (1) A becoming hat of black tulle decorated with shaded iris ribbon and lotus flowers. (2) A helmet toque of platinum-grey straw, garnished with a smart ribbon bow, and (3) a smart toque of tulle in alliance with a modish ribbon bow.

Madame Louisa Silvain, of the Comedie Francaise, is appearing in the Sophoclean tragedy of that name with which the German librettist of the Strauss opera has taken such liberties.

FIRST MOTOR LINER SENT OUT BY DENMARK

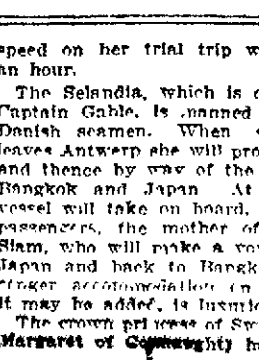

COPENHAGEN, April 6.—To Denmark belongs the credit of sending to sea the first motor liner. The Selandia, a full-sized ocean going cargo and passenger boat was built in Copenhagen and has started on a voyage to Bangkok, Siam and Japan, which will take her six months. On her trial trip, which has just been completed, she went to London and from thence to Antwerp, from which port she will start her departure for her round the world trip.

Her tanks are filled with the cheapest grade of Romanian oil of which only one ton will drive her 24 hours at top speed. She can carry enough fuel for her entire voyage, out and back. Her average speed on her trial trip was 11 1/2 knots an hour.

The Selandia, which is commanded by Captain Gable, is manned by a crew of Danish seamen. When she presently leaves Antwerp she will proceed to Genoa, and thence by way of the Suez canal to Bangkok and Japan. At Bangkok the vessel will take on board, as one of her passengers, the mother of the King of Siam, who will make a voyage in her to Japan and back to Bangkok. The passenger accommodation on the Selandia may be added, is luxurious. It is fitted with the latest in modern comforts. The crown princess of Sweden (Princess Margaret of Connaught) has given birth

GUATEMALA FAILS TO OBSERVE PEACE PACT

GUATEMALA CITY, GUATEMALA, April 6.—Guatemala has not been especially punctilious in observing its obligations under the Central American peace pact of 1907, and only recently Salvador had occasion to complain and invite the good offices of the American State Department to secure her territorial rights against Guatemalan aggression.

Mr. Knox evidently had this in mind when he delivered his formal address at the President's dinner tonight. It must have required some courage after the kindly style in which he had been entertained, and surrounded by men who appeared to draw their breath by suffering of the host, for the Secretary to stand up and declare in language that could not be misunderstood that the strict adherence of Guatemala to the Washington conventions was inseparable from the peace and prosperity, advancement and peace. These conventions provide that disputes between the five republics shall be submitted to the peace tribunal at Cartago; that no government shall invade the territory of another, or permit within their own boundaries the outfitting of revolutionary expeditions against a sister republic. The Secretary said in part:

"Guatemala in its position of close proximity to the United States, where there is ever ready an eager market for its products, and with its dense population occupies indeed an enviable position among the Central American nations. This position will be rendered increasingly desirable as time goes on and the development of your country's enormous possibilities is accomplished. And Mr. President, I may here remark without, I am sure, inducing any view not equally shared by yourself, that the continuous development and permanent advancement of the Republic depend on its stable economic conditions as well as upon its domestic contentment and consequent peace. The intimate relationship of the Government of the United States for republican institutions in this hemisphere and its desire to see them conserved free from interference are so well known and understood to need words of reassurance from me. From the very inception of, and even before the independence of the Latin American nations, the attitude of the American Government, which later was unmistakably announced by President Monroe, was well known and it continues undiminished to the present day.

"In Central America the United States has a special interest not only because of the proximity of the five republics to the great commercial highway now opening completion in Panama, but also because of its moral obligations under the Washington conventions. The maintenance of peace and stable conditions in these republics is a matter of great importance to my Government. A faithful observance of these conventions will, in the opinion of my Government, go far towards the elimination of the turmoil that has hitherto shaken

WOULD MAKE TRIGAMY LEGAL

French Writer Declares Honor Should Be Accorded All Bigamists.

Declares It Own Concern If He Has Two Wives or Three.

PARIS, April 6.—With a dwindling population, the question of marriage naturally is a subject always of interest to Frenchmen.

Some rather interesting contributions to the discussion of the subject have recently been made, which are worth reading, even if they may not be subscribed to. For instance, one writer expresses indignation that a man who had married six wives without the formality of divorce or the intervention of death has been sent to prison for six years, one year per wife. This, he declares, is an outrage. On the contrary, we are told he ought to have received the highest decoration in the land.

At any rate, the argument runs, if it is an excess of zeal to marry six wives almost at the same time, or any man ought to be allowed to take at least two. In other words, bigamy ought to be legalized at once. Trigamy may come later on.

Legislators, sociologists, moralists and other old women are always complaining about the decadence of marriage, and here we have a good citizen offering his heart, his hand and his name to several women with the result that he is packed off to prison, perhaps even to penal servitude.

Meanwhile, we have quite a number of young women who are condemned to endure the burden of celibacy all their lives; while, on the other hand, there are very many boys, young and old, who refuse to take a wife because one wife is either too much or too little. If we said to them: "You have the right to take two," perhaps they might make up their minds.

"After all, it is entirely my own concern if my appetite is sufficient to enable me to consume two portions at a restaurant. If the first of my wives knows to my advantage that there will be a second one, and if the second one is aware of the existence of the first, how on earth can bigamy be reprobated as immoral?"

"Such Mormonism would have the happiest effects from the point of view of repopulation and the public welfare. No more matrimonial games of hide-and-seek; no more vaudeville complications."

Another view of the marriage question is given in a lecture on "The Marriage of Tomorrow." M. Monseigneur Bolo, a well-known preacher, declares the decrease in marriage, the "marriage strike," as he calls it, was due to the degeneration of man, as shown by the want of manners, the ignorance, the irreligion, the increase of crime and drunkenness prevalent today. Men were afraid to assume the burden of marriage.

ESTATE LEFT TO DOG; RELATIVES WILL SUE

GENEVA, April 6.—Bela Szabo, widow of the former Hungarian financial counselor, has just died at Salzburg. When her will was opened it was found that she had left her estate to her dog, who was to have horses and carriages, and already has a sumptuous apartment filled with sofas and cushions, which nobody was allowed to enter except by special invitation while his mistress was alive.

This extraordinary bequest was carried out in the same manner. The dog, according to the will of Mrs. Szabo, who was completely forgotten, was determined to contest the legality of the bequest to the dog.

LIMIT EXPIRED.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The limit for settlement of foreign claims against Haiti expired yesterday. None has been settled and this government will begin conferences with Haiti and the foreign creditor nations to determine to be pursued. The claims are for damages to property of foreign subjects during various uprisings. They may be submitted to arbitration.

There followed a massacre that no Guatemalan will describe truthfully. Twenty-five or thirty cadets were killed on the spot, but so quickly were the bodies removed that when Mr. Helmke drove up a few moments later only pools of blood in the courtyard remained to tell of the tragedy, and these were soon washed away. The captain of cadets, who escaped the onslaught, was promised his life if he would reveal the mastermind of the conspiracy. He, the young officer told the President, "so the story runs, that he would not do so. Not one party to the plot weakened, but the widow of a slain cadet, out of gratitude for financial assistance from the government, turned over certain personal effects of her husband, and among them, innocently, some correspondence, it is alleged, which led to wholesale arrests. It is said that in the year following the attempt 500 lives were exacted in retribution for the bullet wound in Cabrera's right hand.

UNHARMED BY ATTACK.

The most recent known attempt upon the President left him unharmful, but cost the life of his coachman, who was a party to the plot of one or two others, and the wounding of a general who was in a carriage with the President. The coachman had been instructed to stop the Presidential carriage at a certain point where a mine was to be exploded beneath it. It was the error of stopping not the carriage, but the coachman directly over the explosive, and upon its discharge, was blown to pieces with the team.

In justice to Cabrera and his methods, it should be added that under his rule, Guatemala has prospered in peace, some republics, notably Nicaragua, while all but died to death from self-inflicted wounds. Its better class are intelligent and fine looking. The public buildings are works of art and the schools are a credit to the country. Strange enough, many Americans in the capital, who prepared to admit almost any accusation against the President, defended his rule and asked how otherwise could he have controlled 2,000,000 people, three-fourths of whom are of Indian blood. They eventually pointed to Mexico under the same Mexican now, adding, "After Cabrera, what?"

'MY MEMOIRS' IS BROODING STORM

Mme. Steinhil at Work, Calls Back Own Figure in Prison Garb.

The Tragic Widow, Tried for Murder, Soon to Publish Book.

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, April 6.—"My Memoirs," by Madame Marguerite Steinhil, will be in the hands of the public within a fortnight. They are now being printed and bound in book form and will go directly from the publishers to the bookstands, not only in all the English-speaking countries of the world, but a French edition to France and other editions in different languages to the different countries will be printed and distributed if there is the expected demand.

What will be the effect of the publication of these memoirs? Will Madame Steinhil reveal all the secrets, state and political, that came into her possession during her remarkable career, or does she know any? Will the book precipitate a crisis in France on account of its exposure of the inner workings of the third republic, or will it fall flat and prove dull and uninteresting? Is Madame Steinhil to use the real names of her many admirers, including a president of France and other high officials of the government, or will the intimate side of her life story remain untold?

These questions are being asked all over Europe, but in France there is uneasiness, if not positive alarm, in some quarters over the forthcoming publication of the book. Every effort has been made to obtain from Mme. Steinhil or her publisher an idea of what revelations, if any, there are in the reminiscences, but without success. It is said that the contents of the book will be revealed until it is put on sale.

GROWS BEAUTIFUL

Mme. Steinhil, in spite of the fact that she is no longer young, has grown positively beautiful during the two and one-half years she has spent in England in seclusion after her acquittal of the charge of having strangled to death her mother and her husband, the latter an actor.

Four years later Mme. Steinhil was called the "Queen" of a certain Bohemian circle in Paris with whom wealthy and prominent men found recreation. She was called the Reclamer of the Third Republic. High government officials, judges, rich merchants and bankers were in her train, and Felix Faure, when he was president of France, came within her sphere of influence and was completely captivated. Mme. Steinhil was with him at the time of his sudden and mysterious death in the Elysee palace during the height of the Dreyfus affair, and was even accused of having poisoned him.

Four years later Mme. Steinhil's brother and husband were strangled to death in the Steinhil home in the Impasse Rossin, and Mme. Steinhil was found bound. She told of the visit of three strange men and a woman to the house and accused them of the murder of her mother and husband. Her story was considered so fanciful that she herself was accused of the crime and placed on trial. The trial was one of the greatest sensations Europe has ever known. And once, while Mme. Steinhil was being examined, she exclaimed:

"Do not drive me too far, or I'll tell everything!"

She was acquitted and her threat to tell everything was never carried into action. The question is whether she will now tell everything and what she has to tell. It is predicted that within a month she again will be as prominent a figure as she was during the exciting days of her trial.

BALLOON BETRAYS IDENTITY OF DR. COOK

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

PARIS, April 6.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, of North Pole fame, has been paying visits to Paris and his daughter, the daughter of the Hotel Dyer. The "Doc" starts today for Berlin, leaving his wife and daughter here.

The little girl of the Cooks was playing with a toy balloon in a park a few days ago and named the evasive bubble the "North Pole."

"That must be a child of Dr. Cook," remarked a bystander, and Dr. Cook who had gotten himself up to look as much as possible like a Parisian, blushed furiously and left the park.

It is said that Cook is writing another book in which he will show how the public can be humbugged by proving first that he reached the North Pole and then that he didn't. This, it is said, will complete his literary work on the subject.

STRIKERS PRAYING INSTEAD OF PICKETING

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 6.—Enjoined by a court order from picketing the factory of the Kalamazoo Corset company, 500 striking corset workers have adopted a new plan.

The hours that have been spent by the workers in waiting about the factory were spent in prayer. They prayed that the employees who remained at work might join in the strike for higher wages and better working conditions.

They camped atop of prayers by injunction, policemen or troops, declared one striker, after she left the hall. "We are going to pray every morning and night. We hope our prayers will be answered."

While the strikers named in the court order have obeyed the injunction, hundreds of strikers from other factories have taken up the work of picketing during their spare time.

CELEBRITIES FOUND IN THE OLD WORLD

LADY CURZON, LADY DALMENY, MISS VIOLA TREE

THE WINNER OF LAST YEAR'S DERBY—MR. J.B. JOEL, WIFE AND FRIEND

ATTACK ON THE KING SHORTENS TROUSERS

BRINGS PEOPLE NEARER HIM

ROME, April 6.—It cannot be said the effects of the attempt on the life of the king have passed, as crowds gather daily under the royal windows, shouting for the king and queen and their children, for the mischief of war, the premier, and any one or anything that comes into their heads, but always in the most loyal spirit.

The queen thought her little son, Prince Humbert, though he is only 7½ years old, should have the danger that was passed through by his parents explained to him, so that he might from childhood understand the responsibility and danger of ruling, as well as the power and honor.

The little fellow listened with great attention and seemed to understand how near he had come to losing his parents; and afterward he expressed the wish to his father that he had been there to protect his dear mamma from harm.

He also wanted to go to see Major Lang, who was wounded, but his royal parents thought him sufficiently excited, as he slept badly all night—dreaming and waking and suddenly shouting in his imagination.

There is great sympathy from all classes for Queen Helena, embraced by her description of what she saw—how the man looked into the first carriage and then stepped back, evidently not finding what he wanted, and then put his hand in his pocket and afterward firing—showing she was, on the quiet, alive.

The same must be the case whenever she goes out, especially with the king. This has been going on for twelve years and will now continue with added intensity probably all her life.

The ordinary person perhaps cannot understand what a strain such anxiety is, but the effects in their worst form are seen in the emperor of Russia, who is a perfect wreck from nervousness, and much stronger military force there than in Berlin.

MARJORIE IDE IS TRUE TO CUSTOM

Daughter of U. S. Minister to Madrid Will Wed Foreigner.

Successful "Monsieur" Cope land Is Really New York Girl.

(By PAUL PIERRE RIGNAUD.)

PARIS, April 6.—The engagement of Miss Marjorie Ide, daughter of Henry C. Ide, United States minister to Madrid, with Shane Leslie, a son of Colonel and Mrs. John Leslie of London, again emphasizes the fact that the daughters of American diplomats in Europe have almost invariably contracted international marriages in late years.

Shane Leslie, though a son of the former Miss Leslie, daughter of New York, and a nephew of Lady Randolph Churchill and Mrs. Winston Churchill, who were Jeanne and Clara Jerome, respectively, is a British subject and the alliance will be another international marriage.

The bride-elect is a sister of Mrs. Bourne Cockran of New York. In accepting a foreigner as a fiancee, Miss Ide is simply following the footsteps of Miss White, daughter of former Ambassador and Mrs. Henry White, who married a German count; Miss Jean Reid, daughter of Ambassador and Mrs. William Reid, who married the Earl of Grandard; Miss Bessie Porter, daughter of former Ambassador and Mrs. Horace Porter, who married a Swiss physician; Miss Helen Morton, daughter of former Ambassador and Mrs. Lord F. Morton, who married the Duke of Valentia; and Miss Lelaishman, daughter of Ambassador and Mrs. John G. Lelaishman, who married the count Gontaut Biron.

COMMENT UNFAVORABLE

The example set by the American representative abroad in allowing these girls to be carried off by titled aristocrats is a matter which is unfavorably commented upon here by Americans, even by the members of the expatriate colony.

Miss Ide will win a castle with her husband, for Shane Leslie will inherit the castle from his grandfather, Sir John Leslie, who, with Lady Leslie, made a pair of doting grandparents, for the young man. Nor will the bride of the younger Leslie lack for social opportunities for her future aunt-in-law, Mrs. George Cornwallis West and Mrs. Freeman still hold commanding positions in the social world of England.

The interest in Miss Ide in Paris is but little greater than that in another American girl, as shown by this anecdote:

"Are those M. Copeland's pictures?" asked Jean Beraud, a member of the jury of the salon of French artists, indicating two canvases that had been sent in for the exhibition which will open on the first of May.

This query by the great painter was evidently prompted by the figures very much met with prompt reply.

"No, but they are Mademoiselle Copeland's work."

"Ah, so much the better," said Beraud; Miss Copeland, whose work was under discussion, is a New York girl and niece of John W. Porter. She has been on the Quai aux Fleurs, beneath the shadow of old Notre Dame Cathedral, and within a stone's throw of where the foundations of the City of Paris were laid two thousand years ago. Both the pictures she sent to the salon were accepted and one is on the list for honors.

The reason for the query of Jean Beraud is two fold. First, Miss Copeland's work is very strong, suggesting the masculine hand and brain and second, she is painting her picture, Raymond Copeland and the casual observers take Raymond for a man's name. Her full name is Mildred Raymond Copeland.

Last year Miss Copeland received a letter from a committee for an exhibition in Chicago asking if Mr. Copeland would send some of the work she exhibited at the Paris salon to Chicago for exhibition.

Miss Copeland is an American, even in education, having studied under John Shannon in London and Richard Miller in Paris. The coincidence Miss Copeland and Miller, who were independently made precisely the same, Miss Copeland took her sketch to Miller's studio for approval and was dumfounded to find almost an exact duplicate on his easel.

AT 90 YEARS TAKES FIRST TRAIN RIDE

SHREBOYGAN, Wis., April 4.—What is said to be his first ride on a steam railway, brought John Mendlik, aged resident of Grimsby, Manitowish county, to the hospital at that city, where the aged man will probably spend the few remaining days of his life. Mr. Mendlik's wife died the day before the date set for the hearing on an application for the naming of a guardian for the old couple. It is now thought that the old man will live long. He is blind and very feeble. Life-long friends of Mr. Mendlik say that he has never traveled on a railway. The death of his wife has been a shock to him and is taking what little strength the man had.

of a cyclonic disturbance in society, by this year she will make no announcement of her plans. She said:

"What I do or do not do is of no interest to anybody but myself. My life is private and utterly insignificant to the public. The only way to serve me or them is to ignore me."

Miss Floyd Arlston, the enterprising American who conceived the idea of opening in London a theater Cabaret after the Parisian style, has developed the scheme and has taken the premises in Haddon street, off Regent street, which she will open next month. She has named Frederick Whelan, formerly Barham, Trin, as manager. The scheme combines the theater with a per club. The show is to be ten thirty and the supper is to be in the auditorium with the showmen, from the audience.

Who They Are and What They Do to Gain Fame

Here are three new pictures of British celebrities.

Lady Curzon, the daughter-in-law of Lord Howe, who is to be Queen of Beauty in Mrs. Cornwallis-West's Eglinton tournament at Earl's Court this summer. Lady Curzon is famous for her charming personality. Tall with golden hair, bluish-rose cheeks and blue eyes, she is typical of the English beauty.

A new portrait is shown of Lady Dalmeny, the daughter-in-law of Lord Rosebery. Lady Dalmeny is a cousin of the present Duke of Westminster. She and her husband are very keen on racing, and during the season are usually seen together at all the meetings of importance.

Miss Viola Tree's engagement was formally announced the other day to Alan Romaine Parsons, the son of the Rev. F. W. Parsons, a Surrey vicar. Miss Tree, who is popular in the artistic circles of society, has played charmingly as an actress at His Majesty's Theatre, and is gifted with a lovely and sympathetic voice, which, together with her dramatic talents, should quickly place her in the first rank of operatic singers, a career which she is pursuing notwithstanding her engagement. Miss Tree is very tall and slight and possesses no small share of her father's humor.

The winner of last year's Derby was J. B. Joel. He is pictured with his wife and a friend at Cannes. Joel is the owner of Spanish Prince and Sunspot, two much-fancied candidates for the Lincoln. Joel is one of the least known owners and has done much as a breeder. Who does not remember the gallant Sumner and his remarkable wins in the Derby, Two Thousand Guineas and Newmarket Stakes last season? Mrs. J. B. Joel takes just as keen an interest in racing as does her husband and they are seldom seen apart at the different meetings.

Mlle. Zola de Stoeckl was recently appointed maid of honor to the Empress of Russia.

we have now," was technical and made for political effect.

The denial was printed in the official North German Gazette, but that the Kaiser has expressed the opinion in practice in the words attributed to him by Colonel Goethals was not doubted and is now practically affirmed by the position of the Emperor that Colonel Goethals was a ally of a branch of aristocracy.

It can be said in the Kaiser's favor that at the same time he caused his denial to be printed here, he did not know that the words attributed to him had been repeated by Colonel Goethals in testimony before a committee of the United States Senate.

But the incident has given new impetus to the movement in favor of limiting the number of Americans presented at the Imperial court to the absolute minimum. One courier is forwarding a statement of the indiscretions of successive Americans who have been favored with private conversations in order that the Emperor may be reminded of the past annoyances.

Representations also have been made to the Empress, who has expressed her displeasure over the Goethals incident. In addition, the Kaiser's sons have been canceled and it is reported that all are in a party favoring the suppression of the social ambitions of the enterprising Americans in Berlin.

FOR POLITICAL EFFECT.

This statement by Emperor William shows that the denial that he has been treated this way by Americans, but I intend that it shall be the last.

BERLIN, April 6.—Emperor William has declared that he will receive no more Americans except Ambassadors and official envoys.

This decision was taken as a result of the interview with Colonel George W. Goethals, the builder of the Panama canal, printed in the United States, in which Colonel Goethals quoted the Emperor with regard to the heavy fortification of the Panama canal.

Emperor William is quoted by couriers, who view with dislike the admission of any Americans to the inner Imperial circle in the following words:

"When I receive visitors it is understood as a matter of courtesy that the conversation remains private and confidential. There is nothing extraordinary about this. It is a rule of polite life and for anyone to do otherwise is a breach of good faith."

MLLE. ZOLA DE STOECKL

AMERICAN SEEKS HOME OF SIR JOSHUA

(Special to THE TRIBUNE by International News Service.)

LONDON, April 6.—It is rumored that Wickhouse, on Richmond Hill, the former residence of Sir Joshua Reynolds, is to be acquired by an American. It is also stated that Mrs. Molbo, who has had a fixed abode since she disposed of her house in Great Cumberland Place, has made an offer for the place.

The house was built for Sir Joshua by Sir William Chambers. It is a fine old mansion, commanding a magnificent view of the valley, and the Thames beneath. It was brought to Mrs. Molbo's attention by her friend, the Duke of Devonshire, who was born in York house, Twickenham, and who is now residing in the center of the valley, many now here preferring to live a little way out of London. King Manuel and his mother Queen Amelia, live around the corner from Wickhouse.

Kald, Sir Harry MacLean's house at Abercorn is a still more pretentious mid-Victorian residence. The Duke of Westminister has again taken the manor house where Gertrude Millar, the Gaiety actress, was often seen last summer. The Earl of Dyar has gone to Ham house. The house of Jersey is entertaining at Osterly across the river.

Lady Bateman, who was formerly Mrs. Henry C. Knapp of New York, and who has been living at Cannes, intends to take her place as a London hostess as soon as she can find a suitable house. Last year she entertained at her husband's beautiful place Shotdown court in Hertfordshire.

Mrs. Joseph Stickney is expected in London soon. She was taken under the wing of Mrs. George Cornwallis West a few years ago and now knows all the smart set.

PLAN MOTOR TOUR.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCreary are also en route to London and will make a long motor tour through England.

The Princess Radziwill, formerly Miss Deacon, and who is now proclaimed the handsomest American woman residing in London, intends to spend the season here and will be welcomed by hundreds of old friends.

The Duchess of Marlborough, who has kept society alive by her large dinners at Sunderland house, is to spend the next few weeks at her villa, Valescure. She is to be with her son, Lord Ivor Churchill, whose health is improving, but who is not yet strong.

Emily Gribble, ward of the late Charles T. Yerkes, who recently sold at auction the furnishings and art objects of the famous "House of Mystery" in New York, given to her by Mr. Yerkes, is in London. Last year she was the center

ASTOR TAKES ONE MORE STEP

Appointed Chairman of Committee to Report on Tuberculosis.

American Government Looking Around for New Embassy in London.

LONDON, April 6.—Waldorf Astor, member of Parliament for Plymouth, the eldest son of William Waldorf Astor, has made another step forward in his political career, which commenced only at the last general election a year ago. He has been appointed chairman of a committee to report upon the problem of tuberculosis in the United Kingdom, in its preventive, curative and other aspects.

Astor has made a special study of the subject, and his first speech in the House of Commons was in support of the government's insurance bill, in which provision was made for dealing with patients suffering from tuberculosis.

Lloyd George, the chancellor of the exchequer, who appointed Mr. Astor, although a political opponent to the chairmanship of the committee, had intended that the funds raised under the act should be employed for sanatoria; but many medical men are absolutely opposed to sanatoria treatment, and it will be the work of the committee to investigate and report on the best way of using the money.

The mortality from tuberculosis has steadily decreased in England and Wales, being less than half what it was in 1860. The death rate, however, is still very heavy, and in 1929 64,425 persons succumbed in England and Wales. The disease is even more deadly in Ireland, but there an active campaign, inaugurated by the Countess of Aberdeen, has been going on for some years and conditions are improving.

DANGER TO DINNER.

Home-rule, Welsh disestablishment and the suffrage question all promise to be eclipsed in the House of Commons by the danger to the members' shilling or 20-cent dinner. There has been a great strain upon the finances of the kitchen committee of the House, and Colonel Lockwood, its chairman, threatens to make up the £12,000 deficit by raising the price of the dinner. Now that each member of the House is receiving a salary of $2000 a year, the legislators may be compelled to pay at least the actual cost of the dinners they consume.

Colonel Lockwood declares that the recipe of the kitchen has not increased since the members began to draw pay, but he intends to get some of this money, even if it means the upsetting of one of the most cherished perquisites of Parliament. The dinner was originally established for the benefit of the labor members, but when the other commonsense saw what their labor colleagues were getting for their money, they deserted the a-lacarte table, until at the present time fully two-thirds of the House partakes of the cheap dinner.

The American government has been looking about London for a home for the embassy, but it is understood, has decided not to make any purchase at present. A very complete report as to the residences available has been sent to the state department.

Heretofore the residence of the ambassador and the embassy offices have been established in separate buildings. Should the United States government decide to purchase a residence, it is understood that the office and living quarters of the embassy would be in the same house. This would necessitate a very large building, for, while the staff is not large, the Americans have to receive a great many more visitors than do the ambassadors and ministers of European powers.

In the first place there have to be separate rooms for the ambassador and his three secretaries and two attaches and a couple of extra rooms for the use of visiting officials. Then there are the sick and, still more difficult to find, a large reception room where the hundreds of Americans who visit the embassy during the summer can be received.

In addition to the offices, the ambassador must have a very large, convenient house, where he can entertain on behalf of his country.

It has been rather difficult to find the right house, but one has been offered to the government which would be eminently suited for the purpose. The cost of the necessary land and residence has been estimated at anywhere from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

WILL REVIVE FAIR.

Bartholomew Fair, which was held at West Smithfield, in London, from 1337 to 1855, will be revived at the "Shakespeare's England" exhibition, which will be held under the management of Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, daughter of the late Leonard Cornwallis-West, at Earl Court this summer.

The charter for the original fair was granted by Henry I. to the famous monk, Rahner, who for years had been Henry's tutor and who founded the Priory of St. Bartholomew, as well as the famous St. Bartholomew's Hospital. The fair was held annually on the feast of St. Bartholomew and lasted fourteen days. When it was first established it was one of the great annual markets of the kingdom and the chief cloth fair of the three. Smithfield as it existed in the early days of the fair will be reproduced and some of the brutal pastimes which grew to mark the festival will be imitated.

OPERATES TO CURE CRIMINAL TENDENCIES

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—Following a successful operation for epilepsy, a cure for criminal tendencies, William Rosenkranz, Jr., 2709 La Salle street, the patient, declared his brain was clearing and he felt better than he had for months.

Rosenkranz was sentenced to nine months in Judge Remond's court for stealing a watch from Miss Martha E. Kline, 4748 Chestnut avenue. His relatives said he was hit by a street car when a small child and has suffered from epilepsy ever since. His brain did not seem right, they said, immediately after the attack of the disease.

He was removed from the jail to the city hospital several weeks ago. Wednesday Dr. A. H. Sewing removed a piece of skull. The doctor said he believed the brain somewhere was responsible for the man's condition and that if the piece of bone would be removed it would cure him.

GEORGE GROSSMITH, SEN. HUMORIST

SOME YOU KNOW AND OTHERS YOU DO NOT

George Grossmith, the famous Savoyard and entertainer, whose last portrait is seen above, died from heart failure, at his home in Folkestone, England, recently, to the everlasting regret of a host of his friends. Grossmith was born in 1847, and at 8 years old he was almost an experienced entertainer in an amateur way. He was a reporter and was later called to the bar, but gave it up to embark on a theatrical career.

Signor Mascagni, the famous composer, is now conducting a special orchestra at the London Hippodrome, where performances of his world-famous opera, "Cavalleria Rusticana," are being given. Incidents in attack and temperamental restraint are the features of his conducting.

Lloyd George's Prediction as to British Finances Proves to Be Right

(By PHILLIP EVERETT.)

LONDON, April 6.—The British financial year, which practically ended yesterday, the new fiscal year beginning tomorrow, gives one more proof of Mr. Lloyd George's remarkable grasp of finance and almost prophetic foresight, for in spite of the immense falling off in exports and imports due to the coal strike, the Chancellor's estimated revenue of £12,621,000 pounds ($208,105,000) proves to be correct almost to a penny. A deficit which the Tories had hoped to see, is at any rate out of the question and when the exact figures become known, it is almost certain that there will be quite a substantial surplus. To Americans it will be particularly interesting to know that the postoffice will show a surplus in the revenue of about $7,500,000 more than estimated. Evidently the railroads of Great Britain are satisfied with smaller spoils than that of America.

LESS MONEY SPENT ON NAVY.

During the coming year Great Britain will spend $1,585,000 less on her navy than last year, unless Germany unexpectedly increases her naval expenditure. The program considerably—a thing which is exceedingly unlikely to happen. When the new financial year begins tomorrow there will, however, be under construction the following imposing number of ships: Ten battleships of the super-dreadnaught class, six battle cruisers, including one each from Australia and New Zealand; eight second class protected cruisers, including two for Australia; two unarmored cruisers; thirty-two destroyers; fifteen submarines, including two for Australia, and two river gunboats.

Of the four battleships provided for in the 1931-32 program, two, the Iron Duke and the Marlborough, have been laid down at Portsmouth and Devonport respectively, and two, the Delhi and the Pembroke, have been provisionally ordered from Messrs. Vickers and Messrs. Beardmore.

Of the battle cruisers, Mr. Churchill states that Lion has carried out her ordinary program of steam trials with the exception of the final acceptance trial, and is now preparing for completion, opportunity has been taken for carrying out certain alterations which experience has shown to be desirable.

The two floating docks for Portsmouth and the Medway will be completed early in the financial year; a small floating dock for test trials has been completed and placed at Harwich; and one for submarines will be completed ultimately at Dover, will be completed at the end of this month.

There is nothing in this ship-building program which can in any way be regarded as provocative by Germany, while

KING DOES NOT ENTER SPORTS.

The duties of an English king, who in comparison with an American President, is a mere figurehead without any real powers of any kind, are not very onerous, but he is expected to give personal encouragement to the sports, dear to the heart of every Englishman. King George, though he still keeps up the racing stable, and it is a well known fact that the queen is very much opposed to racing with its inevitable gambling.

It had been hoped, however, that the king, like the German Emperor, would interest himself in yachting, and that a new "Britannia" would be commissioned to compete and show the royal colors in the principal yacht races at Cowes and elsewhere, but nothing has been done and it is quite certain now that King George has no ambition to win trophies at sea.

The old "Britannia," however, has been thoroughly overhauled and with its new deckhouse, its cabins, and its bathrooms, it is now one of the most comfortable pleasure craft in English waters. It is to be used for short runs during the Cowes week and it is possible that the Prince of Wales may go for a short cruise in her during the latter part of July. Queen Mary, who has no particular love for the sea, will indulge in some boating on the upper reaches of the quiet little Thames, quite in keeping with her rather bourgeois tastes.

ROYAL FAMILY TO VISIT PARIS.

Although nothing definite is known as to the date of the visit of the King and Queen to Paris, it is confidently expected in the French capital that the event will take place in May. Sir Francis Bertie, the British ambassador in Paris, arrived in London a day or two ago, and if the date of the sovereign's visit has been fixed, all the arrangements connected with it have to be made long in advance, and an infinity of details discussed and settled. In one of the State rooms which will be occupied by the King and Queen at the British Embassy, the whole of the furniture has been copied from a set belonging to M. de Preval, when King Edward had seen and admired at his friend's house. This furniture was at the time the embassy was entirely redecorated and refurbished in 1905.

will reach the Emerald Isle on the morning of Easter Monday. An address will be presented on his arrival, and, after breakfasting at Larne, he will proceed by rail to Belfast, via Carrickfergus, where he will receive an address.

A popular welcome, friendly or otherwise, will await the Unionist leader at Belfast. Mr. Bonar Law will proceed, with Lord Londonderry, by motor-car to Mount Stewart via Comber and Newtown, where he will be met by a delegation from the Royal Ulster Agricultural Society's grounds at Balmoral, three and a half miles away. As soon as he arrives, the head of the procession will begin the march past, and at its close Mr. Bonar Law will address the demonstration from the platform, presided over by Sir Edward Carson.

There will be three other platforms, at which the Lord Mayor, Colonel Wallace and Lord Templeton will preside. At the close of Mr. Bonar Law's speech, a resolution will be put forward by the four platforms, denouncing Home Rule, and a large Union Jack will be unfurled. Mr. Bonar Law will be the guest of Lord Londonderry at Mount Stewart, and among those invited to meet him are the Lord Mayor of Belfast, Sir Edward Carson, Lord Charles Beresford, the Marquis of Hamilton, Lord Castlereagh, and other members of Parliament.

A number of English and Scottish Unionist members of Parliament have announced their intention of attending the demonstration and have accepted invitations to stay in Belfast and the neighborhood.

MIGUEL DREAMS OF RESTORING MANUEL

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, April 6.—

The proposed movement to restore King Manuel of Portugal to the throne from which he was deposed by his people will be one of the most formidable ever presented against an existing government, according to the man who expects to lead it, Dom Miguel of Braganza.

The former pretender, who has entered into an offensive and defensive agreement with Manuel, discussed his plans freely today, only insisting that such portions as might be of benefit to the Portuguese government be withheld.

Dom Miguel prefaced his remarks by praising Americans he has met, paying special compliments to Mrs. J. H. Smith, mother of his daughter-in-law and widow of the American speculator, "Silent" Smith.

He emphasized his belief that it is only a question of time when the Portuguese monarchy will be restored, citing recent outbreaks in various parts of that country to support his contention that the present republican government is unstable.

Neither property nor personal rights are respected at present, he alleged, and he said he is satisfied none of the powers would protest against the overturn of the present rule, because no change that could be made could make internal conditions in Portugal worse than at present.

The former pretender explained that he will be commander-in-chief of the army, having made a lifelong study of military methods. He believes he can make the Portuguese army if he has an opportunity, second to none, so far as numbers are concerned.

DREAMS OF COUNTRY.

"I dream of my beloved country and its people," he continued, "and I want to take the field in person and restore real freedom to our oppressed subjects. I want to take our army now degraded from a once great instrument and make it a real fighting machine."

"I am a soldier and I want to practice my profession. This luxury is wearied out of me. I want to live in a barracks. I want to train men. I want to live by day and sleep by night under the same roof as the men who wear my country's uniform. The rank and file of the army, and they will welcome him back and become my loved comrades at arms when he is restored."

"At times I become so homesick for a sight of my native land that I take a walk at each of which places an army of soldiers and spread it in the room where the boy was born, so that I might see his mother and his father."

"Why, when my son, Prince Miguel, was born, I wanted him born in Portugal. When that boy grew up, I wanted him to be a soldier and to be a soldier in my army. I wanted him to be a soldier and to be a soldier in my army. I wanted him to be a soldier and to be a soldier in my army."

A WEALTHY CHINESE RETURNS TO DIVIDE

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—Sam Yet, perhaps America's richest Chinese miner, is about to divide his fortune half and half with Sheriff William A. Hammel. Several local mining men who know the Chinese declare his properties are worth from $500,000 to $750,000. Five years ago he was a prosperous Nevada ranchman with plenty of money and a handsome white wife.

After she died, Sam Yet began gambling and soon lost everything. Hammel, who had known the Chinese rancher a long time and believed in his integrity and ability, loaned him $1000 for a new start. The Chinese went prospecting again, located and sold half a dozen valuable claims in the Goldfield country, and finally found something that looked too good to sell, which he has since been working. Hammel says he never saw the property, but has been shown many rich samples from there. He does not want more than the amount of the loan back, but Sam Yet is insistent.

A better way to punish the window-smashing suffragettes than by sending them to jail would be to make them go home and do the neglected housework.

MARRIAGE LAW OF ITALY'S ATTACKED

Defense of Signora Moschini Undertaken by French Lawyer.

Hints Made of Conspiracy; Case of Importance to American Girls.

PARIS, April 6.—Of much greater general interest to Americans than might appear when it was first set forth in the Moschini-Davis divorce case, now pending in Rome and having an echo in Paris, Signora Moschini, who was Miss Lulu Davis, an American, has chosen her counsel here. This unusual proceeding is due to the fact that her husband, Vittorio Moschini of Venice, is a wealthy and influential Radical deputy in the Italian Parliament and practically has cornered the best legal talent available in Italy. No fewer than twenty-seven lawyers are representing him in the suit for a dissolution of the marriage.

Signora Moschini's counsel, Maître Delhommeau of the Paris bar, has just returned from Rome where he conferred with his Italian colleagues.

He says the result of this case will settle once for all two important points of international law regarding mixed marriages.

First, it will be decided whether an American girl marrying an Italian in Italy and in accordance with Italian law loses de jure and de facto all the privileges of American citizenship.

Second, whether, in some trifling irregularity in the production of the innumerable certificates, documents, etc., required by Italian law to prove the girl's identity and establish her "competence to marry," the husband has the right any time after the marriage to maintain a suit for dissolution on the ground that the certificates not being quite in order, the contract was not a valid one.

From a general point of view this case constitutes a grave warning to American girls of the dangers which may be run by hasty marriage in a foreign country.

It is the opinion of Maître Delhommeau that this case is one of conspiracy against Miss Davis. The ground on which the husband is now seeking the dissolution of the marriage is that his wife falsified the certificates of identity.

RED TAPE ASIDE.

Maître Delhommeau says he is in a position to prove that all the papers necessary for the marriage were produced by Signora Moschini herself, who used her influence as a ministerial deputy to rush all the formalities through and do away with the usual red tape.

Also, according to the Maître Delhommeau, when Signora Moschini, in the spring of 1911, she found it almost impossible to find in Italy lawyers who cared to take up her case and fight it energetically, she was then finally induced to find nothing better to suggest than that she leave the country and live wherever she wished on the $100 a month alimony which her husband consented to allow her.

She then came to France, and passed the month of June at Trouville, after which she was compelled to come to Paris, for her health, already shaken by the trials and anxiety of the whole affair, required serious care.

She then found she could not draw the alimony in Paris, and had recourse to the American embassy, only to be told there that, having married an Italian, she had become an Italian herself, and so could not be assisted by the representatives of the United States, the Italian and the busy matter lay dormant for weeks, the officials there appearing scarcely enthusiastic to take up a case against the powerful deputy.

Signora Moschini had to enter a private nursing home at Neuilly, where Dr. Cuneo, assisted by two well known surgeons of Paris, operated on her for appendicitis. At that time she was able to pay the doctors' fees and the nursing home expenses.

On leaving the home she lived for a time in a furnished apartment and subsequently at the Hotel Villemont, where her luggage was retained by the proprietress, and from which she would have been expelled had not Maître Delhommeau gone bail for her. At the time she was in Paris detectives were watching her closely on behalf of her husband.

WHY HE TOOK CASE.

Maître Delhommeau says he believes Signora Moschini was induced to leave Italy and was left penniless in Paris in order to strengthen the case for the husband. He says she decided to leave only after being specifically threatened with imprisonment for failing to legal documents. Letters containing the same threat were received by her while in Paris, in reply to her announcement that she would return to Italy unless her alimony was promptly paid. It was because of these threats, states Maître Delhommeau, that he took up her case.

"In my quality of general secretary of the League for the Defense of Individual Liberty," he said, "I was glad to come across such a striking case, in which a woman, born in the United States, a free republic, so much akin to the French, was the victim of machination and threatened with being railroaded to prison unless she consented to agree to the dissolution of her marriage with an influential foreigner and politician."

"Immediately sent her back to Rome, where she is now living among friends in the best society, and where she is one of the most admired followers of the Roman hunt. Her husband owed her arrest and I should not have hesitated a moment to apply to the authorities of the United States. I do not believe an American girl, by marrying a foreigner, loses ipso facto her original nationality."

RADIOGRAPH PLATE USED FOR FIRST TIME

SAN DIEGO, April 4.—For the first time in the history of the superior court in San Diego county, radiograph plates were exhibited to a jury to prove an illuminating box in department two of the superior court this morning.

The jury in progress is that of Adolph Finch versus Mrs. Kate Folds for $20,000 damages for injuries received when Finch was run into by Mrs. Folds's auto.

Austin took several x-ray photographs of the broken bones shortly after the accident and Dr. Sheldon took some more recently.

It has always been the custom in the past to exhibit these photographs to the jury by passing them from one juror to another. The new method of radiograph plates in this case changes all of that for the illuminating box comes into play and the picture is shown to all in exactly the same light.

The illuminating box is simply a black box with electric lights inside and a hole in the top through which the light is turned on.

'MAD MONK' IN CENTER OF CYCLONE

Chlysts Thrive in Thirty Provinces; Live Own Peculiar Life.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 6.—Something like a cyclone has recently swept through the Russian church, and near the center of it again the "mad monk" Heliodorus. An end was suddenly put to the monk's amazing ex-territoriality from the civil and ecclesiastical powers. For a presumptuous telegram addressed to the Emperor, accusing the Holy Synod of heretical and uncanonical proceedings, Heliodorus was dismissed from membership in that body. His refusal to depart for his diocese in Saratoff led to its being taken away from him. Finally both he and Heliodorus, who had come up from Taurisyn to wage his battle, were exiled to remote monasteries in Grodno and Vladimir provinces. This order was enforced only after a fortnight of insubordination, in which Heliodorus was sustained by some of the most influential leaders of political and court circles.

Meanwhile, Heliodorus had disappeared in a mysterious manner from the capital, ostensibly to make a pilgrimage. He mysteriously reappeared in Petersburg after a fortnight's absence and was made a show of submission and departed for his place of exile.

The personal element in these sensational developments includes a third figure, Gregory Rasputin, a reputed "holy man" residing in Tsarskoe Selo. He, it now appears, was the power behind Heliodorus, enabling the latter to say and do what he liked, in defiance of the Synod, and of the whole government. The untimely death of Rasputin, Petersburg and Moscow without publishing anything about Rasputin, and the confiscation of about ten issues of different newspapers, including some as influential in ruling circles as the Novoye Vremya and the Vostochny Vestnik, is another manifestation of Rasputin's power. His support was on personal grounds recently withdrawn from Heliodorus and his group with immediately consequences to them.

KEEPS IN BACKGROUND.

Rasputin keeps as much in the background as possible. With all the persons in authority, Rasputin avoided getting into trouble with the Holy Synod, though he has demonstrated repeatedly that the Synod is powerless before him.

This untimely death of Rasputin has gained all his power in six years. He owes his introduction to the ante-chambers of the great to Heliodorus, Heliodorus and Theophrastus, who led the ultra-reactionary movement which came in the wake of the revolution, and provided, ever, restricted himself to the religious sphere of action. Those who came near him conceived an idea that he was a person of extraordinary spiritual powers. Such is the view held in the highest circles. One of the ministers of state who attempted to open the question about Rasputin during the recent visit was told that "Russia exists these six years thanks to Rasputin's prayers."

The Duma views the matter differently. An urgent interpellation on the censorship of the press in connection with Rasputin was adopted with but one dissenting voice. The text of the interpellation produced one of the incriminated articles from the Golos Moskvy challenging the Holy Synod to call upon the author for proof that Rasputin is a chlyst, flagrant sectarian, corrupter of bodies and souls, a spy conspirator against the holy of holies, the Throne and Church Altar.

The charge of being a chlyst conveyed a very definite meaning to the Russian. It means that Rasputin is a priest of the Orthodox church, and he is charged with the duty of leading his flock against the abominations of the chlysts. These sectarians, however, practice the most punctilious of church-goers. When the priest admonishes, they groan and mutter horror of the very practices which they carry on in secret.

THRIVE IN 30 PROVINCES.

The chlysts now thrive in thirty provinces. The most notorious thing about them is their religious meetings (called "chlyst meetings") carried on either with immunity in some secret underground passage or out of the way chamber. On entering the most punctilious of church-goers, the men put in white calico or blue chlyts, reaching almost to the ground, and provided with long sleeves. The meeting communes are allegorically called ships, the presiding prophet pilot, the chlyts, sail. Women put on similar shirts with the addition of a white skirt. They also cover their heads with a white kerchief, with red spangles. All worshippers hold a candle in the right hand and a handkerchief in the left. There have been reports of chlyts, angels' wings. Generally all remain barefooted. If outsiders are present the service is a formal one of reading, diversified with singing and praying. If all by themselves, the chlyts perform a variety of religious dances, of which the chief is the supreme degree, in which the chlyts and writhe in contortions, like madmen, beating themselves on the breast, pulling the hair, sitting down and jumping up, beating each other and crying, "Oh, Ghost, Oh, Tzar, God, intervening prophesy and chants, continue till all drop on the floor exhausted."

In their beliefs the chlyts are scarcely Christian. They call Jesus Christ the "old Christ" in contrast to the constantly manifested new one. To the mysticism is added a dualistic view of the universe, the spirit being a good element and the flesh an evil one. They reject materialism, are abstainers from incense, candles, vodka, farinaceous, rarely smoke practice a democracy and benevolence, thereby attracting the humble and the needy to their fold.

MISS ETHEL CAMERON, an Alameda maid, who entertains considerably.

Season for Opening of Country Homes Has Arrived in Land, Says Suzette

It is the season for the opening of the country homes and the busy hostess is arranging her lists for the year. Invitations must be sent out early, if one would have the guests one most wishes to entertain, and already engagements are being made for the mid-summer. The rainless season makes country life very charming in California, if one knows how to live along very simple lines. If the host knows how to entertain in simple fashion and the guests learn not to expect too much, there may be lived a life that is fairly ideal.

For a hostess in a country home there must be many discomforts, for maids do not care to live in the country and the domestic science problem is a hard one to solve. Supplies are also hard to obtain in the country, so that menus cannot be planned on an elaborate scale. A hostess that is nervous in regard to smaller details has no business planning an establishment in the country.

In the city life it is the woman who formulates the rules of living, but the point of view of the man ought to be considered when it is a matter of country living, and sometimes he is able to quietly measure up his hostess in a way not at all complimentary to her. A clever essayist writes recently:

"Good housekeeping, if it be a virtue, is one to which many others must be sacrificed. In the first place there is the risk of becoming inhospitable; for, contrary to popular opinion, this is the danger, not of the head, but of the good housekeeper. Eager to offer her guests perfection, she is rarely willing to offer them anything else. She is always getting ready to play and never playing; occupying with arranging her house rather than with enjoying it.

"And there is the danger of making a god of routine, and so losing the very object for which she has made her sacrifices—the comfort of those she loves. For comfort cannot be attained by rule. Many time-honored rules of the housekeeper are directly inimical to true comfort. Take, for example, the great coffee cup rule. After dinner we have just settled down comfortably to coffee and cigars when a maid enters to take away the cups."

Health and Beauty Hints

(By MRS. MAE MARTYN.)

ROSE: To rid your skin of that shiny, greasy, yellow look and make it appear charming and youthful, you can use nothing better than a lotion made by dissolving 4 ounces apurmax in 1/2 pint witch hazel (or hot water), then adding 2 teaspoons glycerine. This lotion will clear and whiten your skin, make it smooth and velvety, and give you a beautiful complexion. It costs very little, will not show on the skin like powder, does, and, when you wear a veil, will rub off so easily. This is really a wonderful complexion beautifier, and, one which every woman should use.

PHOEBE: If a strong light hurts your eyes and makes you squint, you should at once take steps to correct this weakness. Get an ounce of crystals and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put a few drops of this soothing tonic in each eye daily and you will soon find your eyes greatly strengthened, clear and sparkling. No remedy has so far been found to equal this excellent tonic for curing weak, inflamed eyes. It makes them healthy and strong and is used by many of the best eye specialists.

M. W.: To permanently remove those hairs, mix a little powdered delatone with water, then spread on hairy areas. After two or three minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is a painless method, and after using the skin is left soft and without a blemish.

N. B. R.: For your chronic condition of the health take a tablespoonful of the following tonic before each meal. Dissolve 1/2 pint alcohol, 1/2 cupful sugar and 1 ounce cayenne; then add hot water to make a full quart. This excellent tonic and blood-purifier gives splendid results in toning up the body, removing hot spots and rashes, clearing the complexion, removing pimples, liver troubles and sallowness. After taking a few doses you will note a big improvement in the condition of your health. It is a powerful energizer and has no equal.

Mrs. T. A.: I do not think it necessary for you to consult a physician about your weight. You can easily remove your hindrance from fat at small expense by dissolving 4 ounces of borax in 1/2 pint hot water, and taking a tablespoonful before meals. This splendid fat-reducer is very safe to take and will not injure your health. It will leave your skin free from wrinkles and flabbiness. No dieting is necessary.

Ida P.: You can't be too careful about the shampoo you use. Soap and powder should never be used on the scalp. To properly cleanse your hair and scalp of lice water, you hair will rinse easily, dry quickly without streaking or brittleness, and take on an added lustre and softness that will last. No shampoo is so effective for removing dandruff, scalp irritation and promoting hair-health by keeping the scalp perfectly clean.

Mrs. S. M.: Your complexion is shiny from the use of greasy cold cream and 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine in 1/2 pint cold water, and use this greaseless beauty cream night and morning, you will not be bothered with a muddy, greasy complexion. It will make your skin ever so soft, smooth and beautiful. It clears and refines the skin as no other cream I have ever used will, and is a sure preventive against chapping, blackheads and enlarged pores.

C. W. R.: Oils, vaseline and most of the dopes called "hair tonics" will never help your hair and scalp troubles. The best remedy for ridding your scalp of dandruff, itching and stopping your hair from coming out is made by mixing together 1 ounce quinine, 1/2 pint alcohol and 1/2 pint cold water. This dependable remedy will make your hair olive glossy, but will make it soft and pliant. Used twice a week it keeps the scalp in a healthy condition and promotes a vigorous growth of glossy hair.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPING AND THE OTHER KIND.

One is tempted to quote another most illuminating paragraph:

"Nowadays when a man asks me to stay with him in the country I feel inclined to ask: 'Is your wife a good housekeeper?' For if she is I know how it will be. When I go up to dress on a hot summer evening all my shutters will be shut and the lights burning for me like furnaces. When I come down again the book I was reading will be put away and I shall never be able to find it. I shall be waked at dawn by the sound of a brush on the stairs and when I go away the simple articles of my toilet will be rolled so heavily in tissue paper that my bag won't close. No, the good housekeeper should make a study of a little wholesome neglect. And, to be honest, I find that most of them have."

In England the hostess always reserves her mornings for herself. Breakfast is a movable feast. One has it in her own room or in the dining room in a most unconventional fashion. One is bored to death when the hostess spends all her time with her guests. She is simply working overtime. One would like to explain to her the joy of a hammock and a book and a whole long restful morning undisturbed. But in the afternoon it is different. One expects to give of one's best in this home in which one is a guest. It is a fine thing to feel that the home is a brighter place for one's being there. And one must remember not to add to the bills of the hostess with many telephone switches and one must remember also that somewhere is a skeleton in the household marked "laundry." And these things being remembered country life becomes a joy forever.

MANY COUNTRY PLACES ARE OPEN.
Many of the country places have been opened for some days and there are house parties established for the Easter holidays. Other homes are being prepared for the May days, when many people expect to go to the country. Far afield in the Sierras are the country homes of Mrs. Hearst, Thomas Williams, Charles O. Wheeler, Dr. Hubert Moffit, Mrs. Harold Spence Black, Charles Bliss, E. G. Lukens, Frank Woodward.

In the Los Gatos foothills and in the Santa Cruz mountains many well-known people have established delightful country homes, among them Frank L. Brown, E. A. Heron, Edgar Bishop, Mrs. Horace Hussey, Judge S. P. Hall, A. P. Holland, Arthur Breed, W. H. High, A. A. Long, John F. Smith, Dudley Kinsey, J. P. Edoff, A. J. Rakston, Wallace Alexander, the Misses Selby, Frank Brigham, O. S. Orrick, Robert Knight.

For country places nearer home we have the Hacienda, Mrs. Hearst's country place at Pleasanton, and Villaremi, Mrs. Chabot's home at St. Helena. In all these many homes are guests in the long summer days and in most of them one finds a hospitality that is truly delightful.

THOUSANDS CROWD HEARST GREEK THEATER.
By far the most notable event in many weeks was the great Good Friday observance at the Hearst Greek Theater. There has perhaps never before been such an outpouring of people, for the Greek Theater, which seats 7000, was packed to its capacity and the hillside showed crowds of people unable to gain admission. It was a wonderful sight. The great beauty of the Greek Theater grows upon one, situated as it is high up in the heart of the hills in the midst of the towering trees. It made a fitting environment for one of the most solemn celebrations known to the Christian world. Nearly 2000 years ago there was Christ's memorable pilgrimage to Calvary's heights. Down the ages later it is commemorated on a high hillside, in a far distant land by a reverent crowd of people, to whom the Christian religion has brought its great message. It was a helpful and inspiring sight, a never-to-be-forgotten pageant—the most wonderful prayers sung in musical numbers of greatness and sublimity.

They have great Wagnerian festivals off there in Bayreuth, and they have every ten years a great pageant at Oberammergau, but it is doubtful if either can in the future equal the great Good Friday commemoration in our Greek Theater at Berkeley. On Friday we demonstrated that this could be possible.

There has never been a chorus on the stage at the Greek Theater so near perfection as the one on Friday afternoon. Their dignity was in harmony with the theme of the day. The singing was full of feeling, the shading exquisitely done, it was a chorus well proportioned, the music beautifully sustained and it was made up of men and women of whom we were justly proud. Never has a leader done better work than our own Paul Steinhardt. Comparisons are not always in order, but he has had to measure up against Walle, the late symphony leader at the university, and against Henry Hadley, the symphony leader of San Francisco. He is their peer always, and in some ways he excels both of them. He makes no personal appeal to an audience. He is absorbed in his music, and there is a straight-

MACDONOUGH

Miss Elsie Janis who for three or four seasons was known as the wonder child of the American stage by reason of her marvelous mimetic ability as demonstrated in her imitations and characterizations of famous actors and actresses of Europe and America, has now graduated to full stellar honors as a comedienne and at the early age of twenty-one has also gained some slight fame as a dramatic author. Everybody knows of the success Miss Janis made under the management of Charles Dillingham in "The Boyden" and later in George Ade's comedy, "The Phil Co-Ed." Last season Mr. Dillingham secured for her a vehicle which required a considerable extension of her abilities, and talents along the lines of legitimate comedy, while it still offered her ample opportunity to display her matchless gift of mimicry and protean accomplishments as a dancer and interpreter of humorous songs. This new musical comedy, for it is a musical comedy in three acts—is entitled "The Slim Princess," and will serve as the vehicle for the introduction of Miss Janis to local theatergoers. Miss Janis will appear tomorrow night at the Macdonough Theater for three nights. As the title will indicate, to most readers of light fiction, the name is taken from George Ade's ludicrously funny novelette dealing with the adventures of a Turkish belle of high degree who found it impossible to accumulate sufficient avoirdupois to even enter the beauty class among the women of her native country where the criterion of feminine charm is measured by the redundancy of curves. The Princess Malora simply couldn't get fat enough to please her "pa" and her "ma" and the many fastidious gentlemen who might have been envious for the honor of her hand in marriage. Telling Mr. Ade's whimsical idea from the novelette, Henry Blossom, author of "The Red Mill," and "Mile Modiste," wrote an excruciatingly funny libretto to which Leslie Stuart, the composer of "Floradora" furnished a heartily illustrative musical score. Miss Janis enjoyed a year's fun in "The Slim Princess" at the Globe Theater, and subsequent engagements in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and the other large Eastern cities were equally notable.

Jock McKay was with Lulu Glaser in "The Phil Co-Ed" and many months ago. When he got an offer from the Orpheum management to return to vaudeville he jumped at it and is here again with his bagpipes and kilt, a fund of stories and a mental vault crammed with wit, humor and all the rest. McKay is a Scotch comedian of the Lauder school.

Not unfrequently something difficult presents itself from an old unexpected quarter. Even in athletic tennis who have developed mentally as well as muscularly offer novelties. One of these teams is Alvin and Kenny, eccentrics on the drying rings. These two young men have thought out many original poses and introduced a creditable vein of comedy. Their work is clean and deserves credit.

Another English novelty popular at the London music halls and to be seen here for the first time is "The Whittakers." These two clever Britons will be seen in a refined tabloid burlesque called "Dick Whittington." There are few unfamiliar with Whittington's famous cat.

Mike Bernard and Amy Butler will appear tomorrow night at the Macdonough Theater for three nights. maid waiting on the table, and the young couple are in a lovely pink atmosphere of the first month of married life. Rhyme and Reason enter as the husband rises from the table. The former urges him to take a day off, while Reason warns him to attend to business. When Everywife leaves the breakfast room to get him his hat and overcoat, Jonny enters. She is an old friend and Everyhusband kisses her just as Everywife returns. An explanation, very naturally, is demanded. Reason urges Everyhusband to tell the truth, but Rhyme advises that he lie. He does lie, and Everywife sits down at the table and bursts into tears as Rhyme and Reason leave the house. Happiness enters and gives notice that she will leave at once.

Everyhusband calls up an intelligence office for another maid, and then enraged by his wife's sobbing, knocks over a chair and leaves the overcoat just before the curtain falls. The new maid, Care, arrives. The second scene shows a stage door, just off Broadway, Vanity, Dress, Gaiety and Beauty leave the theater and are met by Gamble, Money and Highlife. Everyhusband enters with Rhyme and Reason, just as Squabina comes out of the stage door. He invites her to supper of course, in spite of the admonition of Reason, who warns him to beware of his reputation.

Finally poor, silly Squabina, whose slang and bad grammar are deliciously comical, lingers for a Reason for a moment and then advises Everyhusband to go home and square things with his wife. In the third scene Everyhusband is seen in his club with Gamble, Drink, Sporty, Rhyme and all the rest of the "good fellows." Reason stands with his face to the wall as the merry crowd sings songs and drinks champagne. At last Reason turns round and Everyhusband throws Rhyme's advice aside and concludes to go home. The last scene is in the home once more many months later.

Everywife, a mother, is being nursed by happiness and is watched over by Everyhusband. Reason is an honored guest and Rhyme is not treated seriously. "Ah," says Reason, "in the present joy who will remember the worry and unhappiness of the past?" and the colored servitor appears above a screen in the corner and says, "Gladioli."

In "A Breeze Broadway" George McKay and John Cantwell will return to the Orpheum to remind theatergoers of their last season's success. "The Policeman and the Pickpocket." Their latest skit is a satire on the white light district of New York and is said to be one of the cleverest things produced this year in vaudeville.

Janis is supported by Joseph Cawthorn, one of the best known and most popular comedians now before the public, who will again appear in his genial character Her Louis von Schloppenbauer, tutor of the Princess Kalora. Others in the cast are Julia Frary, Douglas Stevenson, Queenie Vassar, Estelle Baldwin, Charles Juels, Florence Williams, Sam Burbank and many others.

"THE BALKAN PRINCESS."

In that vague geographical belt denoted by "Arms and the Man," "The Prisoner of Zenda" and other neo-political romances lies Zenda, the kingdom of "The Balkan Princess," whose woes and hardships come to the stage of the Macdonough theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Miss Louise Gunning will assume the task of explaining the plagues and rejections of the Princess Stephanie, whom a scheming prime minister has adjudged too weak to rule alone. She must marry or abdicate. A bevy of grand dukes are marshalled across the field of choice. Will the princess choose? She will not. Will a certain Grand Duke Sargus choose? He will not. Rather, he will retire to a long-haired Bohemian cafe and write scintillating paragraphs for the yellow Balkan journals, a most low and unchivalrous line of conduct. To the cafe comes the princess to see for herself. After the established custom of mutual antipathies, incognito, they look and love. Until the duke has the misfortune to climb on a chair and propose a toast "to the downfall of the Princess Stephanie of Balakollege comedy," "The Phil Co-Ed." Last season Mr. Dillingham secured for her a vehicle which required a considerable extension of her abilities, and talents along the lines of legitimate comedy, while it still offered her ample opportunity to display her matchless gift of mimicry and protean accomplishments as a dancer and interpreter of humorous songs. opera singer of the day, is, of course, the first interest in the play, and she quite regally rules her domain and trills her troubles and triumphs. Under all conditions she is a charming prima donna, endowed with an abundance of personal attraction, but especially favored with an exceptional voice.

YE LIBERTY

"The Virginian," as dramatized by Owen Wister and Eike La Shelle from the former's novel, is the splendid attraction the Bishop Players will offer Ye Liberty patrons for Easter week, beginning tomorrow evening. It will be positively the first time this well known play has been presented anywhere by a stock company, which means its initial presentation at popular prices, and the popularity of both the play itself and the story from which it is taken should test the capacity of the theater during its run.

"The Virginian" is the ideal Western play. It fairly pulsates with the fresh, vigorous, active life of the young West, with sturdy ranchmen, cowboys and the brisk, alert women of the pioneer generation as fair samples of the community which the author has chosen for his subject. The story told by that interesting group of characters is one of the most thrilling ever put into a play. And, although the feud of the nameless hero and Trampas probably is the most prominent feature of the story the love interest has its place as well, for the romance of the sturdy young cow-puncher from the South and the little school teacher from Vermont, is as pretty told as any love story of recent fiction.

In the presentation of "The Virginian" at Ye Liberty next week Sidney Ayres will be seen in the title role, and Miss Nana Bryant as Molly Wood. Both

ORPHEUM

Two exceptionally interesting features mark the Oakland Orpheum program Sunday as worthy of every theatergoer's attention. "Everywife" is to be produced during Easter week, and the week will also be made notable by the debut in vaudeville of George Soule and Spencer.

The long heralded and widely advertised production of "Everywife" is to be made at the Oakland Orpheum next Sunday. The feature has been so highly praised in its tour through the country that Oakland theatergoers anticipate its coming with a vast deal of pleasure. George V. V. is said to have received his inspiration in the famous play called "Everywife."

"Everywife" is a symbolical play in four scenes. There are more than twenty players in the cast. Nearly an hour is consumed in its presentation on the stage. Three carloads of special scenery are used for the production. Altogether it is the most elaborate feature the Orpheum people have ever imported to the Pacific coast.

The characters, from Nobody, who in black face and servant's garb, speaks a prologue before each scene, to Everywife and Everyhusband, run the scale of human qualities and desires, which make modern life complex for the ordinary young married couple.

The story is told in a simple manner with humor and force, and one can well understand how the form of play of which this is an epitome, modernized, hold audiences spellbound in the long ago. The new scene shows Everywife and Everyhusband at breakfast. Happiness is the

MOLLIE E. CONVERSE

CAN YOU WEAR THE LOW NECKED BLOUSE?

By LILLIAN RUSSELL.

(Copyright: 1912; by Lillian Russell.)

TIME is relentless and graces his lines upon beautiful women as well as plain ones. The wiles of beauty do not tempt him into forgetfulness of his mission, and as the years roll by for each a little touch here, a tint there to remind all that he is eternal and impartial.

The neck is the first part of the body that Father Time wages war against. Unless one is extremely careful it not only tells all of one's years, but adds quite a few for good measure.

It rests with the woman whether or not she will assist Father Time in his line making, or by rational living and the right kind of exercise hold some of the evidences of his inroads in check. There is no part of the body responds so readily to care as the neck. If too thin a little of the right sort of massage, a little heed to the care of carrying the head correctly, a little care in deep breathing will soon remedy it. If it is too short and fat another set of exercises and the correct kind of massage, a little care in dressing it will soon remedy this ill. The neck is docile. All it asks is a hint of what you wish it to do.

A sculptor sometimes molds plastic clay into the semblance of a face and then as the subject requires or his mood inspires him, he wreaths the lips in smiles, puts a mischievous dimple in the cheek or he fashions the lips into drooping curves of grief, or corrugates the brow with frowns. The clay hardens, the lines remain, the expression is fixed. All the ages cannot change it.

Lesson for Every Woman.

Yet before time had irrevocably set these lines upon that plastic face the sculptor could have changed them all. The face itself is powerless, for it belongs to a lump of soulless clay. It is passive.

There is a lesson in this for every woman. Does it not teach that woman may be but passive clay when

"The Neck Responds Readily to the Right Kind of Treatment. If the Neck is Either too Fat or Too Thin Massage will Remedy It"
Says Lillian Russell

Be sure to powder your neck as carefully as you do your face.

Learn to hold your head up and your chin well in.

she fails to respond to that soul within her which enables her to mold her own life and nature, that Time will fail to establish on her aught but his own unavoidable traces?

If she remains passive and allows an indifferent, lazy, undisciplined and perverted nature to become the sculptor who shall mold her with Time, is she not more deserving of censure than pity when she meets the scowling reflection of her own wrinkled face and neck?

One of the first neck wrinkling habits to overcome is a wrong position in sleeping—the arrangement of the pillows. Some people always sleep on the right side with their heads propped up with high pillows. The result is wrinkles, and while they may apparently sleep well, they are sure to become lopsided. The thing to do is to change frequently from one side to the other. Occasionally lie upon the back, which by some is considered the most healthful position, as the internal organs then fall more nearly in their normal position than when they are propped up on one side, away from their own pillow.

If one insists upon sleeping upon his side, of the two sides the right is the more healthful one, since there is then no pressure upon the heart and its action is unimpeded. The circulation of the blood is more active when the body and the limbs are straight and this position is also conducive to perfect physical development.

Keep Body and Head on Level.

The body and the head should be on a level. Then the circulation is uninterrupted. When the head is bolstered up by high pillows the muscles and cords of the neck are strained, the spine is twisted, and many destroying habits are the result.

Many young girls and women have a habit of sitting or leaning in a one sided fashion, which sooner or later shows its results in the shoulders and neck. One of the shoulders becomes higher than the other and the collar bone is forced out in unattractive prominence. This is especially the case with those whose duties compel them to sit several hours daily at a desk. The right shoulder inevitably becomes higher than the other and this condition is the occasion of many a badly fitting dress. As time wears on the effect becomes more apparent and the opportunity for remedying it is beyond recall.

The remedy lies in watching oneself carefully and equalizing the position, so that the lopsided result may be avoided. Avoid the drooping position, too. The back should be flat, the shoulder blades should not protrude. Remember to keep in mind the thought that the neck is a part of the spine and is on a straight line with the spine. Hold the chin up and in. This position will do away with the hollows in the neck, take off the double chin, and give one a graceful carriage. A neck, no matter how smooth, can never be attractive when it is thrust forward like a gander's.

A well proportioned neck is a great beauty. It should not be too short, but it should be well proportioned to support the head. It should not be too fat or too thin.

The skin of the throat, neck, and chest shows more quickly than any other part of the body the lack of care. The pores of the skin become coarse, pimples appear, and the neck is reddened.

This is due often to the lack of careful bathing. The tight high collars are bad for the neck. They wrinkle and wither it in a short time.

Exercise to Reduce Fat Neck.

If the neck is short and fat the following exercises will help: Throw the head back as far as possible, thrusting out the under jaw at the same time, so that the whole chin will feel stretched and drawn out flat. With the chin still kept on the stretch turn the head first to the right and then to the left.

These exercises if persisted in will help the long, thin neck as well as the short, fat one, and will give firmness and symmetry to the chin. One of the most famous of American actresses uses this exercise for five minutes regularly every night before retiring. After first using them the muscles of the chin will feel sore, but that shows the effectiveness of the movements and that the muscles are getting the needed exercise. It is at the junction of the neck and the chin that the withering process of age begins.

The neck stretching exercises will also decrease the little mass of fat that many women accumulate at the years go on, which is located at the nape of the neck.

It really is not difficult to massage the neck for oneself. I always massage my neck. Place the fingers of one hand opposite to those of the other, so that spread out they meet in the middle and then in a movement in which the fingers describe small circles, go carefully all over the entire surface, front and back.

Upon the ribs is a thick layer of muscles which are attached along the length of the breast bone on each side. If these muscles are thin and flabby, the neck will be described accurately by the word scrawny. Of course, this flabby condition of the muscles is concealed when the layer of fat, always found to some extent under the skin, is sufficiently thick.

"A well proportioned neck is a great beauty," says Miss Russell.

Do not allow the head to droop if you would have a beautiful neck.

Exercises such as extending wide the arms or bringing the elbows backward trying to meet them in the middle of the back and the use of dumb bells will develop these underlying muscles and greatly improve the neck. Increasing the circulation by massage will help the condition of the thin neck as well as reduce the too great deposit of fat. Generally if the neck is thin the whole person is thin. In that case measures should be taken to improve the general health.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MABEL: Plain yellow vaseline is good for increasing the growth of the lashes and brows. Melt a small amount of vaseline and apply to the roots of the lashes with a small camel's hair brush. Be exceedingly careful not to get any of the vaseline into your eyes, as oil of any kind irritates them. Bathe your eyes frequently in cold water, using friction. This will help the puffy condition of your eyes. Gentle massage with a good skin food is also good. Be careful not to press the eye ball. Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I shall send you the formula for an excellent eye wash. French tonic for eyebrows, and the formula for the skin food I have used for over twenty years, with directions for facial massage.

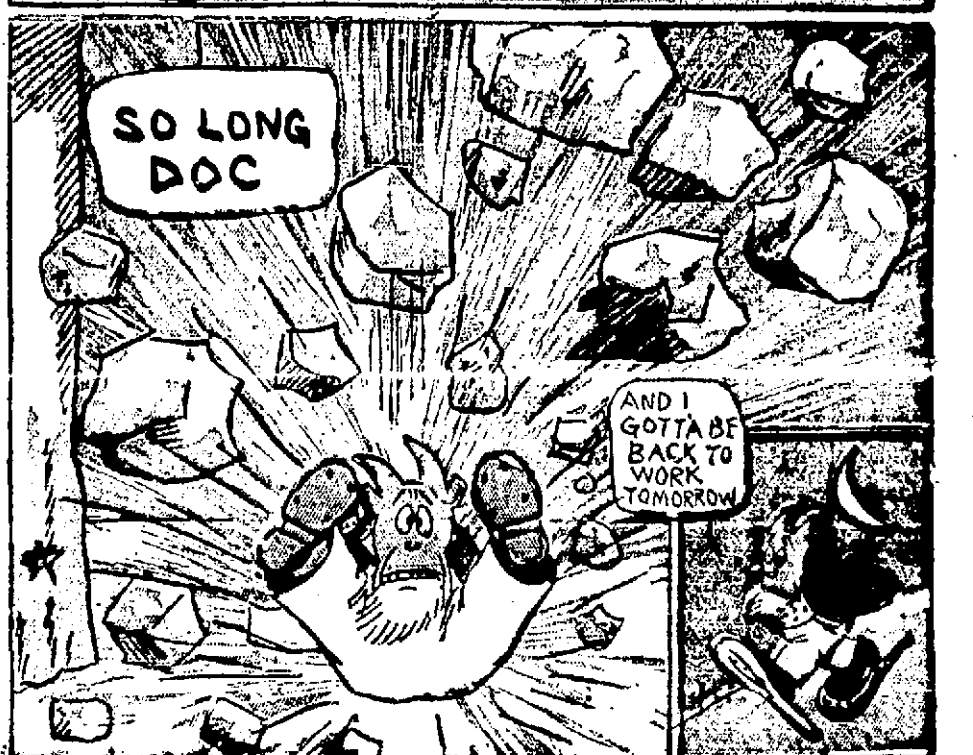

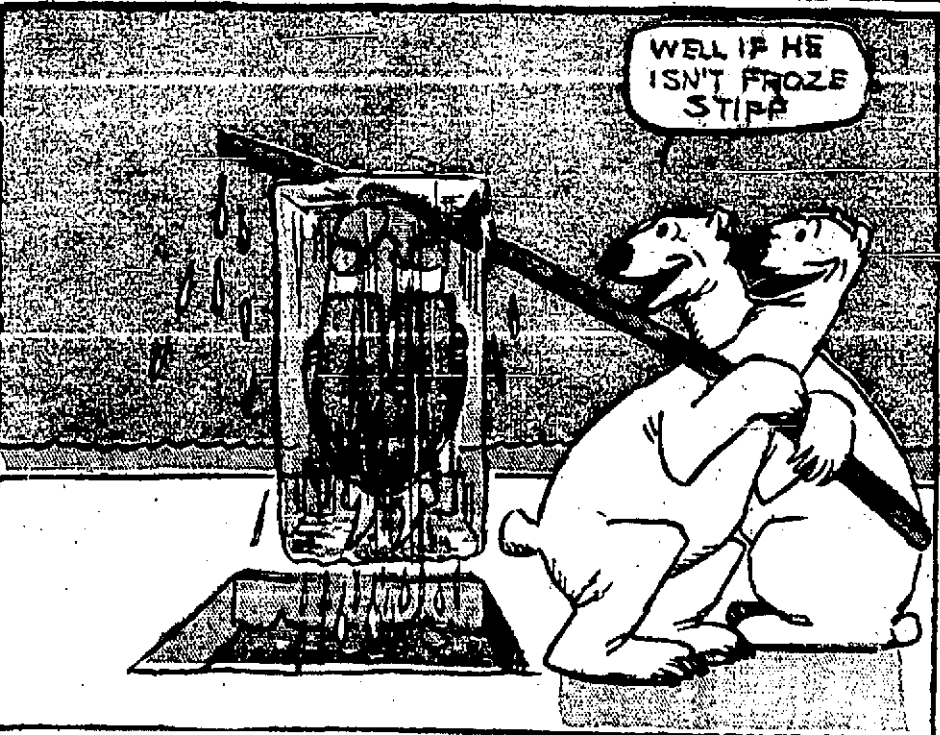

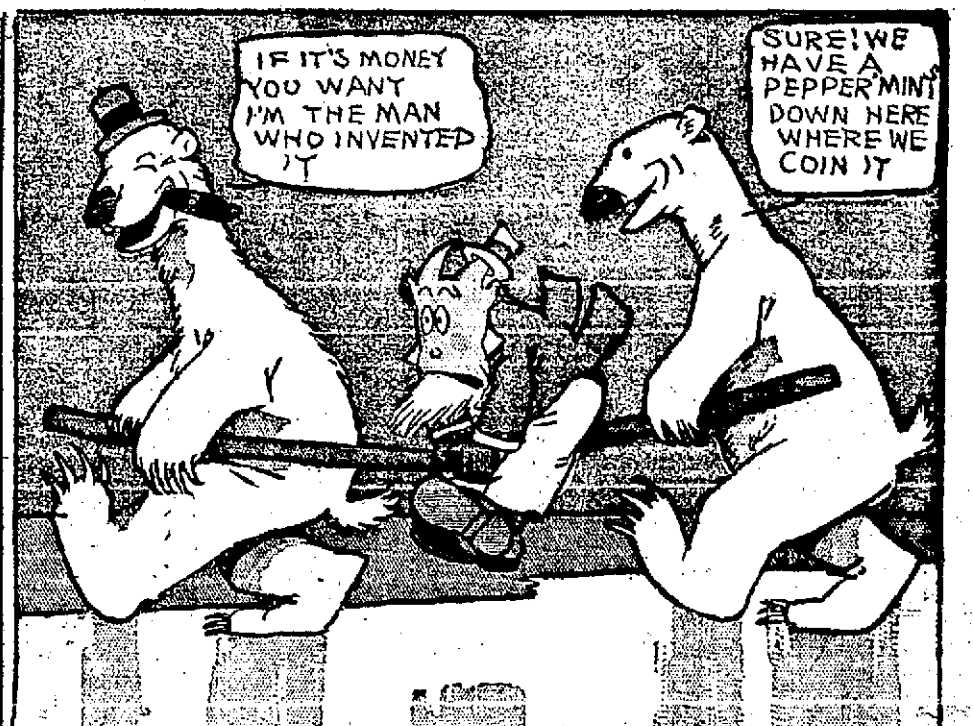

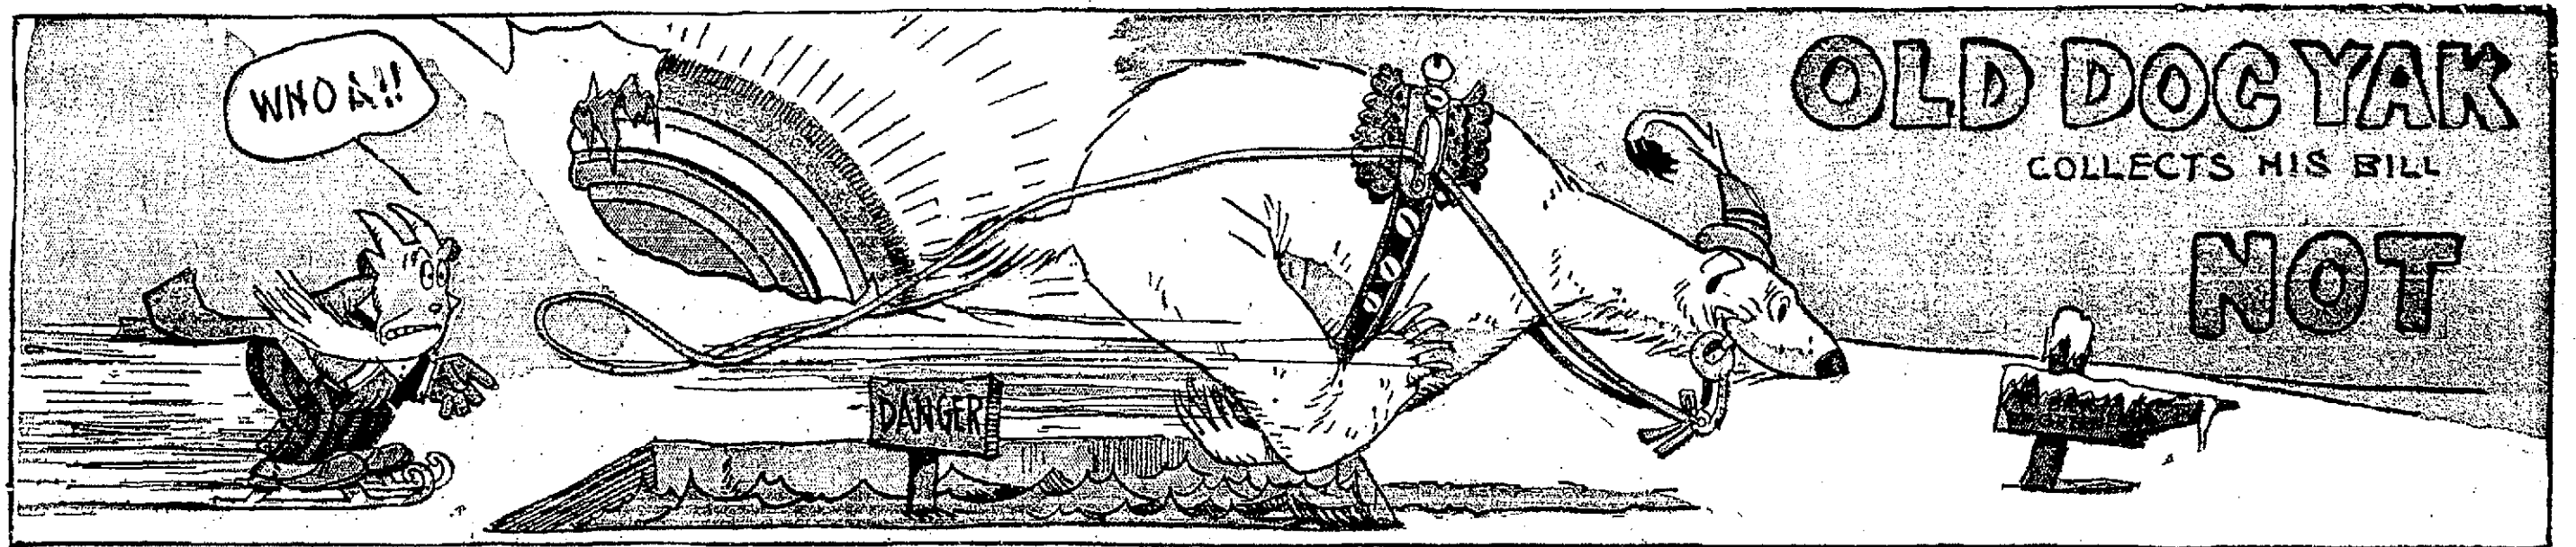

B. L.: The following lotion is good for chilblains: One ounce basilicon ointment, one-half ounce liniment of camphor, and one-half ounce spirits of turpentine. Mix and apply to affected parts. Tight shoes or thin stockings should not be worn.

MRS. K.: When constipation exists take one teaspoonful of phosphate of soda in a glassful of hot water an hour before breakfast. Drink slowly. A teaspoonful of salts in a glass of water is also good. This should also be taken before breakfast. As a topical application for liver spots take one-fourth ounce borax, one-eighth ounce tincture benzoin, and rosewater enough to make four ounces. Apply to the spots at night after washing.

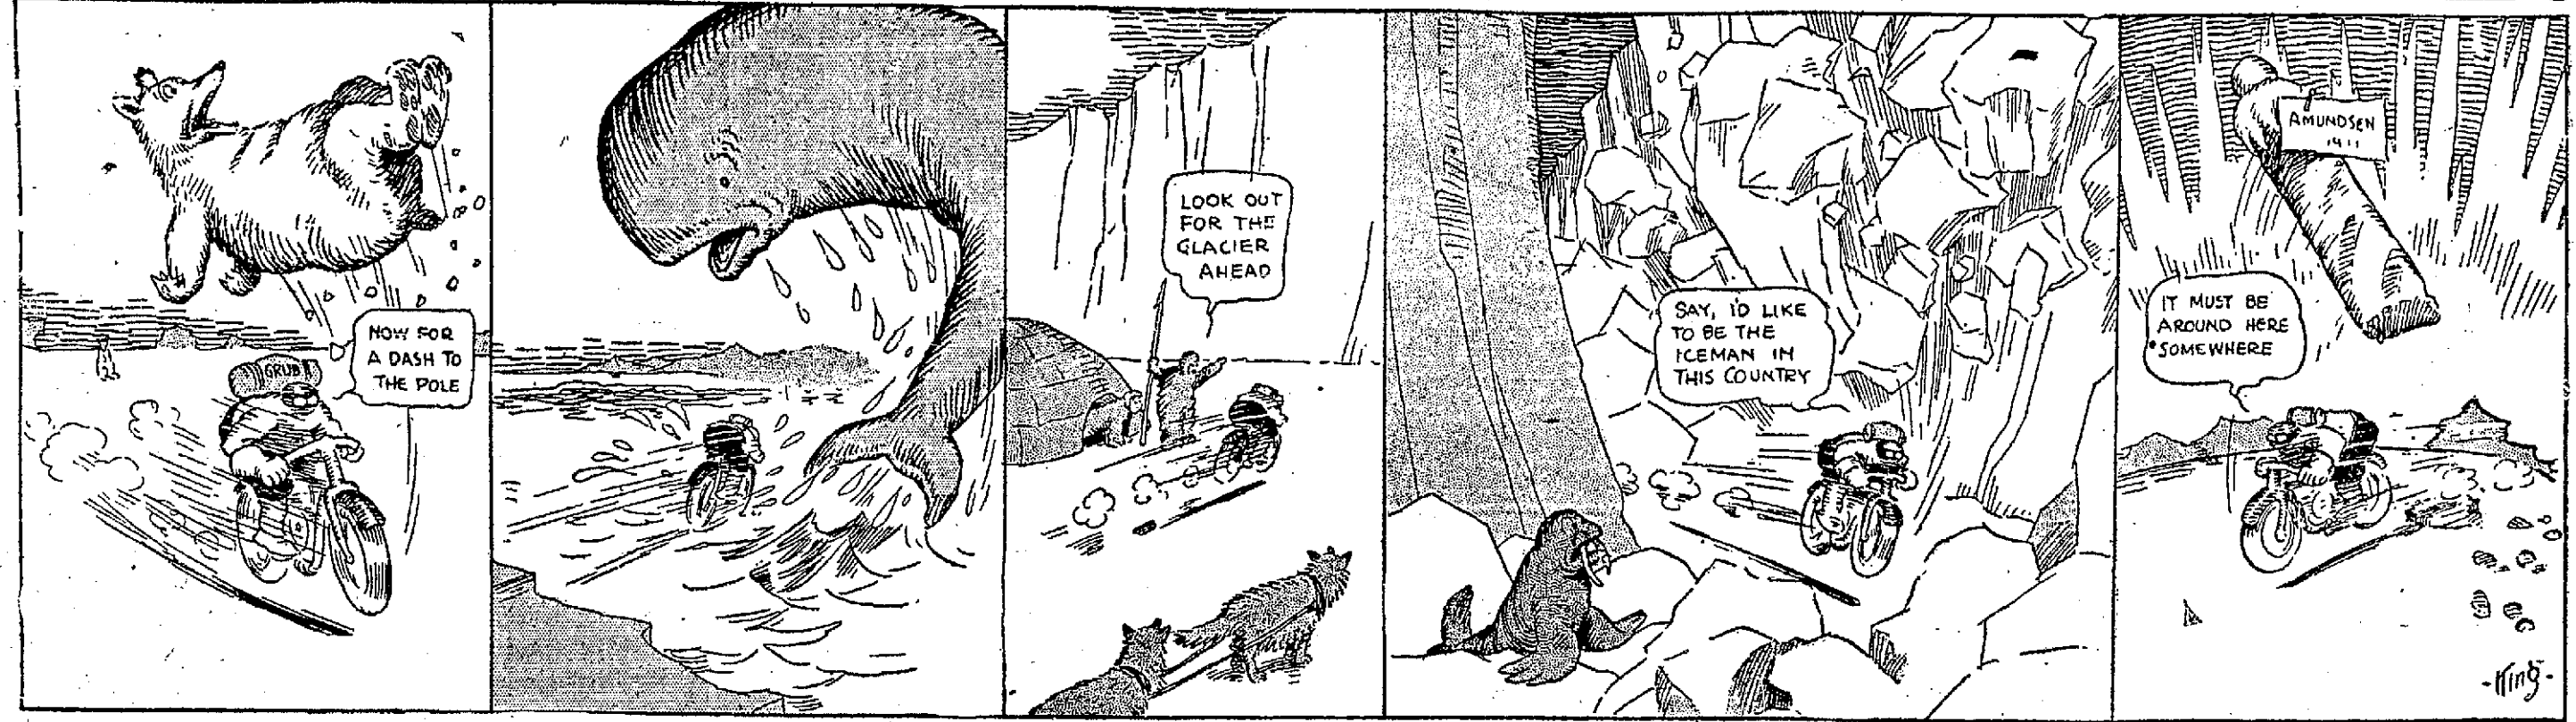

T. N.: An offensive breath is certainly disagreeable. It is generally caused from indigestion, or are you sure your teeth are in perfect condition? Often this is the cause of an offensive breath. The following is an excellent wash: One gram phenic acid, 25 grams borax acid, 55 drops glymol or menthol, 10 grams tincture of anise and three pints of distilled water. Rinse the mouth with this wash after each meal or at any time required, using one-half tooth wash to the same quantity of clear water. I have sent you the formulas for green soap treatment for blackheads, cold cream, astringent lotion, and tonic for eyelashes and eyebrows.

OLD OPIE DILLDOCK'S STORIES.

(Copyright, 1912, by The Tribune Company, Chicago, Ill.)

The next day I became quite chummy with the baboon that had befuddled me, so I made arrangements with him whereby he was to go out with me that morning and help capture a pair of leopards. We ventured out bright and early and before long came upon our quarry. I was riding the back of the baboon and he was making wonderful strides toward them. Coming close to them I hurled my lariat. They were running almost neck and neck, and with a deft movement I flourished the lasso and it caught each of the leopards by the tail, tying them together.

Finding they could not run tied as they were, they started doing what is known as the "giant swing"—one leopard pulling the other over until both went hurtling over the ground like a giant pinwheel. We permitted them to cover a few miles in this fashion, when I whispered to the baboon and told him what was expected of him. He responded gallantly.

The baboon, with a mighty leap, carrying my dead weight, grasped one of the leopards by the fore feet. I sprang from his back and caught the other leopard by the feet. Thus we formed a complete wheel, and so great was the momentum at which we were going that we blurred the landscape in our rolling.

We approached a cluster of big trees, checking our pace but slightly. As we came within a few feet of the trees I spoke to the baboon and we shoved the leopards up and forward simultaneously. They fell on either side of a big limb of a tree, their tails holding them securely captive. Then I gave one of my cigars to the baboon and we congratulated each other.

Assailed School Directors of Berkeley Attack Recallers at Mass Meeting

Mayor Wilson Deplores the Attack Upon Portion of His Administration

BERKELEY, April 6.—The incumbents of the school board against whom the recall has been invoked—Mrs. Elmer Carlisle, Herman J. Stern and John A. Wilson—had their first innings in the campaign tonight at a well attended mass meeting at Kellogg hall. Mayor J. Stitt Wilson was the leading speaker for the incumbents, others who spoke being Stern and Wilson. Dr. Herman Briggs presided. Mrs. Carlisle is still at Fabiola hospital and could not attend. Mayor Wilson accused the recall party of attempting to disrupt the administration before it had well started on its career. He deplored the recall campaign as useless and a destroyer of municipal progress. He declared Superintendent F. F. Bunker had abused his position in starting the recall. Director Stern made the second leading speech of the evening, and gave four reasons in defense of himself and fellow board members, as follows:

That many citizens were opposed to Bunker; that his exercise of the duties of his office was in violation of the charter; that Bunker's personal character was difficult to cope with, and that in Morris C. James, Bunker's foe had a better man for the place.

WILSON GIVES REASONS. Chairman Briggs' introductory remarks were brief. Commissioner John A. Wilson spoke shortly on the reasons that had impelled the board to the actions which originated the recall and deplored the cost and confusion that would result from the campaign.

The address of Mayor Wilson was in part as follows: "I regret very much that some citizens have thrust this recall election upon us, thus interrupting the growing civic unity and progress of our city affairs. Instead of quarreling with one another over Mr. Bunker, we should be proceeding with our work on the incinerator, now laid aside until the light is over. We should be taking the proper steps to establish a municipal water system. This must rest. My report is almost ready on a municipal lighting plant. This must lie in abeyance. The whole city was united on a flower festival for May Day. This was finally made impossible through this recall strife. Weeks have been spent in adjusting our city needs to our limited finances. This election is a needless expenditure of city money for a second defeat to a set of politicians inside of a year. In short, every civic affair is interrupted to gratify this civic strife and ambition of a few defeated political opponents.

DEFIES RECALLERS. "I say that every citizen cannot but deplore the recall. It cannot recall the politicians who have thrust us into this condition, but we can utterly defeat them, and (Cont. on Page 20, Cols. 3-4.)

JAILED FOR AN ANCIENT CRIME

Woman Torn From Home and Is Facing Murder Charge Seven Years Old

Accused of Choking Girl Who It Is Said Made Her Jealous

AUGUSTA, Me., April 6.—Mrs. Elsa Hobbs Raymond tonight occupies a cell in the Kennebec county jail, seven years after suspicion that she knew more about the murder of Mattie Hackett than anyone else first rested on her. She was indicted today and after a trip on foot to her boarding place a mile away was committed to await six months for trial. "Thank God," was her only comment when informed of the indictment. She and the other members of the Raymond family welcome the trial of the case. The parting from her husband 4-year-old daughter, Evelyn, moved the fathers to tears. The child clung to her mother until the last moment and was then hurried away by her father to avoid the ordeal of seeing the iron doors close behind her.

The strangling of pretty 15-year-old Mattie Hackett near the door of her home at Kent's Hill, three miles from Redfield, seven years ago, was one of the most mysterious crimes that ever took place in this state.

CUNNINGLY REPERATED. Time and again attempts have been made to clear up the murder, so cunningly had it been planned and executed that the keenest detectives gave up the trail in despair. Finally evidence came to county Attorney William H. Dyer from an unexpected quarter and the facts were presented to the grand jury. "The name of Mrs. Raymond has been connected with the tragedy before," there is no capital punishment in this state—will prove one of the most thrilling; it is believed, that ever took place in Maine. Mattie Hackett was the daughter of a respectable farmer. The evening of August 17, 1905, she was washing supper dishes. Somebody called her out of the house. Afterwards she was found unconscious by the roadside, a short distance away. The murderer had thrown a cloth over her neck, drawn it tightly, tied it and left the girl to slowly strangle to death. In the darkness of the cord, could not be discerned when she was found by her mother. Though carried into the house immediately she died before the cord could be cut from her neck.

CLARK AND TAFT ARE LEADERS

President and Missourian Are Likely Winners in the Nomination Race

Illinois Primary Campaign Is Fought With Unprecedented Bitterness

CHICAGO, April 6.—A primary campaign of unprecedented bitterness and feverish activity and which undoubtedly will decide who will lead the Democratic and Republican parties in their struggle for the Presidency practically came to a close in Illinois tonight. Champ Clark on the Democratic side and President Taft on the Republican side seemed to loom up in the maze of conflicting claims and statements as the probable victors on their respective tickets.

Intermingled with the Presidency battle is a wild scramble on the part of several thousand candidates for city, county and state offices and seats in Congress. The people are to vote Tuesday for every office from village constable to United States senator.

ORATORS ARE BUSY. Because of the great significance attached to the vote of Illinois in its first Presidential preference primary, two of the candidates for the high office of President of the United States were in the state speaking in their own behalf, while a battery of orators was scurrying about the state speaking morning, noon and night in city and country, wherever a handful of voters could be gathered. Speaker Clark's friends tonight would concede little or no chance to Wilson.

There is a bitter fight for the gubernatorial nominations. Governor Deneen is running for a third term, while the Lorimer Republicans are behind Lemuel C. Kankakee. There are six other candidates on the Republican ticket. On the Democratic side it is a three-cornered fight between Samuel A. Hatcher of Aurora, Ben Caldwell of Sangamon county and Edward F. Byrne of Chicago.

6000 AT MASS MEETING. The followers of Champ Clark are giving Chicago the liveliest campaign ever seen. Numerous meetings were held throughout the city tonight, the big event being the mass meeting at the second regiment armory. Over 6000 were present.

Senator Stone declared that he is not, as many profess to believe, the manager of Clark's campaign, but is animated only by a desire to see him elected, as the one man above all others who can lead the Democratic party to victory in November.

ILLEGALLY REGISTER, CHARGE

San Leandro Officials Plan to Prevent 50 Persons From Voting

SAN LEANDRO, April 6.—According to Marshal M. Gelsenhofer, whose assertion is supported by Justice of the Peace Toffelmier and C. H. Redbrath, a candidate for election to the town board, about fifty illegal registrations have been entered by local deputy registrars. Citizens who registered, though unable to read or write, have done so illegally, the trio contend. A hurried meeting of the three persons named was held and it was at once decided to organize informally a committee of prominent citizens for the purpose of picketing the polling places on election day, next Monday, that every illiterate voter may be challenged and prevented from casting a ballot. Town Clerk Harbert a few days ago told the attorney general's office to learn whether the many registrations made here by illiterate persons with the aid of affidavits were legal. A letter to the same effect will be sent the local authorities, but fearing that it may arrive too late to allow of the necessary action being taken to permit of wholesale illegal voting on Monday, Justice of the Peace Toffelmier decided to take action.

APPEAL TO W. C. T. U. A conference is to be held between Mrs. S. M. Woodman, president of the local branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and other active members of the body, and the citizens' committee some time tomorrow to secure the aid of the union in running down any illegal votes which may be cast.

The union has been active in getting out a heavy vote among the women, and created quite a stir some time ago by charging that many women were registering who were not married, owing to their husbands not being legal citizens of the United States. Marshal Gelsenhofer, who was appointed a deputy registration clerk, made a careful inspection of many registrations about the afternoon and asserts he found between forty and fifty unlawful registrations. He said: "All these illegal registrations have been made through ignorance on the part of the registrars and these registrars and I attach no blame to anyone in particular. The deputies were evidently under the impression that illiterate persons might register providing they secured affidavits to their identity. Such registrations are unlawful, according to the code."

MAYOR SILENT. Mayor J. J. Gill has not yet been approached by Justice of the Peace Toffelmier on the subject of the alleged errors and has taken no action in the matter so far. He said that no doubt some illegal registrations had been allowed to slip through, but further than that he said nothing.

Deputy District Attorney Leon A. Clark said last night it was the purpose of the code to apply to persons who had lost their arms and were unable to write. That no one who is unable to sign his name would be permitted to vote under the code was his opinion, based on the construction of the recent amendment to the state constitution.

As a result it is likely that many registrations made by women in San Leandro will be challenged when the persons attempt to vote. Registration by affidavit for illiterate persons will not entitle them to a vote, according to the code.

ALL HOUN'S LOOK THE SAME TO LAW
BIG DOGS, LITTLE DOGS ARE MUZZLED

DON (Collie) and NAPOLEON, Sheriff Barnett's dogs, that now, like all law-abiding canines, are carefully muzzled.

Sheriff Frank Barnett Places Heads of Tiny Poodle and Big Collie in Cages

It makes no difference if you're a good dog, bad dog, Big dog, little dog, scrub; If you've got four legs and a tail that wags. It makes no difference, you must wear the tags. With a pedigree or a mere hound name. It matters not, 'tis all the same, Far pug dog, bull dog, coach dog, poodle. Each must wear a strap on his noodle. Or the poundman is sure to call. Hunting bones will lose his pleasure When the muzzle has your measure, If you're any old dog at all.

"Well, ain't that the limit?" declared Sunday Knight of Seventh and Broadway, when Sheriff Frank Barnett passed yesterday afternoon followed by Don, his 14-year-old collie, and Napoleon, an infant toy poodle, who goes by the familiar name of Cricket. Both wore muzzles of the latest pattern and as recommended by the city fathers were passed the ordinance which went into effect with the rise of Friday's sun.

BORDERED ON LUDICROUS. It sure was the limit, in comparative sizes at least, and it bordered upon the ludicrous to watch the canine pals frolicking along together. In spite of the difference in their ages they have formed a strong attachment for each other and the reckless little poodle is the object of much concern to the patriarch collie while they are out together.

Fearful perhaps that his little comrade might be taken for a bundle of paper and stumbled over by a careless pedestrian, Don is ever watchful. Don was presented to Sheriff Barnett while yet a puppy by the late Judge W. E. Greene while he was on the superior bench of Alameda county. Napoleon fills the vacancy left in the sheriff's household after a predecessor of like breed mysteriously disappeared from the county jail several months ago. Although a substantial reward was offered and in spite of the fact that deputy sheriffs scoured the county keeping in close touch with the usual habit of canines, no trace of Cricket No. 1 was found. Now his place has been filled.

BOTH SHY AT MUZZLES. Neither of the dogs take to the muzzles kindly. Don, who has more than once taken an attitude of prayer while on exhibition at West Oakland Home doll shows for the benefit of the children, has gone down on his knees repeatedly and in earnest since the ordinance went into effect, but without obtaining any leniency or privilege from the sheriff.

SEATTLE, April 6.—The Johnson and Allan teams are running almost neck and neck in the all-Alaska sweepstakes from Nome to Candle and return. At 2:27 o'clock this afternoon the jockeys reached Haven together on the return run, which is 224 miles from Nome. Johnson's 24 time to Haven from Nome was 52 hours and 27 minutes, and Allan 50 hours and 22 minutes. It is figured that the winner of the race, doubtless Allan, will reach the Nome wire Sunday evening about 7:30 o'clock.

ST. FRANCIS LEVEE IS BROKEN

Hundreds of Men Endeavor to Stop Flood Devastation Near Memphis

Rain Falls and Rivers Rise, Bringing Consternation to Frightened Populace

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—Two serious breaks in the main system of the St. Francis levee system occurred opposite Memphis on the Arkansas side of the Mississippi river late today, and tonight a raging flood, with a crest twenty feet high, is sweeping across the St. Francis lowlands and will not be checked until the first highland, Crowley's Ridge, forty miles away, has been reached.

The first break occurred between Hollybush and St. Clair, Arkansas. The levee here is lower than it is at other points. Men working on the levee had to flee for their lives when the flood, lashed into fury by a high south wind, began to flow over the levee and soon the embankment was cut through. The flood reached Marion, Arkansas, shortly before midnight, and thousands of acres have been inundated and homes swept away. No deaths have been reported up to a late hour tonight.

700 MEN FIGHT FLOODS.

Alm ost simultaneously with the first break, the St. Francis levee was broken in at Wynona, ten miles below Memphis. Seven hundred men have been concentrated at this point. The two mammoth streams will join before morning, it is stated, and by noon Sunday the river opposite Memphis will be a lake larger than Crowley's Ridge, forty miles away. The water is expected to flow back into the Mississippi river near Helena, Arkansas. All of Crittenden, part of Lee, Cross, Phillips and St. Francis counties will be inundated.

Late dispatches say it is almost certain the St. Francis levee will break at other points.

This is the most serious threat that has yet befallen the flood-ridden section. Millions of dollars are invested in property in the valley and the loss in property and livestock will be incalculable.

CREVASSE MILE WIDE. President O. M. Kilgough of the St. Francis levee board expects the crevasse to be a mile wide by Sunday morning. Millions of dollars are invested in property in the valley and the loss in property and livestock will be incalculable.

Memphis proper has profited by breaking of the St. Francis levee. First break occurred at about 8 o'clock in the evening and by 9 o'clock the river had fallen from a stage of 44 to 44.10 feet at Memphis and the levee was increasing as the crevasse in the levee grew wider. Conditions in Memphis have been rapidly growing more acute as the river rose even beyond the widest predictions.

TOWNS ARE ISOLATED. Laborers, both negro and white, have been conscripted and taken to the Arkansas side to work on the levee. The city of Memphis is practically cut off from the west.

"THE TOGGERY" NOW HOUSED IN NEW "DAYLIGHT STORE"

Beautiful Structure of Mahogany and Glass to Be Home of Cloak and Suit Firm; Elaborate Stock to Be Shown

TOMORROW will see the completion of "The Daylight Store," the new headquarters of the "Toggery," one of Oakland's leading cloak and suit houses, which has moved to the elaborate new building erected for it on Fourteenth street, between Clay and Jefferson streets, by John M. Locke, the well known financier. While the store moved into its new quarters and opened for business this week, final preparations were not completed, and tomorrow will see it comfortably housed.

The Toggery was established in July, 1904, and until moving, occupied a place of business at Eleventh and Washington streets. From practically nothing the store, under the management of O. Silverman, who directs the affairs of the establishment, grew until the old quarters were too small. It was then decided to move to the present location, and arrangements were made to have the building designed especially for the big store.

The new store is one of the finest in the city, and, in fact, contains all the features of the finest places in the country. It is finished throughout in mahogany, with elaborate plate glass show-cases, and is flooded in every corner with daylight, the back and front of the structure being composed largely of glass, while huge skylights at the top make the store as bright as day. An elaborate system of lighting is provided for the evening.

"The Daylight Store" is designed especially for the comfort and accommodation of our customers," said O. Silverman, "and we take great pride in the fact that we now have a store that is among the most modern in the entire country. No expense has been spared in the fittings and appointments of our new home, and we will continue, as formerly, to operate in the popular price cloak and suit business. Besides having most elaborate appointments, we have made ample provision for future growth, having, should the future of Oakland and its business section. We have moved to a location which will soon be one of the principal business sections of the city, and are even now surrounded with the finest stores in the city. We invite everyone to come in and inspect our new place, of which we are, I believe, justly proud."

MANY WINDOWS.
The front of "The Daylight Store" is finished in black and white marble, and has an arrangement of windows new to Oakland. The two entrances lead the customer behind a large plate glass window, fourteen feet in height, finished in copper, hardwood flooring and Circassian walnut, footed with Southern gum. The display in this window is visible from both sides. On either side behind this case are the regular windows, finished in the same manner, and other glass windows are at the sides, the aisles between them, entering the store, making a "Y" shaped arrangement. This method of placing the windows allows the maximum of display space, and the effect is decidedly novel. By a clever arrangement of electric lighting the entire front of the store can be made a blaze of light at night.

The first floor of the building is finished, as is the whole store, in mahogany paneling. In the center are huge plate glass show-cases, bound with copper and mahogany of the most costly type, and footed with the same material. Along the sides contain the merchandise. The building of "The Daylight Store" consists of two stories, every corner of which is flooded with sunlight. The store is steam-heated throughout, workroom included, and an Exterior and interior views of "The Daylight Store," the new establishment of "The Toggery."

MEZZANINE FLOOR.

The mezzanine floor also contains elaborate glass show-cases and cabinets for goods along the walls. Along the north side are five fitting rooms, all in white, with stationery mirrors, answering front and back views of the fittings. The mezzanine floor is designed for the display of gowns, dresses for street and evening wear, dress skirts, petticoats and tub dresses, while the lower floor is for the sale of suits, from the popular priced to the highest grades, and coats for street, auto and evening wear for ladies and misses and children. The ventilating system is specially designed according to the latest scientific principles, and is as near perfection as the engineers can make it. The offices of the store are under skylights and are fitted as is the remainder of the new place of business.

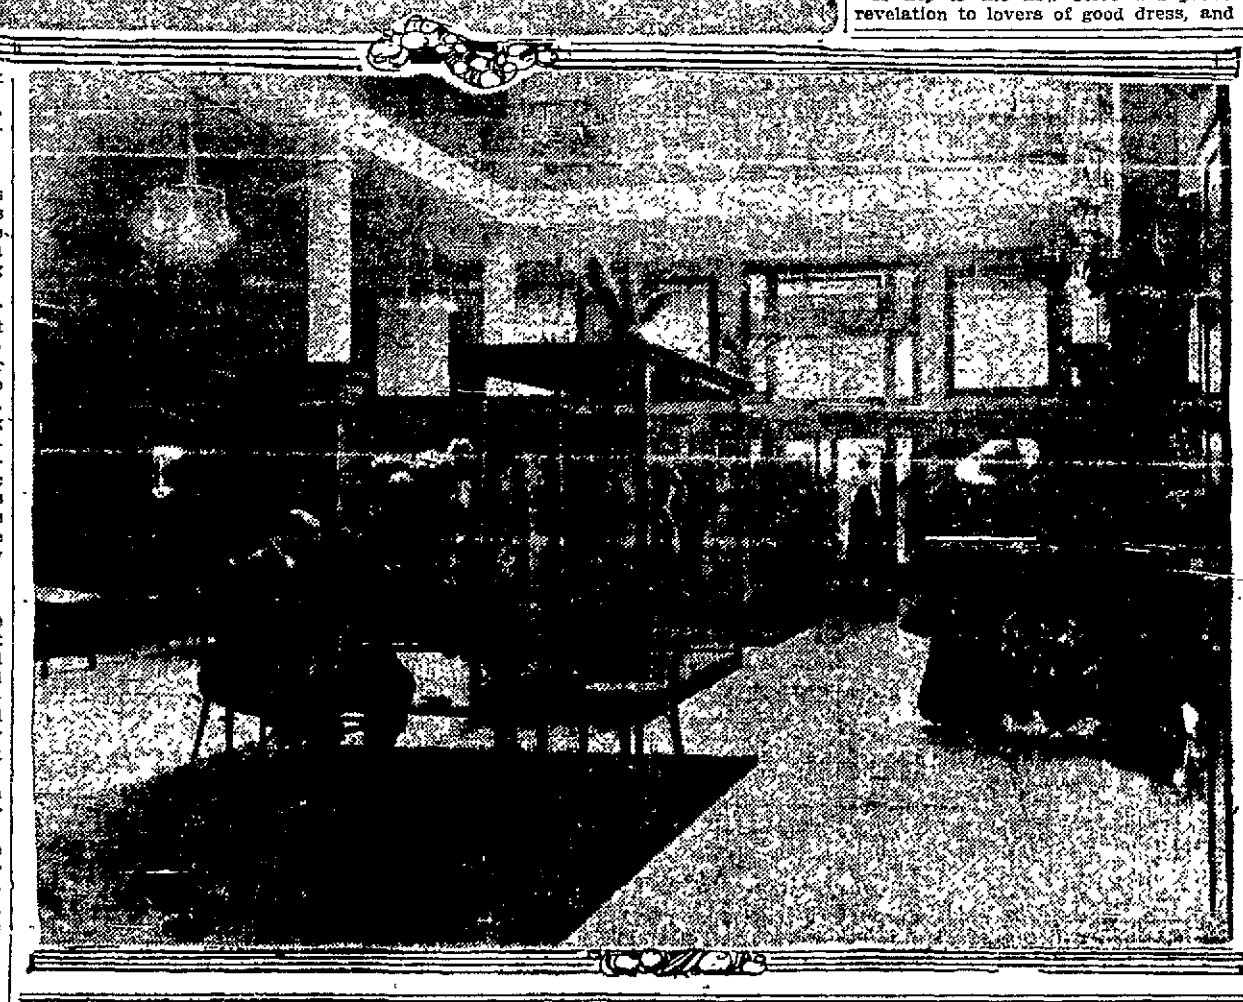

MODERN WORKROOM.

On the top floor is the workroom, one of the most sanitary in the country. It is lighted by huge windows, front and back, being almost glass-enclosed, and is steam-heated. It is fitted with modern machines for the remodeling and refitting of the clothing sold, and every device for rendering quick and efficient work is to be found.

The basement of the building has been fitted as the main floor, and will later be used as a supplementary salesroom.

Every precaution for the safety of the customer has been taken, the elevator machinery being inclosed in an iron-lined room, to eliminate any danger from fire. Adequate provision has been made for any such catastrophe, despite the fact that the structure is fireproof.

The store is lighted by tungsten lights at night, beautiful brass fixtures being placed for the purpose. The hardware of the building was specially designed, the door knobs being glass spheres set in polished brass. The lights are suspended from the fixtures by brass chains.

The "Daylight Store" is finished with hardwood, and the entrance with mo-said work. The display cases are placed to obtain the full benefit of the skylights. The "Toggery" makes a specialty of medium and popular-priced ladies' and misses' wear, and has long occupied a leading place among Oakland stores in this line.

MONEY-BACK POLICY.

The "money-back" policy is that under which the "Daylight Store" operates. It aims to furnish reliable merchandise only, in the latest styles, and its primary aim is the satisfaction of each and every customer. Best values at the "Daylight Store" is the motto of the "Toggery," and this policy will be followed without deviation. A welcome to all and strict adherence to the rules of "Toggery" are assured its customers by "The Daylight Store."

The store is beautified inside by columns of mahogany, brass and copper bindings for the show-cases, and furniture matching this. Beautiful Persian rugs, imported especially for the store, are on the floors. A private telephone exchange connects with all departments. Last night many visitors inspected the new quarters. The present management personally supervised the fitting of the new store, and has received many compliments on the designing of the place.

NEWEST GOODS.

The "Toggery" specializes in man-tailored and novelty suits, cloaks for street and evening wear, dress skirts, and petticoats for ladies and misses. A new departure will be the department of coats for children from 6 years of age upward.

Entirely new merchandise, and all of very latest styles, await the visitors at "The Daylight Store" tomorrow when its doors open. Garments never before shown in Oakland, fresh from the foremost designers of the country, will be found in profusion, from the extreme novelties to the plain tailored effect.

A trip to the new store will prove a revelation to lovers of good dress, and a Sulphurro continues to grow in favor with the people of San Francisco and Oakland and all the Pacific coast. Its use is already so wide that some druggists and wholesale drug houses assert that the demand for Sulphurro is greater than for all other medicines combined.

This call for Sulphurro is still amazing dealers who all their business lives have handled medicinal preparations. And each day brings new evidence that Sulphurro is among the greatest, if not the greatest, of all medicines. It was estimated that upwards of 4000 persons had been brought back to health and strength by Sulphurro during the period when it was given away by Mr. C. M. C. Stewart, the discoverer, from his own home, but since the beginning of January, when it was first put on the market, it is safe to say that the number has been doubled.

To supply all the Sulphurro that the public demands the C. M. C. Stewart Sulphurro company has been compelled to remove its laboratory from the original location to a home ten times as big, and indications are that this space will be entirely inadequate soon.

Mr. Stewart is giving the manufacture of Sulphurro the same care now, when making it for thousands of users, that he showed when mixing the wonderful preparation for his own family and immediate friends, a year ago. It is the same pure and health giving compound that it was at first.

The entire Pacific coast is acquainted with the things that Sulphurro has accomplished in giving health to the suffering, and in another year it is predicted that Sulphurro will be revered in every state in the Union.

Sulphurro is convincing. Skepticism has no opportunity to show its head, for every statement made in the newspapers about Sulphurro has been founded on fact, with the proof right at hand; no extravagant or unwarranted statements have been permitted to appear. Only a few of the hundreds of letters of appreciation have been placed before the public, and each has shown entire cures, or such marked improvement that a cure was in sight.

So much interest has been attracted by the accomplishments of Sulphurro that people have journeyed West from Minnesota, even, to talk with some of the persons whom Sulphurro had made well. They have gone back convinced that the story was even more remarkable than it had originally appeared.

Cures of men, women and children throughout the west continue in increasing numbers. A judge of the superior court who was incapacitated by a severe attack of gout, attributes his speedy recovery to Sulphurro. There is hardly a well known family but what at least some member uses Sulphurro.

Many Ailments Yield to Sulphurro. Sulphurro's widest field of cures so far has been among the sufferers from rheumatism and stomach disorders, chiefly, because these afflictions are more numerous, perhaps, than any others. But it has been equally effective in relieving scores of other disorders—diabetes, gout, tumors, throat affections, etc. So sound in principle, it continues to demonstrate its efficacy in every case where the directions for external and internal treatment are carefully followed.

Sulphurro's secret lies in its absorption directly into the blood. All of us in childhood days have taken that substance—molasses preparation that has come down to us through immemorial generations, and that remedy has proved an excellent tonic for the system, especially in the spring time. But the full effect of the sulphur is not gained by the organs of the body and the blood if it is taken in powdered form, for it costs the lining of the stomach and intestines, thereby interfering with rather than aiding circulation and digestion.

Stewart's Liquid compound of Sulphur, on the other hand, gives the sulphur access to the blood direct, stimulates circulation and drives out the impurities. The blood is then able to carry away foreign growths and local affections. Skin diseases are particularly subject to its power.

Now that the spring is opening, it is a good time to think of Sulphurro as a tonic. Many of us still have a longing for sulphur at this period of the year, and it is the natural craving that should be gratified. Even if you have no particular ailment, but feel the need of a toning and cleansing, Sulphurro will answer that need, and make you fresh and vigorous for the coming of the outdoor season.

Portland, Ore.
Mr. C. M. C. Stewart, Seattle, Wash.
Dear Sir: Your circular letter received announcing your decision to offer your "Sulphurro" to the public for consideration, as the demand had grown beyond the possibility, physically and financially, to meet same.

The bottle you sent the writer has been tried for general ailments, and is what every family should have in the house for it purifies the blood, and this reaches the root of so many ailments. It is easily taken internally, and may be applied externally as well, with quite immediate results, permanently favorable. The sulphur in a liquid state that you so wonderfully have succeeded in compounded will save many an expensive trip to sulphur springs; besides, it is otherwise economical, and cannot possibly do any injury to the person taking it under your general direction. Please permit me to congratulate you on your wonderful success in extracting the sulphur and maintaining its liquid state without even the least settling in the bottle. Many will call you benefactor of mankind. Very truly yours,

IDEAL BASEBALL RACE IS EXPECTED IN EAST Magnates of Two Big Leagues Forecast Coming Season

By T. J. LYNCH, President National League.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The reports from National League training camps indicate that our Boston, Brooklyn and Cincinnati clubs are stronger than last year. If these predictions prove correct, then we should have an ideal championship race. Any one who looks at it, however, the coming season's fight will be interesting. The play of the champion New Yorks, with its array of young players and its great team work, will be closely watched. On either side, the center of what O'Connell and Donlin may do for Pittsburgh, and what the return of Chance and Evers may mean to Chicago. The Philadelphia club unquestionably will be a strong factor, and I have no doubt Breenham will have St. Louis playing at top speed, as he did last year.

I am glad to hear that Chance and Evers are again to play, and I hope we have not seen the last of Fred Clarke. We want players of such high caliber in the game as long as they can play. I regret to lose as good an umpire as O'Day, but I wish him luck in his new position. If "Hank" has several of his pitchers in shape at the start, he will make an interesting race. The Brooklyn club, I hear, has uncovered several promising players in spite of the bad training weather the club has had. With a little batting strength added to the naturally strong pitching staff of this club, it will become a contender. Fronting Ward of the Boston club tells me he is well pleased with his young men, especially with the work of several of his pitchers. So that, all in all, there should be a very few so-called easy games in our pennant race this season.

TO USE POLO GROUNDS.
In the way of comfortably looking after its patrons, the National League in New York will have the magnificent new Polo grounds; the Cincinnati club will also dedicate its fine new plant, and later on the Brooklyn club will add another great addition to the list of modern baseball structures. The Boston club has also done wonders in rearranging its stand and playing field.

To the umpire staff I have added two young men, Owens and Bush, who have already shown themselves to be officials of more than ordinary ability. They will be given every opportunity to show what they can do. One will start in the east and the other in the west. All my umpires are in active work on the field and should be fit when the game starts. I look for a prosperous season both for owners and players, especially now that the minor leagues are working under the more business like provisions of the new national agreement.

AMERICAN LEAGUE OUTLOOK.

By BANCROFT JOHNSON, President American League.

With the championship season only a few days removed, interest grows keener in the preliminary work of the eight teams. The Philadelphia club, the team are on their homeward journey from the training camps in the south, while the players of the Philadelphia and St. Louis teams have appeared on their local diamonds. The baseball atmosphere seems charged with enthusiasm and throughout the circuit there is greater interest than was ever before manifested. Even in Washington a fan in writing to headquarters for a pass, predicted a pennant and a world's trophy for the Senators. A championship might help some at the capital, as they have a big modern plant of concrete and steel that is fully paid for. The American league will in a great measure justify the confidence reposed in the several clubs by their patrons. Last year there were but two pennant contenders. In 1912 there will be five or six in the struggle for pennant honors.

It must be conceded that Philadelphia will be a powerful factor. Connie Mack has a well seasoned club that will shine brilliantly in a grueling race, but misadventure will occur to the best of us. The proud Athletics—world's champions—may be in the discard next October.

CONFIDENCE IN BOSTON TEAM.
James McAleer, writing from the south, sends the glad tidings that Boston will surely finish one, two. The young president has something to boast of in a splendid staff of pitchers, great outfielders, strong catchers and the brilliant Stah. There may be one flaw in the team, should Wagner fail to recover the throwing strength of that good right arm that made him the sensation of the American league some two seasons ago. There are those who incline to the belief that Detroit has traveled its best clip, but the indomitable Fenwick and Ty Cobb are to be reckoned with. The Tigers are fully as strong as last year.

Bad weather was encountered at the training grounds and this may retard the team in the early stages of the race. Here in Chicago much is expected of the White Sox and I am happy to say that I can share in that confidence. It does seem that the "Old Roman" will

BOY ARRESTED; BELIEVED TO HAVE GIVEN FOOD TO THE FUGITIVES.

CLEVELAND'S PROSPECTS.

Cleveland, under the guidance of the veteran, Harry Davis, should show some improvement over last year. New and excellent material was brought to the surface by this club in 1911, and it should add much to the playing strength of the team this spring.

Reports were most encouraging from the training camp of the New York Americans. The club is strong in every department and should be a prominent contender for the flag. Washington patrons express great confidence in their new manager, Clark Griffith, and we all hope for an improvement in the standing of the Senators next fall.

There is no disputing the fact that St. Louis has a much improved club and should win a goodly percentage of its games.

The American league in the last three years has built seven palaces for the game of reinforced concrete and steel. This serves to illustrate the wonderful growth of baseball and its popularity with the American people.

ALLIGATOR PEAR SEED BRINGS FORTH FRUIT

SAN DIEGO, April 6.—President George Williams of the city council dropped an alligator pear seed into his pocket in Guatemala in 1897, and yesterday he ate the first pear of this season from the tree which grew from the casual seed.

He was in South America attending an exposition in 1897, and tasted the big fruit in salad for the first time. "What a fine tree of mine," he exclaimed, one of the big seeds in his pocket handkerchief and brought it home, giving it to Mrs. Martha J. Dickinson, an old friend.

Mrs. Dickinson planted the seed, and every year for the past three she has presented Williams with alligator pears raised from the seed he saved as a curiosity in 1897.

RECORD BREAKING LAYERS ARE THESE 49 HENS

CORONADO, April 6.—Forty-eight eggs from a total laying capacity of forty-nine hens in a single day is believed by Earl Chappell of Coronado to be something of a record. Chappell says that the average of the hens is also remarkable, from thirty-six to forty-two eggs per day being the usual rule. The chickens are given only ordinary care. They are confined in small individual pens and they are fed grain and a mixture of bran and green food.

JAILED ON CHARGE OF AIDING ALLEN

Boy Arrested; Believed to Have
Fugitives.

HILLSVILLE, Va., April 6.—Another kidnap of the fugitives, Sidney Allen and Wesley Edwards, was arrested to-day on the charge of having provided them with ration during the last week. He is Rufus Edwards, a son of Sidney Allen's deceased sister, Justine Edwards, and therefore a nephew to Sidney and first cousin to Wesley. He was lodged to-night in the little brick jail and put in a cell with Jordan Edwards, another of the clanmen's relative retainers.

The lad—he is a tall, lanky boy of 17—is said to have been seen according to the mountains on several recent nights on a small white pony. He always managed until today to elude capture.

"Yes, I was a-ridin' out in the mountains, but I was only a-tradin'." I ain't seen any one of the others since they have been a-hidin' out." But the boy grinned as he made his explanation of his nocturnal gallop.

Rufe is a son of "Black Joe" Edwards, who lives near the foot of Fanny Gap in the region where the outlaws have been ranging for more than three weeks. Cries-croaking from one part of the Blue Ridge to another, they have probably passed "Black Joe's" place eight or ten times.

Other kidnapers who have aided the desperadoes will probably be brought in soon.

THOROUGHFARE PROVES TO BE GREAT SUCCESS

The ferry steamer Thoroughfare, which was recently put on the Southern Pacific Company's Oakland harbor service, is proving a great success. The "new" Thoroughfare, as it is known, was built by the company to take the place of the "old" Thoroughfare which was dismantled for the company for barge service. The new vessel is much faster than other freight ferries in these waters and so a great time-saver in crossing to and from Oakland. The new craft is operated by high-powered engines and is a splendid affair. Her entire lower deck is devoted to the accommodation of vehicles, while the upper deck is for the use of passengers. The vessel cost over $200,000.

EXHIBIT TO BE BROUGHT BACK

The Fruits and Flowers From Alameda County Attract
Notice at Berlin.

W. D. Spencer of Oakland, who has been abroad for some months in charge of the exhibit of processed fruits and flowers, put up by W. D. Nichols of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and Alameda County General Exposition Commission, writes that he is preparing to return to this country with the display, which has lately been installed in the rooms of the American Chamber of Commerce, Equitable building, Berlin.

Spencer went to Europe under commission of the governor of California in charge of this exhibit which was part of the display made by the California Development Board at the International Exposition at Turin. In Turin this display was the chief feature of the California exhibit, and attracted so much attention that it was deemed advisable to remove it to Berlin, where it has remained for several months, and been viewed by many thousands of people.

Spencer writes that he expects to be back in Oakland about the first of May.

SHIPPING UNDERIZED CLAMS IS CHARGE MADE

SALINAS, April 6.—A young man named Kilney was arrested upon a complaint sworn to by Deputy State Game Warden Frank Shook charging him with shipping underized clams. A condemnation said to have been shipped recently to San Francisco by Kilney was seized by the game and fish authorities and it was found that 40 per cent of them measured less than 13 inches around the outer edge.

OAKLAND PUBLICATION GETS PRAISE FROM SOUTH

The bulletin of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce has received praise from Shreveport, La. The Chamber of Commerce of that city has written to Secretary A. A. Denison of the local chamber praising the local publication and predicting that Oakland will some day predominate the shipping situation of the PACIFIC COAST. Shreveport is a city of about 25,000 population.

HOW TO GET SULPHURRO

Sulphurro is on sale in drug stores throughout San Francisco, Oakland and other cities and towns in California, Oregon and Washington; but because of the difficulty of supplying all the trade on such short notice, it may be possible that there and there a store has been overlooked. If you find you can't get Sulphurro from your regular druggist, try the next one, and then if you fail to get it, send direct to the office of the C. M. C. Stewart Sulphurro company, 71 Columbia street, Seattle, Wash., and your order will be promptly filled at the same price. Please let us know the name of your druggist, so that he may have an opportunity to obtain a supply of Sulphurro from us.

Sulphurro is put up in two sizes and sells for 50 cents and $1. When you order direct from our laboratory the smaller size will be forwarded you by mail and the larger by express.

An interesting 32-page booklet containing full directions for the use of Sulphurro accompanies each bottle. Read it carefully and follow instructions. What Sulphurro has done for others it will do for you, but do not invest your money in Sulphurro unless you fully intend to follow directions.

TWO VISIONS IN A ONE-PIECE LINE

Highest Step in Evolution of Bifocal Lenses; Long-Sought Results Realized.

There are two classes of people who are vitally interested in a lens that gives two visions.

The first are those who can read comfortably with their present glasses but are plunged into a hazy, indefinite world when viewing distant objects. They may be stumbling along the street to their personal discomfort, recognizing their friends with difficulty, if at all, and subjecting their eyes to a constant strain.

The second class consists of those who are trying unsatisfactorily to remedy just such conditions. Perhaps they are encumbered with two separate pairs of glasses of different strength—one for reading, another for distant vision. Or they may have resorted to the old types of bifocal glasses with their cemented lenses or separate segments in one frame, either possessing those they present dividing lines which are a disfigurement and an annoyance to the wearer.

If you belong to either of these classes, here are some reasons why you should look into this question of Kravitz's lenses.

Because they give you the two visions you require in one pair of glasses.

Because they are to all practical purposes single, solid lenses.

Because they possess no lines of demarcation and no segments; hence do not drop apart nor collect dirt in creases.

Because they are as graceful on the face as any pair of single vision eyeglasses.

Because they are no more liable to breakage than the ordinary single focus lenses.

These reasons in themselves answer the question "why?" conclusively. A second question immediately suggests itself—how? By what magic means have these long sought results been realized?

The answer is simple, after all, for magic means are nothing more than scientific means.

We take two pieces of glass of different substance and focal-focus them into a single piece of glass of one as a single lens. The process is no secret and can be seen at our store any time.

The result is the highest step yet attained in the evolution of bifocal lenses and are made right here in Oakland at our establishment—a problem which has commanded the attention of opticians throughout the world for many years.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS ANDERSON IS ANNOUNCED

MISS HAZELWOOD ANDERSON.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Anderson of 745 Tenth street announce the engagement of their daughter, Hazelwood Anderson, to Frank H. G. Adams of San Francisco, son of W. E. Adams, the well known mill man.

Miss Anderson is a daughter of A. L. Anderson, a well known contractor of Fruitvale. She is a native daughter, a graduate of the Fruitvale Grammar school, and is giving up a promising career.

The wedding will be solemnized at the home of the bride's parents May 1, after which the couple will travel for a time, and later make their home in San Francisco.

POISONED GUM USED IN FRAUD

Man Signed $10,500 Draft to Bet on Race, Is the Charge.

SPOKANE, Wash., April 6.—Sticks of "poisoned gum" and a draft for $10,500 figured prominently today in the preliminary hearing of R. D. Dean and Willie King, at the end of which they were held under bonds of $5000 to the superior court on the charge of gambling. M. A. Brainerd, a wealthy farmer of Garwood, Idaho, testified that he faintly recalled that, after he had chewed a piece of gum given to him by one of the defendants, he signed a draft for $10,500, which was to be bet on a horse race, and which was to return to him a fabulous sum. Brainerd said that his next recollection was of finding himself and his two companions in the hands of the police, who had been called by the proprietress of a rooming-house in which the transaction was said to have occurred.

VALUABLE SPECIMENS PRESENTED TO MUSEUM

Several notable additions to the Oakland public museum were made during the month of March, according to the report of the officials in charge. The additions are principally new curios donated to the institution by people of Oakland and vicinity.

The list of donations to the museum for the month includes the following: Joaquin Ayvas, one goldfish; William Benson, Indian wampum specimens; Ralph P. Chase, old newspapers; Mrs. A. L. Cunningham, Indian implements and relics; Davis brothers, old newspaper; Mrs. Blanche W. Donne, bird; Jackson Ferreira, bird; Mrs. H. C. Cove, octopus; W. H. Jensen, preserved snakes; Mrs. R. C. Monck, stuffed birds; Mayor P. K. Mott, specimens of plumage; park directors of Oakland, one chameleon bear; Mrs. A. M. Spencer, mounted specimens of tarantula, centipede and scorpions; Mrs. M. F. Templeton, Indian implements and weapons, and Evelyn Wilson, mounted birds.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED. SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Wolff announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Madeline Leah Wolff, to George C. Bennett. The wedding will take place early in July.

VETERANS PLAN EXCURSION TO SEE STOCKTON

JOHN SPELLMAN

The members of the G. A. R., Ladies Relief Corps, and Ladies of the Grand Army, will journey to Stockton tomorrow with the special excursion to the gold fields. Past Commander John Spellman of Lyon Post will direct the trip.

Miss Myrtle Hendel will entertain on April 20 at a bridge afternoon for Miss Marion Janssen, fiancée of Carl Martin. The wedding will take place in June.

LARGE RECEPTION.

Miss Hilma A. Buttler was hostess at a reception given by her pupils to their many friends last Monday afternoon in Maple Hall. About 600 people enjoyed a most interesting program of fancy dances, songs and recitations, in which all Miss Buttler's pupils took part.

INFORMAL DANCING CLUB.

The informal dancing club of Berkeley, which has held so many enjoyable dances during the past months, will give its last dance of the season on Saturday, April 13, at Town and Gown Hall.

COMPLIMENTED GUEST.

Miss Ray Laskey has sent out cards for an afternoon in honor of Miss Anna Kober at her home in Berkeley. Miss Kober, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Kober, is the fiancée of Carl Kauffman, and will be married some time in June.

Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Burton will compliment Miss Kober and her fiancée with an elaborate dinner party on April 12. Covers will be laid for twelve, among whom will be the closest friends of the Alameda bells.

A HOME WEDDING.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized last Thursday at 6 p. m. when Miss Anna Houhouse, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fisher, plighted her troth to Charles Alfred Cook of Oakland, at her mother's home in West Berkeley. The decorations were simple, yet very effective, the color scheme being green and white. The bride, a very beautiful blonde with a pink and white complexion, looked sweet in her wedding robe of black and blue satin, made in the empire style. She carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and maiden-hair fern. Her sister, Miss Joseph W. Hudson, a young bride of five months, acted as matron of honor, and Harvey Andon acted as best man. Immediately after the ceremony a wedding supper was served, where the guests remained long and drank to the health of the young couple. Dancing was afterward indulged in until a late hour. Among those who were guests at the wedding were Harvey Andon, Miss Genevieve Andon, Miss Eva Sanderson, Mrs. M. De Moth, Mrs. Joseph W. Hudson, B. Smith, A. B. Cook, Miss Freda Fisher, Charles Vargas, C. F. Fish Peter Panella, Miss Manon, F. Miller, Mrs. C. F. Fisher, Gus Fisher, Miss Mary Fisher and Miss Milne D. Vargas.

VISITING HERE.

Dr. C. A. Treuholtz, U. S. A., and wife, from Manila, P. I., have been visiting his mother, sister and brother, at 2925 West street, this city. He is now stationed at Presidio of Monterey, Monterey, Cal.

COMMISSION WILL HEAR DELEGATES

To Meet in Los Angeles to Hear Arguments for Highways.

SACRAMENTO, April 6.—Continuing April 16 and continuing over the following day the state highway commission will hold public sessions and conferences in Los Angeles for the purpose of giving the Southern California counties an opportunity to place before the commission the county, district and sectional claims for portions of the state highway and the routes thereof to be constructed under the $18,000,000 bond issue.

On April 16 the Board of Trade, Ventura supervisors and delegation of citizens, delegation from Chula Vista and a delegation from Santa Paula will meet the commission. On April 17 a delegation representing the Foothills Boulevard Association of Claremont, a delegation representing Antelope valley and a delegation from other sections of Los Angeles county will be heard.

LABOR CONDITION BETTER, REPORTED

Slack in Building and Late Lumber Season Caused Distress.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The condition of the unemployed in San Francisco has passed its crisis and is now improving, according to an exhaustive report submitted today to Governor Hiram W. Johnson by State Labor Commissioner John P. McLaughlin. The principal causes for distress among wage-earners, it was found by Commissioner McLaughlin, were the winter slackness in building operations, which affected the residents of the city, and the tardy opening of the lumber and fishing seasons on the coast, which kept in this city migratory laborers who ordinarily find employment at outside points much earlier in the season.

The number of unemployed men in the city is estimated to have been April 1 21,000, as against 32,000 during January and February.

FRIENDS DEPOSE THAT HE IS NOT CRUEL MAN

SAN DIEGO, April 6.—When the divorce suit of Salina Smith Darling vs. James Darling of Coronado was heard before Judge Lewis in department two of the Superior Court an unusual document was entered among the exhibits.

The defendant submitted to the court a signed statement, testifying as to his disposition. The statement is signed by a number of the most prominent citizens of Coronado. Mrs. Darling is suing on the grounds of cruelty.

Darling, who has resided at Coronado for years, and who is well known, advertised for a wife three years ago. Salina Smith of Santa Barbara responded and the wedding resulted.

Now Mrs. Darling is suing for divorce, and in contesting the suit Darling has testified, it is said, of many Coronado residents that his disposition is not such as to give grounds for divorce on a cruelty charge.

MISSOURI SITE. SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Missouri is the ninth state to select a site for its state building at the Panama-Pacific International exposition. Thus far Oregon, Nevada, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Utah, South Dakota, the Philippines, Ireland and Missouri have received deeds to their land and promise the widest participation at the 1915 universal exposition.

"EASTER HAS COME AND PEACE IS HERE AGAIN"

EDITOR TRIBUNE: Easter has come, a spirit is born, and peace is with us again. The spirit of the past is buried in the tomb. A sweet bloom of flower, vine adorns the saintly creature whose contrition and faith have made him whole, a vine of virtue and glory. Sweet is the story of redemption! Personalities of goodness descend to the world with ornamental planets. Easter aims to help the poor, guide the young and enact the words, "Thy Kingdom come." Each risen sacred heart in sin—each shell borne in the sea—each link between God and man—the spirit-diamond that shall illuminate the world with charity's truth, an eternal truth which has for its reward, perhaps not the praise of mortal man, but the praise of God.

For such there is no death, departure is but a passing from earth to heaven—the resting-place with the Supreme Judge of souls in intellectual bliss.

350 ACRES TO BE USED FOR TURKISH TOBACCO

DINUBA, April 6.—Approximately 350 acres of land are this year to be devoted to the culture of Turkish tobacco in the Alta district, experiments which have been conducted for the past two years by agents of the American Tobacco Company having shown that this portion of the San Joaquin valley will raise first class leaf. This valley is said to be the only locality, however, outside of Turkey, where leaf of the real Turkish tobacco can be produced. The tobacco manufacturers who make up the American Tobacco Company have been experimenting for years in almost every tropical country on the globe, to produce the Turkish tobacco which is essential to cigarette making. A French concern has the absolute monopoly of all leaf grown in Turkey, and every pound imported pays a tribute of from ten to twenty cents to the "Reino Compagnie Industrielle des Tabacs de Tabaco de L'Empire Ottoman."

man," the imposing title under which the monopolistic concern operates. Now that this district is shown to be adapted to the new culture, the company has established headquarters in this district and has announced that it is prepared to purchase annually upwards of 1,000,000 pounds of the California leaf. The crop can be grown on land too poor for any fruit crops, and if properly handled will produce at the rate of $400 to $500 per acre net to the grower.

GIRL SUCCEEDS IN POULTRY RAISING

HAVES VALLEY, April 6.—Miss Ruth Fern, a charming young woman of Havens Valley is trying her fortune at poultry raising, and is making good in the business. Her chief trouble is learning a call that the little chicks will answer. Ruth says the incubator companies should put out a brooder attachment with a graphophone that of a broody hen. It would be so much easier for the poultry raiser, to say nothing about the comfort it would afford the little chicks. Miss Ruth filled the incubator with 125 eggs and secured a good hatch. Part of the output were ducks, but that is merely one of the pleasing incidents of the business.

AGED COUPLE STILL HOPE TO "STRIKE IT"

WILLOWS, April 6.—Having spent a lifetime in following the uncertain

call of mining, and finding themselves reduced to distressing poverty in their old age, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kelly, aged 69 and 70 have appealed to the supervisors of Glenn county for assistance to get to Siskiyou county, where they think they can locate a stream that has an abundance of gold in its bed. Undaunted by past failures and remembering only the intermittent success that has come in a lifetime of mining, they still cling to the hope that one day they will snatch vast riches from Mother Earth. They made a pathetic appeal to be given one more opportunity, but the supervisors had to regard their request as one not properly within the jurisdiction of that body.

DYING MOTHER CALLS IN VAIN FOR LOST SON
SUPERIOR, Wis., April 6.—"Marty, oh, Marty, where are you? why don't you answer me, Marty? Come home, come home." Such is the cry of an aged mother for her wandering boy. Mrs. P. O'Malley of Wyoming avenue is slowly dying. Each ticking minute leaves her in a weaker condition and brings her closer to her death, and constantly she calls for her son, Marty, who left his home about eight months ago for the west. She then his mother has revealed one letter from him. The local police and local papers have been asked to assist the mother in her attempt to find her wandering son.

HOW CLUBMEN FEASTED ON STEAKS OF REINDEER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—We are going into the unit appraisal system in San Francisco, and just as we are peeking over the fence we find that our good old Assessor, Washington Dodge, is going to resign and accept a place with the Fleishackers.

You know the unit appraisal proposition gets everybody in on an equity assessment basis.

The value of a square foot of land is determined in a block or a neighborhood, and then all the land in that block or neighborhood is assessed on that basis—no favorites.

There have been the strangest developments in the cities where the system has been put in force. Blocks have been discovered that were not assessed at all. And, strange as it may seem, by some hocus-pocus, some weird reversal of the doctrine of chances it was always the property of the rich that crept in on the lowest assessment.

Well, there is no suspicion of any such thing here under our honest Assessor, but some of our leading men are to ask that the unit appraisal system be introduced. And it was a nice thing of the city to reward Dr. Dodge with a trip to Europe just before he goes to the Fleishackers. He'd earned a vacation, you know.

To Take the Sting Out of Defeat

If you were a champion pugilist in your class it would be a dreadful thing to lose the championship and with it all the chances for a lot of comparatively easy money. But if you were an exceptionally good poker-player, you might mitigate your woes and amehorize your losses with a glad and joyous hand.

Take Abe Attell, for instance. Now Abe has been a champion for a long time—and a great little fighter he was. But Johnny Kilbane came along and took that championship away, and Abe seemed in the down-and-out class.

Don't you think it. Abe is as much of a champion poker-player as he was a champion featherweight. The other night there was a poker game. One of our leading lawyers and oil company men sat in, as he loves to do.

Now, this lawyer and oil magnate loves poker, but he has wretched luck. And it was the old story. He dropped a nice little $25,000. Of this Abe Attell is said to have won $13,000. That's a very fair purse.

She Was Attractive, Anyhow

That exceptional genius of the stage, Elsie Janis, travels with her mother as chaperon, and where Elsie goes there goes mamma—mamma with an eagle eye and a brow that frowns on folly.

One of our young men—one of your young men—the best dancer of them all—was told that he could have a fling with Elsie if he only worked it right. He was willing and eager. There was an introduction.

Then came orchids, dinners, suppers, and at last a trip to San Jose and back in an automobile. The lady was charming, the man insistent. The affair progressed beautifully. Everybody seemed satisfied.

The night Elsie Janis opened at the Columbia our hero was in a fine seat. When the lady appeared he sat staring.

"Why don't you applaud? That's Elsie Janis!" said his friend.

"That's not Elsie," responded our hero.

"I tell you it is."

"It must be her understudy. I know Elsie well."

Well, by now our hero knows that the girl on the stage was Elsie and the girl on the trip to San Jose wasn't.

"Well, she was a good-looker, anyhow," he said at last, game even when forced to admit a sell and a defeat.

What a Josh on Us

How easy we are for the stage folk! They play all sorts of pranks at our expense, and we go on thinking they are gagging their lines and having a vast deal of impromptu fun. For instance:

When Kolb and Dill opened one of the ladies leaned her well powdered arms and shoulders against Kolb's black coat. In the break-away he discovered the powder and said:

"She is the human marshmallow!"

The entire stage turned its back on the audience giggled in recognition of a witticism outside the lines. And we all enjoyed it gloriously. But it was all in the lines—all in the rehearsal—and we were sold again.

Then, again, in the "Slim Princess" when the Italian Count comes on the stage and seems to stumble, Joe Cawthorn says:

"Did you enjoy your trip?"

All the actors and accidents turned their backs and giggled. We guffawed and thought how witty was Cawthorn. But it was all in the rehearsal. Sold again!

Fine Country for a Scot

You know there is a saying among stage folk that one day Harry Lauder bought a drink. Most actor-folk can tell the date as easily as they can tell their triumphs.

Well, Jack McKay, who is a sort of successor to Lauder, has been making a great success at the Orpheum. The other night he showed up at a supper given by George Mooser, and he was feeling fine. After being duly introduced and libated, he said gleefully:

"This is a great country—a verra great country."

THE KNAVE

They take me oot every night—every night—an they get ma pickl'd—in pickl'd; an' it dinna cost me a cent—never a baubee. It is a verra great country. I think I'll mak' it ma hobbie."

A New Trick of a Meat Trust

Many of our club men have been having reindeer steaks and chops for some little time now. They wondered at their ease in securing the dainty of the north. I'll tell them how it came about:

Up at St. Michael on Norton Sound is an English firm—an English firm with headquarters at Tacoma—that furnishes all the fresh beef, mutton, pork, etc., for Alaska. It is a real meat trust, and it is managed by some long-headed men.

In Alaska a certain proportion of the reindeer, that have multiplied very rapidly, may be slaughtered for food consumption. Last year the meat trust, found the reindeer carcasses kept them from lifting the prices of their meats.

This year they cured that. They bought up all the reindeer that could be slaughtered. They shipped the carcasses out to the bon vivants of the coast—and got very big prices for them. That's why we had so much reindeer meat. Then they put up their prices to suit themselves without any danger of competition.

Some Great Deeds of Great Men

Whenever a Governor or a Commissioner comes tooting along to select a site for his State's buildings at our 1915 Fair we make a great to-do over him. The other day the Missouri Commissioner went to the Fair grounds to select his site, and a lot of show-me people went out with him.

Well, that Commissioner had a speech that began with an address to the Governor—but the Governor wasn't there. Then he took up his address to the Mayor—but the Mayor wasn't there. And then he got on his address to the flag—but there was no flag on hand. And then I came away and left him talking.

But what I started to tell was about those deeds that they present to every State—deeds to the plot of ground on which the State building is to stand. They are very formidable-looking documents, those deeds. The Governors and Commissioners receive them with proper respect. They really think they are receiving some property.

But generally they are deeds to government land—just a beautifully solemn bunco. But all that stuff counts for something after all.

We May Hear a Dull Voice of Woe

You know some of our leading Fair directors are traveling abroad. They suddenly have taken a notion strange countries for to see. They are poking into places not often visited by Americans and Europeans.

Somehow or other their fellow directors, who have remained at home to bear the burden and heat of the work, have developed the notion that these vigorous travelers are looking up features for the Fair—features that will come in the way of "concessions," and make a wad or two of money.

So while the travelers are away, the stay-at-home directors have adopted a cast-iron rule that no director or employee shall be in any way connected with a concession. It is to be as a law of the Medes and Persians.

And when those traveling directors return to our hearthstone I expect to hear some curses—not loud, but deep—some voices of woe "like the water's flow under December snow." And perhaps we'll hear something drop.

Light Up or Type Up

There is a grout among our actors. They are looking down their well-trained noses. I expect there will be a strike of thespians.

You know how the people of the stage love to have their names appear on the show bills and the theater programs in good, fat type. They certainly do not seek the shadows and the retiring corners.

Well, it is getting so nobody knows who is playing any given role below that of the star. The prevailing fashion is to light the theaters so the women shall look at their best. That means a dim, religious light. The women really look well—but. No one in the theaters can read the casts. The actors below the stars get into the great unknown class. No one knows or cares who they are.

So we must have more light in the show houses, or bigger type on the bills—or our best minor actors and actresses might as well be mazziniks.

Hitch in Spring Valley Purchase

The Spring Valley purchase, that was announced by the incoming administration as its cardinal feature, limps along very slowly.

The fact is that the people are more and more brought to regret the failure to buy these properties when they could have been had for a reasonable amount.

The owners are now asking millions in advance, and the administration is afraid to present the matter in its new aspect to the voters.

The city should have had this property years ago, as, with the development of the city and the state, its value constantly advances.

The people can blame their not obtaining the system not more to McCarthy's open opposition than to the extraordinary technicalities that were woven around the subject by City Attorney Percy Long and Judge Curtis Lindley.

No one, other than old Mayor Taylor, the banshee of the Hastings College of Law, who was then mayor, has ever been able to understand why the people could not have voted directly to buy Spring Valley when it was formerly offered.

Percy Long and Judge Lindley determined that the people could not vote for something they wanted without voting for something they did not want at the same time, thus splitting the vote and rendering it most difficult, if not impossible, to obtain the necessary two-thirds for a bond issue.

The charter seemed plain enough, but these lawyers, in conjunction with the old Hastings College lawyer, determined that there was some occult meaning to it that required a double-barreled submission, and the affair was beaten by the division of the vote.

The legal work of these worthies is likely to cost San Francisco taxpayers ten millions of dollars.

That criticism of this conduct has borne fruit is shown by the rapidity and directness with which the city attorney's office commenced the condemnation suits for the city hall and civic center. That was an exhibition of "ginger" that the city liked. If Mayor Rolph can keep up that pace he may be mayor, without asking, for twenty years.

Civil Service and Municipal Ownership

The demand for municipal ownership is causing thoughtful men to investigate rather closely the workings of civil service.

The experience in Chicago, where it was tried extensively, raised the expense of government so much that there was a general demand for its abolition, which resulted in a compromise, by which the service was very much changed and modified, the power of dismissal being extended so as to insure diligence of subordinate employees.

Unless that can be done in San Francisco, municipal ownership will be almost twice as costly as private ownership.

An example is offered by the tax collector's office: Bush, the present tax collector, and incumbent of the office for several years past, is admittedly a good official; but his subordinates are strictly civil service and virtually independent of his authority.

The result is that the amount of labor they give to the taxpayer is principally measured by themselves and their own disposition to work.

A comparison of the cost of the tax collecting service with that of the several offices which up to this time have not been civil service—for example, the assessor's and county clerk's offices—shows the tax collector's office vastly greater.

It is estimated that the Spring Valley Water Company, which conducts a great deal larger collection system than that of the tax collector's office, effects the work for fifty per cent of the cost.

One instance of how this civil service works may be seen in E. R. Zion, one of its deputies and a chronic agitator, who finds time either day or night to attend meetings for any purpose other than the business of the tax office, whose services can be obtained for meddling with anybody's business or any form of socialism.

A suggestion has come from some sources, why should not the charter be amended, so that men like Zion will be required, for the large salaries received, to give large services to the city or be discharged by the head of the office in the interest of public work and general economy?

Warden Reilly and Tom Finn

The determination of the administration to remove Warden Reilly of Folsom again brings up the subject of Tom Finn, now senator, ex-sheriff and ex-Schmitz deputy sheriff, ex-Schmitz supervisor and ex-Schmitz fire commissioner.

Finn has made it plain to McCabe & Co. that he does not purpose to become an active member of the "Hollering Righteous" and to shout for a third term for Theodore, or anybody, until he is annexed to the state treasury in the form of a plump and juicy job.

Whether Reilly is or is not to make a place for Finn, that person serves as an illustration of why the average reform movement in the United States is short lived.

Finn has represented the character of politics that has been the target for vitriolic attack in this state by "reform" for many years.

He was a substantial part of the old machine, always obedient.

He was the headstone of the corner of the Schmitz administration during its worst period.

As soon as "reform" was installed in office, Finn bowed low, offered obedience and was promptly accepted. He was the same Tom Finn, serving a new machine instead of an old machine. The leopard had not changed his spots, except to get up from one spot and sit on another, but he was at once enfolded in the arms of the "Hollering Righteous" and given a brand new aureola.

Tom Finn is only an example of what, in less prominent form, has been done all along the line throughout the state.

The people are beginning to recognize that a machine is a machine, no matter what it happens to be called; that the purpose of a machine is to prevent the people from expressing themselves freely; that it is, in fact, an effort to dominate and control them to the plans and purposes of the engineer of the machine; and there is every indication that in the state primary in May the voters will throw McCabe & Co.'s new engine out the track.

Mormon Money in Irrigation

An evidence of how the state, through its subdivision of lands and the development of irrigation, is attracting outside capital, is exhibited, not only by the French money that is backing the Kuhns in the upper Sacramento Valley, and the large Eastern investments made in and around Sacramento City, but, within a few weeks, there have been immense investments of Mormon capital which has quietly filtered into California.

Two very large irrigation systems have been given new life from this source—the Cakdale irrigation system and the South San Joaquin irrigation system being completely financed and all their bonds being taken by Salt Lake people.

Much effort was made, apparently, to conceal the direction from which this capital came, but it was learned, beyond doubt, this week that these immense sums came from Mormon capitalists, the money reaching its destination through the law office of Gavin McNab in this city.

Bar Association and the Judges

There is some rumbling regarding the Bar Association's recommendation for judges.

Last year the association got in wrong by trying to defeat Judge Weller, incumbent. Despite the opposition of the association, he polled an overwhelming vote, his opponent, with the Bar Association's backing, making an absurd showing.

Now, the association has authorized Judge Lindley, its president, to appoint a committee to select candidates for superior judges. It was assumed that naturally the four incumbents would be supported by the association, but, lo and behold! as soon as Judge Lindley was authorized to name the recommending body, the chief clerk in his office, Emil Pohl, became an active candidate for superior judge.

Now the lawyers are asking, Was there any connection between Judge Lindley's authorization to appoint a committee to choose candidates and the immediate candidacy of his associate for one of the jobs?

The friends of the other candidates are up in arms, and any effort on the part of the committee to "job" the situation will raise a tremendous row in the Bar Association. The tomahawks are already grinding, and there is likely to be a fight that will go down in history.

Mayor Rolph and Board of Health

The effort to induce Mayor Rolph to remove a member of the Board of Health so as to give the members appointed by Mayor Taylor, removed by Mayor McCarthy and reinstated by Judge Seawell, a majority, has not met with success.

The Taylor members wonder why, but the mayor has no desire to be made a "cat's paw" to administer the city's patronage to the Taylor crowd.

Arthur H. Barendt, president of the board, a Taylor appointee, is ordinarily intelligent and up-to-date—that is, in most things; but having been appointed by Taylor he became inoculated with the characteristics of that administration, one of which was that no man appointed under it knew that the world moved from that time. There never was an administration that could look further backward than Taylor's. The traits that have made Taylor's control of the Hastings Law School its burden and encumbrance permeated every element of municipal affairs during that term. In a race backward the Taylor administration officials could have challenged the world and beaten all comers by two to one.

But Mayor Rolph is asking San Francisco to go forward.

During a few days following Judge Seawell's decision, the McCarthy board was stunned and allowed the Taylor board to remove appointees and fill their places.

The assortment of political epitaphs that were then dug up made the department look like a city of the dead.

Beginning with poor old Gus Pratt there occurred the most ghastly resurrection procession of modern times. No person who could have been accused of political or other use for ten years prior to that time was eligible.

Mayor Rolph's progressive friends stood aghast.

It didn't take the McCarthy members long to know that the Rolph administration had no interest whatever in the attempted exhuming of the Taylor regime's remains. And since then the constant application of the Taylor relics to have the mayor remove a man to give them a majority has fallen on deaf ears.

Mistaken for Lanky Bob

Judge J. E. Black of Richmond, Mo., who is here to help select a site for his State at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, tells of when he was once mistaken for Bob Fitzsimmons and lost no time in hunting up the prize fighter to see for himself if there could be any resemblance. The judge, who has been taken to their hearts by members of a genial coterie at the St. Francis, narrated the tale to them last night. He was walking along one of the avenues in Washington, D. C., a couple of years ago with a friend when all of a sudden it dawned on them both that they were being followed by a motley crowd of boys and men. They each quietly and quickly asked the other if there was anything on or about their clothing to attract the curious. Satisfying themselves on that score, Judge Black's friend finally began to laugh.

"What's the matter?" demanded the judge.

"They take you for Lanky Bob Fitzsimmons, the fighter, for I heard several back of me just whisper about it," replied his friend again laughing. "They are praising your length of arms, too, judge."

"Who, me? The h—l you say?" replied the Missourian shortly and to the point.

They darted into a friendly hotel and gave the crowd the slip. That night Fitzsimmons was giving an exhibition at one of the theaters and the judge and his friend attended and later on met the fighter.

"After I got a good look at him," continued the man from Missouri, "I got mad at that crowd for mistaking me for that red-haired, freckled-faced, spindle-legged pugilist. He had a long arm, however, and mine was as long and strong. He said so himself pleasantly and finally I got interested in him. His shoulders were thicker than mine, but I was the taller of the two. We both were a little bald, with high foreheads. We got chatty and chummy. He asked me if I was still mad about being taken for him. I said no and we parted good friends."

Fleeced by Dice Experts

A young South American just here from Paris to meet his father, who is en route by way of Colon and Panama, was beaten out of 38,000 francs at a dice game while coming across to New York on one of the crack Atlantic liners several weeks ago. It was after dinner one evening that he was casually asked by several men as well dressed and apparently as well educated as himself if he cared to indulge in a little game of dice-throwing at 200 francs per throw.

He did.

Winning for awhile, he was asked if he objected to throwing for 500 francs a shake.

He didn't.

It was then that the young Spaniard from the southern continent had loaded, fingered and all other kinds of dice played against him. Just as he had lost 38,000 francs the captain of the steamer, who had been quietly told by somebody of the "gentlemanly" robbery going on, appeared and demanded that the young man be given back his money. Out of the angry discussion and the captain's threats against the professional dice men, our young visitor here got back 28,000 francs. He allowed the other $2000, or 10,000 francs, to go as a costly but good experience. The senior en route is a liberal father with the son but demands from the latter itemized accounts several times a year of what he does with his allowances. He is now scheming as to how he will account for the 10,000 francs he was robbed of with dice in his next statement, due when "the elderly senior" arrives in San Francisco late this month.

"I have traveled a lot and these men appeared to be such fine, gentlemanly fellows, too," is the way he ends his tale of the encounter with them and their boxes of little cubes of bones.

Requisition for Half Pencil

Superintendent Sheridan of the Southern Pacific at Sacramento has been making a great record on his large division, with its mountain lines, for economy as well as efficiency in administration. This is said to be the reason why he is basking in the official sunlight that burns steadily from the Flood building throne of the corporation in San Francisco. It is stated that during the past eight months he cut down expenses 12 per cent without in any way interfering with any of the elements of the service, much to the surprise and delight of his superiors. To help do this, he, on several occasions, ordered all stations, big and little, to cut down their monthly requisitions for supplies one-half. In this connection Sheridan does not like to hear about what an agent at his smallest station did. This fellow was accustomed to make a monthly requisition for, among other things, one lead pencil. When he got the order to cut his requisition in half he literally obeyed, ordering, among his other reduced supplies, half a lead pencil. Sheridan's sense of humor is represented as having saved the agent a reprimand and also the use of half a pencil. He was given an exception in the matter of pencils, being given two a month after that. Probably he is getting more now.

Profit at Hotel Bars

David S. Rose, former mayor of Milwaukee, had a secret confab a few nights ago with the managers of twenty odd hotels in this city. The conference was held at the Palace. Rose is one of the most active emissaries of the great brewery and whisky interests in the United States in their propaganda against both local option and prohibition. He talked on these matters to the hotel men, urging them to give hearty support against any movements or laws aiming to close saloons, whether in or out of hotels. Rose talked to a sympathetic audience and was assured a cordial backing at any time. The hotel managers at this little meeting represent institutions which sell daily in the aggregate $10,000 worth of all kinds of liquors. This means $300,000 a month, say, or $3,600,000 yearly. This is a big bar bill, much of which is cold profit, and the hotel people do not want it disturbed. So Rose is going to get all kinds of support from them and all other hotel men any and everywhere. Much of the $10,000 mentioned is for liquor sold at meals and in guests' rooms, as well as across the bar. Take, for instance, the daily liquor sales of all kinds at the Palace, Fairmont and St. Francis. They must run in the aggregate over $4000 a day. The St. Francis bar is probably the best paying institution of its kind west of Chicago.

The Visit of Miss Gould

Miss Helen Gould, the eldest of the six children of Jay Gould, who has been greatly honored here during the past ten days, is a most gracious and modest woman, resembling in those respects, as well as in the sincerity and thoroughness of the work for good she does, Miss Anne Morgan, the daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan. Miss Morgan is the more aggressive of the two and takes an active part in the work and labor troubles of woman labor unions, like Miss Maud Younger, the society girl of this city, whom she greatly admires. Miss Gould finds her greatest pleasure in reaching the working girl through the Y. W. C. A. and the sailor, soldier and railway employe through branches of the Y. M. C. A. and kindred bodies. It is said Miss Gould's share of the annual earning or profits of the Jay Gould fortune is $500,000. In Los Angeles next week she will have the pleasure of meeting for the first time in several years, Mrs. A. M. Hough, an aunt and elderly sister of her father, who lives there. Mrs. Hough is now past eighty years of age. Both she and her late husband gave much to the University of Southern California and she has arranged, it is said, to give by will a large sum to the cause of Methodism when she dies. Miss Gould is represented as being decidedly persona grata to her sister, the Princess De Sagan of Paris, and her four brothers, George, Howard, Frank and Edwin, in spite of vastly different ideas entertained by them all regarding society, divorce and the management of their late father's estate. Frank Gould, in spite of his divorce and marriage to Edith Kelly, the actress, is said to be her favorite brother.

Epigrams of Eleanor Sears

Judging by what some of her San Francisco and Burlingame friends say, Miss Elinora Sears, the Boston society and athletic woman, now visiting here, can indulge in epigrams and make other keen mental observations as well as do all sorts of polo, walking and other athletic stunts. Some one remarked to her the other day that she understood at one time she seriously thought of purchasing a most modernly-designed monoplane.

"I did have that in view some months ago," was the reply.

A friend, overhearing, ventured to represent to Miss Sears the extravagant cost of aviation, whereupon she quickly replied:

"Well, I like extravagance. Economy, anyhow, is only a way of spending money without getting any fun out of it."

On another occasion they were talking about a certain good public speaker the Burlingame set is fond of.

Miss Sears expressed the opinion that he, like other good speakers, or orators, was too much given to monologue to be a clever and charming conversationalist, one considerate of the talking rights, as it were, of others present.

Some lady champion of the gentleman ventured to reply that he surely never attempted to monopolize the conversation.

The lady athlete from the Hub then sweetly replied: "Most gracious and polite he is at all times, but I think he firmly believes clear down in his heart that ladies are after all only interruptions."

Huntington's Valuable Collection

Friends of Henry E. Huntington, of Los Angeles tell me that he and not George D. Smith of New York was the recent purchaser for $5000 of the Robert Hoe copy of the first edition of Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales," printed in 1477-78, and of which there are only eleven existing copies. From the same source I am told that the private library of the late E. Dwight Church of Brooklyn, which Huntington purchased a few months ago for $1,300,000, and which is said to be one of the finest collections of books in the world, is to be put in shape for a partial resale in New York. Mr. Huntington is to keep many of the volumes and ship them to his Southern California home. It is expected the United States Government will purchase many historic documents, which are one feature of this library. It is also said Huntington has arranged to sell a part to J. Pierpont Morgan. In the past ten years Huntington has bought many costly paintings. Those who know assert he only buys pictures that please him and not because they are rare or expensive. Another characteristic of this extensive art collector is that he does not like statuary nor buy it, because he never could take the least interest in it. The famous Boucher tapestries, the only complete set in the world, he regards as one of the prizes of his collection. These tapestries were made for one of the Louis and presented by him to the English ambassador to the French court. They are said to be marvelous examples of color combination, the secret of mixing one of the colors used, a deep red, having been lost to modern tapestry weavers.

The Library Not for Him

Lansing Mizner, one of five clever brothers and a wit of local cloddism, was reading a paper in the commodious reading room of the Pacific Union Club some days ago when a friend near by, who was talking, remarked:

"Lans, unless you have splendid powers of concentration, I fear our conversation over here will disturb you. Why do you not go up to the library where no one will disturb you and get completely engrossed?"

Now, Mizner thinks all about the Pacific Union Club is A-1 except the library, which seems to have lagged behind the other departments of the institution for some unexplained reason, and is awfully lonesome most of the time. So hearing this thoughtful and well-meant suggestion about conserving his powers of concentration by going to the library he blandly replied:

"Say, brother, don't ask me to leave this roomy, cheery place and go off to the library. Why, if I went there and happened to fall dead, they wouldn't find my body for ten days."

Faith in California Lands

Here are two people of a kind California wants more of. W. H. McDoel of Chicago was in town the other day looking after the completion of a deal by which he has brought for about $550,000 some 33,000 acres of farming land in Siskiyou county. It is a cash proposition. I am informed McDoel will subdivide it and settle upon small tracts a lot of Illinois farmers. At one time this man was president of the Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railroad, commonly known as the Monon route. During the past few years he has made a great fortune in Union Pacific common stock. For a week early in the past winter, following one of his Union Pacific deals, he was considered to have more ready cash than any other fellow in the "Windy" City.

A member of the French colony tells me that the Comtesse Louise de Ferre de Paris will be here in the late spring for the purpose of purchasing a ranch for her son. The comtesse is said to be a contributor under a pen name to several foreign magazines and is about to publish a book of poems. She is wealthy and is represented as wanting to indulge in ranch life herself for a year or two or until she sees what her son can or will try to do with a California farm. She is particularly anxious to find out what the sons of Lady Paget of England are doing with their ranch in the southern part of this state. The boys she refers to are known as the "Paget twins" in this city and the south and are making a success of their ranch.

Fees of Medical Profession

Dr. ———, understanding his name was not to be used, commented last evening on the suit of Dr. Walter H. Fearn of Lakeport against Milas Gopevic for $6480 for medical services rendered Peter Gopevic, Milas' brother, for twenty-nine days at Milas' palatial country home in Lake county.

"As no capital operation, or operations, were performed and as there were no extraordinary conditions to handle," remarked the doctor, "I fail to see where such a bill is either according to medical ethics or the law. I know of no single physician in either San Francisco or Los Angeles, the two largest cities on the coast, who ever made in one month for a case of ordinary treatment what Dr. Fearn is asking of Gopevic. I am reputed to be making $70,000 a year. I am not. I have made as high as $5000 a month for a year. That is high water for me in the way of one year's fees. I think there are two doctors in Los Angeles who each make $60,000 a year. Probably there are seven in San Francisco who do equally as well and four in Seattle. But in these cases many operations take place in the twelve months. In addition, these doctors meet many difficult and hard cases. Then these large practices I speak of involve the most strenuous kind of work day and night. I have got to a position where I can choose many of my cases. I am content to make less and have more time to myself and family. Yes, it is true that in the medical profession the few get the large fees while the many eke out only a fair living. I guess this condition of affairs is true in all the professions, but particularly so in the law and medicine."

Long Career in the Army

Brigadier-General Daniel H. Brush, U. S. A., in command of the Department of California under Division Commander and Major-General Arthur Murray, tells me he will be relieved from duty on Friday, April 12, and be retired on account of age May 9. Brush was appointed to West Point from Illinois in 1867 and has always been an infantry officer. At one time he was major of the Twenty-fifth and colonel of the Twenty-fourth, the two negro regiments in the army. He has a kind word for the darkey as a soldier, speaking well of his courage and amenability to discipline. Ten colonels would like to succeed Brush. It is thought, however, that Brigadier-General Clarence Edwards, now serving as chief of the insular bureau of the War Department, may be transferred to the line on the retirement of Brush and be made assistant chief of staff to succeed Major-General W. H. Carter, who, report has it, is to go to Chicago to command the central division.

Brush was made a brigadier-general in 1908 and has been here about a year. In the short time he has been in the city General Brush has made many friends both in and out of the army.

Selling Off Part of Estate

One who knows said the other day that while Lord Alistair-Leveson Gower was in California at Coronado and Burlingame playing polo with Lord Herbert and Lord Tweedmouth some weeks ago, his mother, the Duchess of Sutherland, was announcing the completion of a play and his father, the old Duke of Sutherland, was selling some of his ancient English and Scotch estates and using the money to purchase lands in Alberta, Canada, where picked farmers from Britain are to be sent out as tenants.

My informant says the Duchess of Sutherland has written a modern comedy piece which she hopes to have produced in London next fall under her own name as the authoress. Her first drama, he says, was a complete failure, the London critics insisting that it had not the least bit of merit, whereupon they belabored it unmercifully. Her first play was issued under a masculine pen name, but the critics knew whose brain product it was while they were hounding it into oblivion. By the way, Gower is said to have commended Lord Herbert for not permitting Lady Herbert, in her polo race with Eleanor Sears at Coronado, to ride astride and in masculine garb, and to have thought it "bestly bad form" for Lord Tweedmouth at the same resort to walk on his hands up and down a flight of fifteen steps on a wager for Dolly, a polo pony, owned by Walter Dupee, which he won and took back to England with him.

Long Fight Against Frear

Samuel Parker and J. K. Kalaniana'ole, or Prince Cupid, the Hawaiian delegate to Congress, are said to think they have got their fight to eliminate Governor Walter F. Frear as a factor in island politics in pretty good shape. They have made a long and bitter fight against him, but what, if any, promises they have obtained from President Taft are not known. Prince Cupid and the late Prince David were brothers and nephews of the late King Kalakaua. Prince David's widow is the wealthy Princess Kawanamika, at present in London but prominent socially here. Sam Parker's late second wife was her mother. Mrs. George Beckley and Mrs. Robert Shingle of Honolulu are her sisters.

It is believed to be a fact that Parker does not want the governorship, but stands with Prince Cupid to have either L. Tenney Peck or Robert Shingle of Honolulu as the successor of Frear. Shingle is young and ambitious and prefers the delegateship to Congress. However, he refuses to contest the honor with Prince Cupid. If Shingle gets the governorship then his wife, a child of a poor Scotch carpenter, who, years ago, landing on the islands, made a fortune in sugar and married a native woman of much beauty, will be the first official lady of Hawaii.

The ostensible fight against Governor Frear is that he, like his predecessor in office, is not doing anything to encourage the sale of homestead tracts to white people as an offset to the Japanese growth of population in the islands.

This is probably a fair bird's-eye view of present politics in the fair little South Sea territory of Uncle Sam, where the country's last and deposed queen, Lilioukalani, is growing feeble from old age, the last of the Kamehameha dynasty, save Prince Cupid.

THE KNAVE.

CROP REPORTS FAIL TO IMPRESS

Speculators Decline to Load Up on Wheat Under the Present Conditions.

(By JOSEPH F. PRITCHARD.)

CHICAGO, April 6.—Wheat speculators with many years of experience and who have suffered financial losses by taking on the line of this cereal under like conditions now prevailing are refusing to swallow the many unfavorable crop reports being rushed into the board of trade.

Anyone who is well posted on the roll of the winter wheat country knows that a heavy clay land at least a fortnight longer to "warm up" than it does the early fall. Many of the unfavorable reports to come to Chicago have been from clay land sections, while those from the sandy soil have been on the whole favorable.

Some of the winter wheat states have commenced to issue reports on the condition of wheat, and two of these were heard to today by C. A. Rice & Co. of Toledo. The Michigan report placed the condition of wheat at 84, compared with 86 in December, 87 a year ago and 81 last June, when the crop was 19,000,000 bushels.

The Missouri report placed the condition of wheat at 85 against 86 in December, 21 last April and at last time when the crop was 22,000,000 bushels.

These crop reports, when considered with conditions said to exist in December, are worthless. During that month nearly the entire winter wheat belt was covered with snow, and in addition to that the winter was so severe that the plants which were uncovered made no progress.

The Finley-Barrell company crop expert reports the condition of the Kansas wheat plant as promising. Norris & Co's correspondent at Kansas City says some wheat fields which looked damaged last week present a fine appearance now. Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas can all lose 20 per cent from present prospects and still make 75,000,000 bushels more wheat than last year; that some of the damage reports, after having been traced down, proved greatly exaggerated or absolutely false.

Additional buying power was shown in the corn market during the past few days, and for this reason, coupled with the inability of those who believe that corn is too high, allowed further and pronounced advances to be established. The outlook is for a bull market in oats for some little time to come. While the September future has been a favorite with several of the larger speculators, the July is being "hoisted" by others, as they feel that it will be impossible to have any amount of the new crop here by that month.

SYMPATHY WITH CORN.

Instead of profiting the strong provision market to the buying by those who are interested largely in a financial way in the manufactured stuff held here it is now charitable to say that the provision advance is in sympathy with corn. It may also be said that values are likely to be manipulated upward and downward in order to secure the scalps of those who are in the running.

May wheat was "pegged" at 1.04 during most of today's session, but the price was let down to 1.03 1/2, the lowest level, at the close and unchanged from Friday's closing. Corn gained 1/4¢ and oats were up 1/4¢. Provisions were higher all around.

TAFT DELEGATES TO BE SELECTED IN KENTUCKY

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 6.—With the Kentucky Republican state convention set for April 10, both the Roosevelt and Taft supporters were busy today forecasting victory and claiming the national delegates to be selected by that body.

A recapitulation of the fight between the two Republican factions, however, seems to favor the Taft element. Not only is the Roosevelt machine in Kentucky apparently well in hand, but under the leadership of Senator Prewitt it has won the support of many followers in all the preliminary meetings.

Despite this fact, however, the colonel's cohorts were positive today that they had sufficiently strengthened their organization to force the convention to give at least a fair division of the national delegates.

SERIOUSLY HURT.

When his horse ran away with him at Forty-fifth and Lawton avenue late yesterday, Joe Carroll, a fruit peddler living at 172 Third street, was thrown out of the rig and sustained a broken collar bone, three fractured ribs and punctured lungs. He was taken to the Receiving hospital by the police and attended by Dr. G. G. Reinle. Later he was removed to the Providence hospital.

POLITICS HUMMIN' IN SQUASHTOWN

Final Rallies of Four Parties to Be Held Wednesday Evening.

Next Wednesday evening will see the final rally of the political aspirants of "Squashtown," the burlesque country town of the Oakland lodge of Elks. The "Squashtown" affair is similar to the "Grizzly Flat" feature arranged by the lodge some time ago, and its principal feature is the town election, in which a number of well known Oaklanders appear as candidates. Four parties, the Fusionists, Independents, Socialists and Prohibitionists appear in the burlesque campaign, and a great rally Wednesday night will close the fight.

The election will take place on April 11 and will be one of the big events of the "Squashtown" entertainment. At the final rally the following speakers will be heard:

Fusionist—George W. Erick, John Bonham and Theo. Glor.

Independent—R. J. Sheridan, C. L. Tisdale and I. H. Clay.

Socialist—H. S. Anderson, C. E. Lee and W. H. L. F.

Prohibition—Frank W. Leavitt, W. B. Gibson and Louis Newhall.

Candidates are nominated for the following offices in "Squashtown":

MAJOR, JUSTICE OF THE PEACE, CONSTABLE, TOWN CLERK, POUNDMASTER, TREASURER, CORNER AND TRUSTEES (THREE TO THE BOARD).

ROSSINI COMPOSITION TO BE SUNG BY CHOIR

A selection from "Stabat Mater" will be a feature of the service by an augmented choir in the Church of the Advent of East Oakland, at the Easter services this morning. The music will be under the direction of Rev. D. Walker Bours, and will be as follows:

Stabat Mater, from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," by Rossini Professional Hymn, 113, from "L'Ere" (Stabat Mater), by Dudley Buck To Deum, Festival, No. 4, in B flat.

IS SURE SHOT.

SEATTLE, April 6.—The Alaska whales will be sorry to learn of the sailing for the north from Seattle today of Lieutenant Sigurd Bliok of Christiania, late of the Norwegian navy, who has been engaged by a Baronoff Island whaling concern on account of his remarkable marksmanship. Wha shots are expensive. Bliok, in his whaling cruises off the coast of Ireland missed but two whales out of 384 fired at.

ARRIVE HOME FROM EAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Grant are expected to arrive here today after a tour of two or three months throughout the Eastern states. They will spend the summer in Burlingame, where they are planning a magnificent home to take the place of the one destroyed by fire two years ago. It will be a replica of an old English manor house that took their fancy during a recent European journey.

BEAUTIFUL HAIR WOMAN'S CHARM. NO NECESSITY FOR GRAY HAIR.

A Simple Remedy Beautifies and Darkens the Hair. Cures Dandruff.

What a pity it is to see so many people with thin, wispy hair, faded or streaked with gray, and realize that most of these people might have soft, glossy, abundant hair of beautiful color and lustre if they would but use the proper treatment. There is no necessity for gray hair under sixty-five years of age, and there is no excuse for anyone, young or old, having thin, straggling hair, either full of dandruff or heavy and rank with excessive oil.

You can bring back the natural color of your hair in a few days and forever rid yourself of any dandruff and loose hairs, and make your hair grow strong and beautiful by using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. For generations common garden Sage has been used for restoring and preserving the color of the hair; and Sulphur is recognized by Scalp Specialists as being excellent for treatment of hair and scalp troubles.

If you are troubled with dandruff or itching scalp, or if your hair is falling out or coming out, get a fifty-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur from your druggist, and notice the improvement in the appearance of your hair after a few days' treatment. Special Agent, Owl Drug Co.

JOY-GIVING IDORA AWAITS EASTER THROWS

PLEASUREPARK IS OPEN FOR SEASON

Creator's Band Charms Many Thousands at Saturday Inauguration.

Two Programs Are to Be Given Today by the Noted Musical Leader.

HAPPINESS reigns in the heart of the open air amusement lover and the thrill gorm is again abroad in the land. For Idora, the big twenty-acre-joy of a million out of door pleasure seekers, the mammoth fun factory that counts its patrons by the car, train and boat load, the park of merriment and music, has swung wide its gates for the season of 1912.

If you were one of the tremendous throng that stormed it yesterday afternoon or night you must have been impressed with this fact to a far more eloquent degree than may be set forth by mere words. If you were not included in yesterday's crowds, don't miss being present today but join the majority at Idora. Last Easter Sunday more than 60,000 juveniles and children grown tall clicked their way through the busy turnstiles. All indications point to even a greater attendance today.

CREATOR'S FAMOUS BAND.

And there is good reason for such a supposition for General Manager B. L. York, to whom all credit for a wonderfully conceived season is due, is offering far and away the greatest band ever presented in the West. He has dared to present Creator and his band, the highest priced musical attraction of its kind in America today, with no other charge to patrons than that small admission fee which all must pay to enter Idora Park. This incomparable organization and that king of bandmasters who, with the baton of wisdom, directs it, is no stranger to the music lovers of the bay state. Many remember the 1908 when, in spite of $1.50 concert prices, Creator turned hundreds away from San Francisco's mammoth Dreamland Rink. And now those who heard Creator then and, better still, those who could not afford to pay high prices of admission then, are privileged to hear him at Idora free of all charge.

No such demonstration as that which greeted Creator last night has ever been known in this locality. People climbed their chairs in their enthusiasm, waving hats and handkerchiefs and shouting "bravos" of acclaim. This demonstration came at the close of the first half of a wonderful program and was repeated at the close of the second. Today Creator, with again electricity with two tremendous programs, one to begin at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the other at 8 in the evening. Hear them by all means. But, if by chance you are kept absent from Idora today, there is the consolation that the great Creator and his band will be at the "Park Beautiful" for several weeks to come. Programs are to be given every afternoon and every evening in the amphitheater and each will differ from that played before.

A WONDERFUL LEADER.

As for Creator, no amount of written words can describe him. He is the musician, the leader, the positive, dominant and unrivaled. So great are his powers and his breadth of musical understanding that one is almost tempted to believe that, where other conductors leave off, he begins. He is the last word in band literature interpretation. Nor is this assertion of artistic latitude to cover his marvelous attainments and his natural genius. For that which Creator interprets is more than mere "band music," albeit it is with such a designated medium that he works his wonderful effects. One has but to close the eyes and shut out the noise of the instruments actually used by the bandmen to believe that, not one, but several, assemblages of players are weaving those superb tone pictures. First a symphony orchestra, with a thousand strings seems to carry the theme, then presto, and a great pipe organ has replaced it. And, while yet you listen, the organ melts away, the tempo increases, brass joins the cry of the reeds, the kettle drums rumble their thunder, the tremendous climax is reached, is gone and you open your eyes to a host of waving handkerchiefs and beyond, on his little platform, the disheveled Creator bows to the applause of the multitude.

MANY ATTRACTIVE FEATURES.

But to dwell upon Creator is to speak of but one of the many fascinating features of a park filled with fads and fancies done to the heart of the summer vacation devotee. There are the rides that thrill and the loops that startle—the frolics of 1912 in their latest trills and furbelows. There are such never-to-be-tired-of-favorites as the scenic, the coaster and

STUDENTS' FROLIC TO BE ELABORATE

Art School Pupils to Entertain at Novel Affair in New York.

NEW YORK, April 6.—The annual frolic of the Art Students' League of New York will begin here on Monday with a series of attractions which are expected to produce enough in admittance fees to provide scholarships and help for the needy among the student force.

There will be the Fakir's show, laid amid scenes of tropical splendor, with the Panama canal as a central setting and scores of pretty girls in Bohemian dress passing and repassing along the street. In addition to this a gigantic slide show has been arranged, one of the features of which will be a half-cutting specialty, with girl students as barbers. The entertainment, however, that it is believed will prove the most alluring will be the open-air tea gardens, also set in the land of the palms. Here barefoot waitresses will serve the drink of the Japanese, while fortune tellers will move from table to table forecasting futures.

ATTACHES FURNITURE OF ENTIRE CITY HALL

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., April 6.—For more than an hour today the municipality of Portsmouth has what he claims his pet formulas, says a retired druggist. I put in over 20 years in the retail drug business and I spent many hours figuring and working out formulas. The three most successful ones were a greaseless cold cream—a skin whitener and a hair cream. These formulas were sold for years, but any woman can make them herself in a few minutes, thereby saving the profit I made.

YOUTHS ARRESTED AS HOLDUP MEN

Believed by the Police to Have Robbed a Number of Japanese.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—With the arrest this afternoon of Henry La Franz, age 19, Walter Tesch, age 18, and Jack Crawford, age 20, the police believe they have in custody the men responsible for almost daily holdups of Japanese in the eastern addition. La Franz, who is charged with robbery, confessed to six different crimes, and Crawford admits two. Tesch protests his innocence, although he is accused of La Franz's last holdup. The latter is on probation for five years for burglary, by Superior Judge Cabanis.

SAYS ANOTHER WOMAN IMPERSONATED HER

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Mrs. Joseph A. Doyle, the wife of the manager of the Argonaut Hotel in Honolulu, who claims that she is being impersonated by another woman, yesterday told the police today, and Detective Cashel was detailed to aid her in arresting the impostor. It appears that Mrs. Doyle was preceded here by another woman, who likewise claimed to be Mrs. Doyle, and had used her name in the purchase of large accounts, the bills in each instance being sent to her.

CHILD'S WELFARE LEAGUE TO DISCUSS LEGISLATION

The Child's Welfare League will hold a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Chabot hall, when the league will discuss the legislation to be discussed.

HISTORIC BALL CLOSES SEASON

Many Americans Attend the Big Affair of European Society.

NICE, April 6.—The historic ball which took place in the hall of the Theater des Varieties here, for the purpose of burying the season with honor, was very picturesque and was participated in by many Americans. No one was admitted who was not made up, as to the head at least, to represent some historical character.

Tyler Mosse appeared as George Washington. Mrs. Jefferson Davis Cohn of New York was an excellent Louisa. Theodore W. Mayers appeared as Shakespeare. Washington Singer, Mortimer Singer and Harris Singer were the Three Musketeers. Mrs. Willie Blumenthal was made up to represent the Marquise de Pompadour. Mrs. Hall Walker, a granddaughter of John Leitch Audley, the historian, and a great granddaughter of Richard Brinsley Sheridan, appeared as Sarah Curran, the romantic and ill-fated fiancée of the Irish patriot, Robert Emmet.

What with the historical ball and archery taught the ladies by the old Baron de Saint Marc, the father-in-law of Miss Wall of Philadelphia, who invariably makes a perfect shot, the season has closed in great splendor for the Americans here. There have been masked balls of the Revolutionary period where in the Sans Culottes sent princess and priests to the guillotine. Americans appearing both as the trousseless and the aristocrats and the masked balls of the Directory, with Americans representing Napoleon and Josephine and preceded by mamequies, marshals and chamberlains and maids of honor, making a sensational entry.

'BEAR WEED' DOES NOT COAX BRUIN

Had to Be Stoned to Take It; Arrest Follows the Stoning.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Catskin has long been the ingredient which the fellow contingent cries for. The latest thing in animal food, however, appears to be bear weed, but far from whining for this delicacy, Bruno, it would seem, has to be stoned into taking it. For throwing rocks, intent upon coaxing the occupants of the bear pit in Golden Gate park to partake of the weed, Patrick Donovan, champion heavyweight shot putter, was arrested yesterday. Judge Shortall today, however, dismissed his case after being initiated into the secrets of bear weed. Detectives Harvey and Lennhardt of the Park station arrested Donovan for throwing stones at the bears. He explained to the court that he was trying to rouse them so that they might come and take the weed out of his hand. Donovan has a reputation of being able to throw a 50-pound shot over Twin Peaks. He lives at 82 Brady street.

WOMAN CONVICTED OF MURDER OF HER CHILD

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., April 6.—Mrs. Eva Bertelsen, on trial for the murder of her infant child, whose body was found in an irrigating ditch, was found guilty of manslaughter today. It was claimed that the child died from neglect. The jury signed a petition to Judge Freble asking him to impose the lowest possible penalty, which is a fine of one cent.

DIVORCE FROM EUGENE A. KELLY IN LEAVENWORTH, KAN., MAY 9, 1911.

410-412 FOURTEENTH ST. OAKLAND, OFF MIDTOWN THEATRE

This Practice Should End.

Many extraordinary practices grow up as makeshifts in legal procedure and in time gain all the respect paid to the law itself. Occasionally one of these is placed under the fire of destructive criticism and it is found to have neither honorable precedent nor practical worth.

Among these may perhaps be placed in a few days the custom of many police judges in the State in withholding commitments to prison after sentencing defendants for petty offenses. The matter is now before the Supreme Court for decision in the case of an Oakland man, the procedure under appeal having been taken in an Oakland court.

In the past it has been a custom to place a man upon probation in a more or less haphazard manner by withholding the commitment after sentencing him. The fear of sudden imprisonment is then held over him as a means of grace and a deterrent from further misdoing. A man is convicted or pleads guilty to some minor offense. The judge sentences him to six months in the city prison. To show clemency, the court then addresses a general warning to the culprit in these words:

"You are sentenced to serve six months at hard labor. But I am going to withhold the commitment, and you will be released at this time. This means that you will be free to leave the city. Or you may remain in the city on good behavior. But the moment you fall from the standard of right citizenship you will be arrested. This commitment will be placed in the hands of the police. If you are again arrested it will be turned over to me and I shall sign it and your sentence to the city prison on the present charge will commence. You may now go."

In delivering an obiter dictum concerning the practice of withholding commitment under this method the judge in the case now pending pointed to the fact that this method places in the hands of the police a weapon which they are not slow to use. The judicial function of the court is removed from its rightful place and conferred upon the police, as it rests with the uniformed officers of the law to say whether the defendant shall be arrested or not, and whether he shall be cast into prison.

The defendant, when arrested at the whim of some policeman, begins to serve sentence, ostensibly for the past offense, but in reality for the real or supposed offense for which he is arrested in the second instance. The function of the court is thus exercised by the police.

It is doubtful whether any precedents can be discovered for this practice. Its intent was and is a good one, but in its operation it opens the door to abuses that should not be tolerated. It is doubtful whether in practice it ever accomplished actual amelioration excepting in a very few instances.

Throwing vegetables in an advertisement for "competent, intelligent and earnest young men to go on the stage," David Belasco says, in an aside, that the thespians of today are bad actors. We pause to remind him that he is plagiarizing from the American theater-goers.

Three straight for the Oaks. A fearful rise in the mortality rate among grandmothers is predicted.

Death's Toll Among Aviators.

A safe and sane policy for aviators, consistent with a proper development of their art toward eventual passenger-carrying, is difficult to instill. Sensationalism, rather than sanity and caution, is a phase of aviation which appeals to the populace, and the birdman who does not produce thrills at the present stage of air conquest is a poor card. The spectators at the average aviation meet regard the airplane and similar craft as playthings and the two hours of play are not infrequently interrupted by Death.

Dips and double S's in the air are being discouraged by Wright brothers and by Glenn Curtiss, who realize that dreadful loss of life is not a necessary part of development in the direction of useful aerial navigation. These pioneers in aviation are winning converts among the airmen, but there are scores of air-travelers who are yet to be convinced that hair-raising stunts, often resulting in tragedy, need not continue for the making of an aviation holiday.

Aviator Rodgers, who was killed on the beach near Los Angeles recently, was the fourth birdman to give up his life in that vicinity. Providence intervened at the meet held in Oakland recently, and the spectators enjoyed death-inviting feats without the usual gloom. There was an accident, however, which showed that little separated it from tragedy.

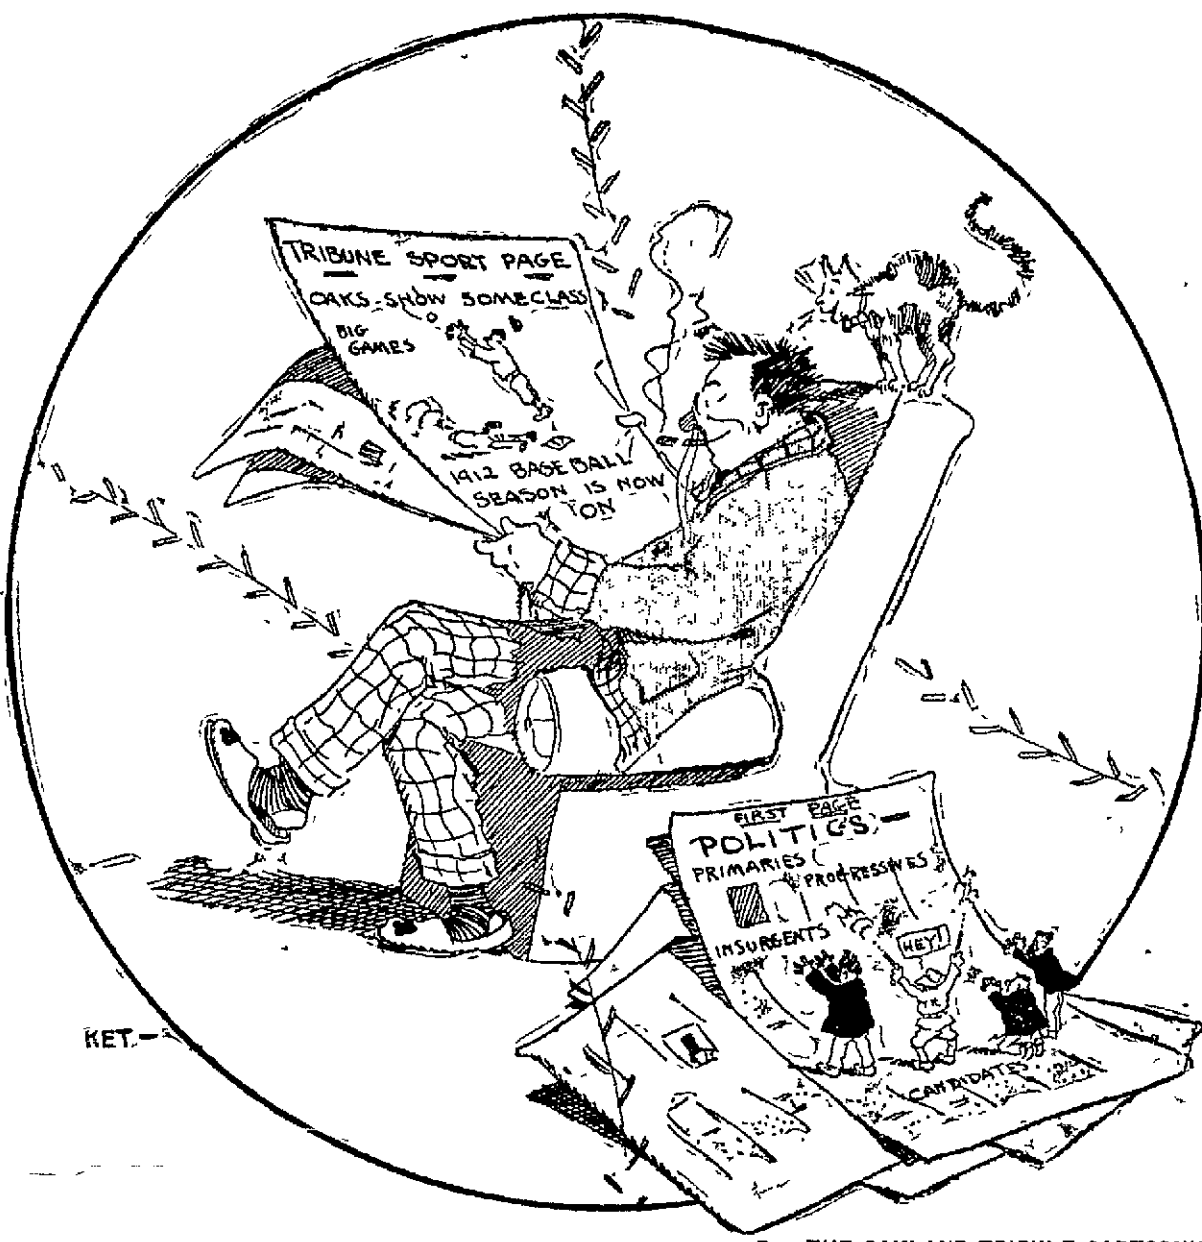

The aviator now caters to that side of man's nature which is satisfied by the bullfighter. The conqueror of the air, who is to revolutionize transportation and perhaps prove a civilization, deserves a better attitude on the part of modern, science-delving man.

The symbol of Americanism is still on the wing. We hear that a great eagle, weighing seventy-five pounds, has swooped down upon one of our citizens, giving him the battle of his life. He was fortunate to escape. The eagle with its golden head is still causing many a man continuous battle. A small percentage get the best of him, but it is the battle with the eagle that tells really what a man is worth in the end.

The Goat Has His Use.

The goat is about to join the "back to the farm" movement. Long famous as a denizen of city dumping grounds, where tin cans, old boots and bed springs have been his traditional diet, William is now being taken seriously in the State of Washington. Fifty angoras are to be used this spring and summer in clearing brush land in the Farmington district, south of Spokane. The plan appears feasible, and even if the land were covered with rocks the enterprise might be expected to succeed. The goats are to eat their way through the underbrush and enable at least one apple tree to grow where one small pine tree grew before. Goats have been used in other parts of the country to clear land, but this is the first time a band of fifty has been brought together for team-work. The angoras are to be taken from a ranch near Palouse, Washington, on which fourteen of the animals were set to work experimentally three years ago, putting the land in condition for cultivation. While yielding four to five pounds of wool each during the season, the goats cleared thirty-five acres of land, which was planted to corn, half the crop being sold for $375. The rest was fed to sixty hogs, which sold at a good figure. The wool of the goats sold for 35 to 45 cents a pound. William has indeed butted into something really worth while. Far from the madding crowd and the demoralizing influences of the city, he will have an opportunity to commune with nature in her happiest moods. He may yet add to the wealth and enjoyment of man. But if he deserts the vacant lots altogether, the locksmiths will have to find a new victim.

THE OLD LOVES

Protection of the Forests.

Protection against fire for sixteen million acres of land in California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana will be afforded this season under the direction of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, which, with its allied organizations, expended $970,000 for this work in 1910 and 1911. The land, which is to be systematically patrolled, contains more than 400,000,000,000 feet of standing timber. The association has decided to enlist the five States in forest protection, each to take steps to secure a portion of the Federal appropriation made possible by the Weeks law, which gives the government $200,000 to distribute over a period of three years in the work of timber conservation. The maximum amount for each State is $10,000 a year, provided the State itself expends an equal or larger amount of its own funds for fire-fighting purposes.

But even with a large patrol force, individual care will be necessary to prevent a repetition of the disastrous fires which, every year, have swept portions of the Pacific Coast's valuable timber region. It is natural that man should be careless in the use of fire where its danger is not seen. Many of the great forest conflagrations have started through the thoughtlessness of campers, and a campaign of education in timber protection is as necessary as widespread patrolling.

That Californians love art and music for art's sake is a boast that we have made many times in the past. A sort of "we are not like other men" in this respect spirit has pervaded us when it has been asserted by foreigners that Americans worship money and name instead of true artistry. Such being the case, what can we say in excuse for the performance of our public on Good Friday which assembled 10,000 strong at the Greek Theater to hear Rosini's "Stabat Mater"? Was it true love of art that made hundreds, almost thousands of people get up and leave the amphitheater after the favorite Tetrazzini had finished her rendition of the "Inflammatus" in spite of the fact that there were yet two of the most beautiful numbers of the score yet to be sung? Or was it that our people, like others, went to hear Tetrazzini because she is called great and gets several thousand dollars every time she sings? A little less self-righteous pride and a bit more true appreciation might be better shown.

Uncle Sam is a person who seldom forgets a wrong done him. He is one most slow to forgive and on the other hand, he is equally slow to punish the transgressor. L. B. Thornett, who posed as a nurse for Dr. Grant Lyman in a local hospital last fall and aided the wiley patient to escape while he was under a charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes, has at last been captured. He was taken into custody by secret service agents on an isolated ranch in New Mexico. He will now have to face a double charge—one of breaking jail and the other of aiding a federal prisoner to escape. After the Oakland hospital incident, both Dr. Lyman and Thornett were arrested in Oregon. While being held in jail Thornett escaped. Dr. Lyman was not so successful. Since that time his nurse has been at large, but the government agents have been constantly active; which all goes to show that the way of the transgressor is hard.

Easter Sunday in a California Valley

'Tis Sabbath morn—the solemn highway winding—
An orange grove where calla lilies twine—
The tender hum of silence, self-reminding—
A little church near by its sombre pine—
All seems as if it were earth to heaven kneeling,
While nature's All would offer up a prayer,
Laden for us with balm that bringeth healing,
As peace aloft gives greeting to the air.
'Tis Easter morn," the little church declares—
'Come ye within and hear the story told
Of One who rose triumphant o'er the cares
Of the life that died, the truth of life to unfold!"

And that little church's story
Who would fail to celebrate,
As it strains beyond the mundane,
With love within the gate?
'Tis faith that bids her enter,
Knowing well who 'twas that sent her
With the message—Easter's presence—
To us all that God is Love.

—J. M. HARRIS.

WHEN GEORGE V DINES

King George's French chef arrives at the palace at which his master is resident at about 11 o'clock, and forthwith receives from the master of the household the menus that have been selected for the day. Thereupon the chef gives the necessary orders for provisions and remains in his kitchen until luncheon has been served. He is then at liberty to depart for a short period, returning at 8 o'clock, when he undertakes the preparation of the royal dinner. When this has been accomplished he presents a bill for the day's expenses and receives a check for the amount from the treasurer. That completes the chef's work for the day.

But while he has been at work in the kitchen he has done much. A really wonderful process of preparation has been carried out. When the King and Queen, together with such other personages as may at the time be with them, are ready for dinner, the scene in the kitchen is one of perfect order and discipline. Everything is in its proper place, and while the cold dishes which were prepared during the morning stand waiting to be served such other items of the menu that are to be served hot are ready to the second.

The royal chef walks around and superintends, but his assistants are so well drilled in their respective duties that he seldom needs to give an order, though here and there he offers a suggestion for the perfection of some dainty.

Outside the door of the dining-room there is an apartment where the final touches are given to the delicate and costly preparations. At Buckingham palace it contains a table upon which the dishes rest in readiness for their distribution to the table attendants. The man who wields authority here is clad in immaculate evening dress and wears white gloves, and in a voice that is barely raised above a whisper he gives the minutest directions as to what is to be done with each particular item of the menu from the moment when it leaves the anterooms and passes finally from his care.

Relays of men and women bearers convey all the dishes from the kitchen to the anteroom. The passages from the kitchen are long, with some awkward corners here and there, and in order to prevent collisions in the hurry of the work an ingenious arrangement of mirrors has been effected at these corners, so that the bearers may see whether the road is clear for them.—Harper's Weekly.

RHAPSODIE MODERNE

Besides the unconfined mangle 'twixt melody and tears
Exist no Handels, Mendelssohns, nor Haydns, Meyerbeers;
Yet Herbert Spencer wrote "Heraeus,"
Or words to that effect, of Strauss.

The lavish colorists of tone have had their day in court;
A tendency to continence prevails, is the report:
"Wahn, wahn," the Meistersinger sings,
The while Debussy mutes the strings.

The woodwinds wail, in whitened tones
The chastened brasses cry,
And then in tetratonic chords the choired strings reply.

Who never heard of Vicent d'Indy
Assert that Cohan is the candy.

The polyphonic platitudes of Berlioz are feared,
The contrapuntal theories of Bach and Brahms are queried;
'Tis "What are Rimsky-Korsakof
And Wolf-Ferrari doing off?

Away! Away! With thoughts like these
I may not steep my brain,
When'er the wind is in the east I never must again
Amid an early morning fog

Twenty Years Ago Today

Contracts have been let by the city council for the paving of Twenty-second street, from San Pablo avenue to Grove street. The work will be done at once, according to the report of the city council.

Senator Leland Stanford arrived today to be present at the meeting of the Southern Pacific company. He was met at the mole by J. A. Filmore of the company, and President David Starr Jordan of Stanford University.

Prof. John Fiske of Harvard University opened his course of lectures at the First Unitarian church this evening with a discussion of the discovery of America. The monthly social of St. Andrew's Society was held this evening in the rooms of the organization. An elaborate program was presented.

Proposals for the change of several text books in use in the schools of the county were made today by the county board of education, through George W. Frick, superintendent and secretary. The composition books and the arithmetic were among those in which a change may be made.

The Alameda County Sportsmen's club has announced that its next shoot will be held at the Oakland trotting park next week. Elaborate preparations are being made for the event, which will be held with live pigeons.

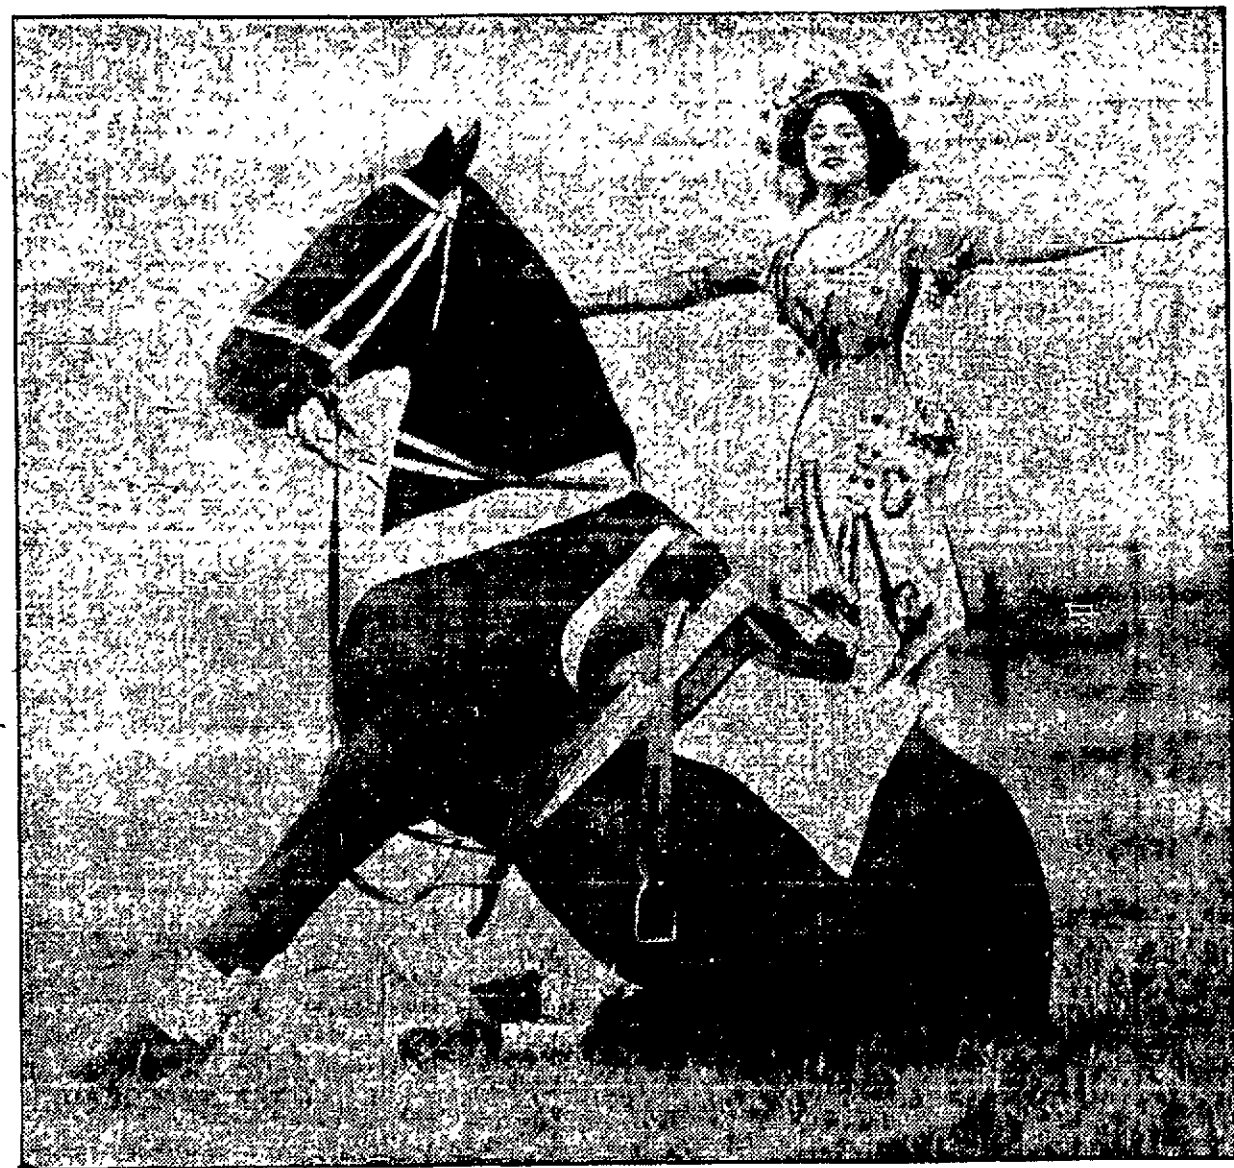

The Alert Athletic club elected a number of new members at its meeting last night. Among these were the following: L. M. Hale, J. Cook, J. H. Barbe, and Ralph McMurry.

The Alameda County Wheelmen have completed arrangements for their distance meet to be held next week.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS PROVES WISDOM OF CUT IN ADMISSION

MISS NELLIE CARROLL, of the Sells-Floto, and her trick horse.

Five years ago the director of amusements who prophesied an era of popular prices such as we are having now in the theatrical world would have been rated as being nothing short of a lunatic. But strange things happen as the wheel of time turns, so that today we find people demanding more for their money than ever before in the history of the world, and proprietors of attractions seeking to meet that demand. Perhaps the exception to this has been the circus, and barring one instance, all the old line shows adhere to the scale of prices which prevailed two decades ago.

The management of the Sells-Floto circus, which comes here on April 23-30, however, for the past three seasons, has inaugurated a new policy, no doubt believing that in doing so they could retain and hold the greater portion of public patronage. When the simple statement is made that they have cut the regular price, which from time immemorial has been the rule of the circus, in half, few people stop to consider what this means in the regular totalling of a season's receipts. But coming right down to figures, it shows a discrepancy of almost $100,000 when compared with the sum total of a season at the old prices.

Considering the fact that it costs more than $3000 a day to operate a big amusement enterprise of this kind one can get some idea of the risk involved when the management of the circus decided to cut the price of admission to 25 cents. All their rivals in the circus business expressed the opinion that such a feat of financial jugglery could not be successfully carried out, but the last three years have proved that these people builded wisely, and that from an intensely business standpoint it was probably the wisest move they could have made. The records show that the attendance has been more than doubled and that it is possible to give more now at the cut price and to enlarge the performance in every way than it was under the old system.

This season the 25-cent tariff will be enforced everywhere the Sells-Floto circus appears. The price of admission admits patrons to the big show in its entirety, and there are seats for 10,000 purchasers of these tickets. The management followed with the statement that there is absolutely no deviation from this rule. They carry no so-called "accommodation wagons" where a greater sum is charged.

The regular ticket wagons will be opened at 9 o'clock on the morning of every performance. General admission tickets purchased at any time will be honored either at the afternoon or evening performance.

MARRIAGE SCHOOL MAY JOIN LOVERS

Finds Old-Time Sweetheart for Correspondent in London.

KANSAS CITY, April 6.—Forty-eight engagements and one marriage are the fruit thus far of the matrimonial guild of Father William J. Dalton, pastor of the Catholic Church of the Annunciation here, who began his work of encouraging members of his flock to wed by starting a class in matrimony three months ago. The class meets at the priest's home each week. Father Dalton said today: "I am expecting London and Kansas City to span the ocean and join hands in the culmination of a century ago, and if the hearts that were estranged then are united now it will mean that our efforts here have been responsible for a well known professional man of Kansas City marrying his boyhood sweetheart."

received a letter from a woman in London soon after the paper there contained an account of our venture," Father Dalton continued, "asking if I could find a man of a certain name in Kansas City. She said they had been engaged twenty-five years ago; that an estrangement had come and that he had left for America. She said she still loved him and asked me to find him for her. I found him. I am hoping soon to hear of their marriage."

WINS FIGHT TO ADMIT DAUGHTER

Woman Dies After Child Is Passed by Immigration Bureau.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Less than a week after being victorious in her fight to have her daughter Mariette admitted to the United States by the immigration authorities at New York Mrs. Schulte Lipitz is dead. Mrs. Lipitz was 76 years old. She came here from Russia. On reaching New York, Mrs. Lipitz was told her daughter could not be admitted because the girl was dumb. Weeks of worry followed and then, as if by miracle the girl regained her speech. Broken in health Mrs. Lipitz arrived in Chicago with Mariette a few days ago.

"CAP" MITCHELL TO GO TO CONVENTION AFOOT

SHATTUCK, Okla., April 6.—Afoot and accompanied by his favorite hound, a pup, "Cap" Mitchell will travel to the Democratic national convention at Baltimore next June. He has not announced his route, nor has the date of his departure been made public. Mitchell, who is the editor of the Shattuck Monitor, is a supporter of one of the candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination. He says he expects to make a number of political addresses along the way.

AMERICAN ARTIST RECEIVES HONOR

Robinson Bronze Is Praised by Famous French Sculptor.

PARIS, April 6.—A. G. Robinson of New York, has received a letter from the famous sculptor, Rodin, head of a committee of the National Society des Beaux Arts, that his head of a statue girl in bronze has been accepted for the salon. Robinson might be designated as belonging to the "Crews School of Art." Henry Crews, Jr., who became an artist in a night, was the inspiration and beginning of the artistic career of Robinson and his master. This was three years ago, and yet last year Robinson's bust of himself was accepted by the salon and again his work is receiving recognition. Strange to say, that although men like Rodin praise Robinson's work, Henry Crews, Jr., his master, does not approve of it at all. He says that it is significant and does not interest. Robinson is working hard at both sculpture and music at his studio, 8 Rue Aumont, Thorille. He is about completing an opera which will be presented by his masters this summer. Those who constitute the Crews school of art in Paris are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the master and Bob Chanler, although they fear the serious purpose of Crews has been thwarted by his according to his family's wishes to make him a social leader. New York society and art don't mix they say.

BUILDING PERMITS SHOW INCREASE

Construction Operations in Berkeley Growing Larger Every Year.

BREKELYE, April 8.—Building operations in Brekelye have taken a tremendous jump in the past few months. The conditions surrounding the building inspectors' report for the first quarter of this year. Largely this is due to the fact that the city has been expanding east of the city, in which there has been constant development of properties for home ownership. There were 201 permits issued during January, February and March, as compared with 196 in the same period last year. In 1911 for the same period there was 158 permits, with an outstanding permit for 1910 amounting to 17. During the year saw 150 permits issued representing an expenditure of $36,000.

NEWS OF ALAMEDA AND CONTRA COSTA COUNTIES

PIEDMONT DOGS TO BE GIVEN CHANCE

Trustees Not to Allow Slaying of Unmuzzled Canines On Sight.

PIEDMONT, April 6. — The regular meeting of the board of city trustees Thursday evening proved unusually lively. A number of leading residents of Piedmont were in attendance, drawn there by the rumor that an ordinance punishing the lives of their dogs was to be enacted.

After the reading of the ordinance, one section of which makes it lawful for anyone to kill any dog found on the street unmuzzled, several of those present rose to protest. Among those who entered a plea for dogs were George Clark, A. Uhl and Beach Soule.

Trustees Waldron and Church also considered this section of the ordinance far too stringent. After considerable discussion it was decided to postpone instead of killing dogs picked up on the streets. The amended ordinance will come up for final passage at the next meeting of the board.

CATTLE HAVE HARD TIME.
An ordinance was read for the impounding of horses, cows, etc., which are tied, staked, pastured or at large on the street. The owners of such impounded animals will be required to pay $1 for the first day at the pound and $1 for each day thereafter. The rate for dogs is to be $2 for the first day and 50 cents for each day thereafter. No provision seems to have been made for cats or chickens. This ordinance will also come up for final passage at the next meeting of the board.

Another matter of interest which brought out a number of the residents was a petition from the Pleasant Valley Improvement club and a second petition signed by a large number of the property owners of the hill district. Both petitions requested the board to hold a special election to vote on a new bond issue.

PLAN PLAYGROUND.
The Pleasant Valley Improvement club desires to purchase five and one-half acres of the Sather tract, located near the New Piedmont viaduct, for school and playground purposes. The hill residents desire to purchase a site for playgrounds for the children east of Raccoon avenue.

School Trustees Christensen explained the advisability of obtaining the land now, as later the values would increase, and that a school house in the valley section of Piedmont would soon be necessary.

After a short discussion it was decided that about $75,000 would be necessary for each project, and the clerk was instructed to draw up the necessary papers.

A resolution was passed forcing property owners on block A, Sather avenue, to have their street work done.

An agreement was entered into by the city of Piedmont and the Oakland Gas, Light and Electric company to install a new police and fire alarm system.

SETTER PUPS ENTER KANSAS UNIVERSITY
LAWRENCE, Kan., April 6.—Three setter pups were enrolled formally as students at the University of Kansas. The pups, highly bred and the property of a Kansas City, Kansas, man, took their place in class with the other students and a bulldog belonging to Marie Throppe, professor of journalism at the university.

The class of unusual students will be under the tutelage of Professor E. C. Dockery, who will endeavor to prove whether the lower animals can think and learn.

"We will conduct experiments with the dogs and the cat covering several weeks," said Professor Dockery, recently. "and determine positively if they have ideas and discrimination."

NAMES COMMITTEES.
HAYWARD, April 6. — The following nomination committee was appointed last night by the Hayward Chamber of Commerce in preparation for the election of officers in May. R. Reid, W. J. Ramo, T. B. Russell, B. M. Mayberry and J. A. Park.

A committee on business arrangements for the annual dinner was also named as follows: A. Lindenberg, S. H. McCabe and J. E. Welsh.

MANY DEEDS RECORDED.
MARTINEZ, April 6. — The county recorder's office has achieved a record here during the month of March when 124 instruments of various character were filed and the sum of $1000 collected in fees by Recorder Hurley. This is the largest amount in fees ever collected by the Recorder in the history of Contra Costa county.

MARTINEZ NOTES.
MARTINEZ, April 6. — Rev. Father E. M. Walsh, pastor of St. Onofre's church, has arrived from Portland, Oregon. Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Bergstrom have returned to their home in Martinez after a visit to the Metropoli guardship contest.

The food sale of the Women's Improvement club to have been held this afternoon was postponed because of Easter. It will be held a week from today.

H. M. Bush was in San Francisco for the day yesterday.

Judge Fitzgerald of Pittsburg was a visitor at Martinez Friday.

The People Company of Richmond, with a capital stock of $10,000, was incorporated here yesterday.

Mary Walsh has been sent to the Alameda county jail for the purpose of being committed to the custody of the county.

Mrs. A. J. Koto entertained the Thursday afternoon club this week at the home of Mrs. J. J. Anderson.

The marriage of A. A. Emmons, well known here, and Miss Julia Hargrave, celebrated Thursday evening, with Rev. E. Glandon Davies officiating.

American Woman Is Hostess
To the Nobility of England

COUNTRESS OF CRAVEN, an American woman, who will be prominent in England as a political hostess.

LONDON, April 6.—The appointment of the Earl of Craven as captain of the guards has brought his American wife, the Countess of Craven, who was formerly Mrs. Bradley Martin of New York, into prominence as one of the political hostesses of England.

In honor of Premier and Mrs. Asquith, the Countess of Craven gave her first dinner and reception recently, as an official hostess for the government.

The dinner guests included Premier and Mrs. Asquith, Viscount Haldane, secretary of war, Sir Edward Grey, foreign secretary, and other cabinet ministers. At the reception there were 1500 guests. Mr. Asquith, accompanied by the hostess, stood at the head of the staircase to receive the guests.

The Duchess of Marlborough brought a large party, and many Americans were present, including Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, and Mrs. Reid. Four American women are now serving in the capacity of political hostesses in England. They are the Hon. Mrs. Freddy Guest, the Countess of Granard, Mrs. Lewis Harcourt and the Countess of Craven.

MOTHER PAWNS JEWELS TO SUPPORT HER BOY
NEW YORK, April 6. — Although Geo. C. Brinkerhoff, who was a sugar planter and at one time American consul in Cuba, left a trust fund of $40,000 when he died from which his thirteen-year-old son, George Brinkerhoff, was to draw the income, the latter's mother has been compelled to pawn all her valuable belongings that the boy might be fed and clothed. This condition is due to the death of Colonel Edwin Allen, who was trustee of the boy's fund, and the litigation that has been begun by two pieces of Colonel Allen for a share of his estate.

Frederick Hemley, a lawyer, was appointed trustee to succeed Colonel Allen. Then the new trustee found that the papers of the Brinkerhoff estate were in a vault of the Mercantile Safe Deposit company in the ruins of the Equitable building. The box and papers were recovered, but Hemley has been unable to get possession of any of the Brinkerhoff trust fund.

He asked Surrogate Fowler yesterday to appoint a temporary administrator of the Allen estate so that the trust fund could be turned over to the trustee and the boy saved from starvation. Hemley suggested that Thomas H. Van Tine be appointed administrator. Counsel for the two pieces of Colonel Allen who are contesting his will objected, saying that Van Tine's wife was a sister of Colonel Allen and charging that they used the alleged will to cause the death of Colonel Allen to cut off his two pieces.

Surrogate Fowler asked whether the Thomas H. Van Tine was the plumber that he was, said: "I am very well acquainted with Mr. Van Tine and I know him to be a man of the highest probity. I have no hesitation in appointing him temporary administrator of Colonel Allen's estate."

KNOCKS PHYSICIAN OUT AFTER FAINTING
PORTLAND, March 25.—Dr. E. M. Brooks had an experience recently with a patient which was not only unusual, causing him to exercise extreme caution in handling men who are students of boxing as a form of physical culture, but almost resulted in his expelling the sensation known in ring parlance as a knock-out.

Among the physician's patients is a well-known citizen distinguished by his herculean build. Not long ago he began to take boxing lessons from a local exponent of the art and has grown proficient in "handling his gloves." His immense strength would make him a dangerous customer in a flat combat. A few days ago, while climbing a barbed-wire fence on a fishing excursion, he fell and lacerated his left arm.

The amateur boxer went to Dr. Brooks' office in the Oregonian building to have the wound dressed and two stitches were found necessary. The injured man, disdaining to lie down, sat on the edge of the operating table. The stitches were taken and Dr. Brooks was preparing an antiseptic dressing, when the patient,

WINE THIEVES BECOME TOO DRUNK TO ESCAPE
DUNKIRK, April 6. — Six tramps broke into the Ryckman wine cellar at Brockton and after looking over the stock stole about fifty bottles of the choicest wine. They then emptied twenty-five bottles. Three of the men were found by the jailer this morning so badly intoxicated that they were unable to talk. They were locked up and will have a hearing later in the day, when they come to. The other three men left for parts unknown before the jailer got around to the jail and the village constables are now scouring the neighborhood for them.

RICHMOND WOMEN
ACTIVE IN WORK

Biennial Convention Will Visit
Manufacturing City and Be Entertained.

RICHMOND, April 6.—The Richmond club and the West Side Women's Improvement club met in joint session today and passed resolutions to the effect that all possible efforts shall be made to make a success of "Richmond Day" during the biennial meeting of the national meeting of the women's clubs.

The biennial session of the Alameda Federation of Women's Clubs meets at San Francisco in June, and a day has been set aside for a visit of the ladies to the east side of the bay, one part of this day has been given to the Richmond women, hence the activity at this time. Delegates will be here from all over the country, and the civic bodies here have been enlisted to make that day a great success from every point of view.

Queer Tales Are Heard
After Attack on Woman

C. OLIVER ISELIN, who has offered a reward of $1000 for the discovery of the person who assaulted Mrs. Fred Beach.

ALBANY, N. C., April 6. — Just a few weeks previous to the assault on Mrs. Fred Beach with a fence palling at her home in Alken, a weekly paper published in New York a story intimating an impending scandal in the Beach family.

The story is current at Alken that Mr. Beach is suspected of the attack on his wife, which accounts for C. Oliver Iselin, the New York yachtsman, having offered a reward of $1000 for the discovery of the person who assaulted her. Iselin always spends his winters in Alken, and it is intimated that it is to quiet stories of this nature that he has offered the reward for information that will lead up to the apprehension of the person who wielded the fence palling.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ARE ELECTED IN HAYWARD
HAYWARD, April 6. — The school trustees here yesterday resulted in the election of A. W. Beam and F. L. Lemos as grammar school trustees and N. F. Nielsen and H. L. Pedersen as high school trustees. Both the latter were re-elected to a consecutive term.

CONCORD NOTES

CONCORD, April 6.—Francis Reed will conduct the Easter services at the Presbyterian church tomorrow morning and evening in the absence of Rev. E. C. Cameron.

James Martin of Angels Camp is visiting his sister, Mrs. Charles Klein.

George Latta has returned to Richmond after spending several days here on business and pleasure.

Miss Mary of Ignacio Valley has been making the week with relatives in Berkeley.

The most interesting topic at present is the coming election of city trustees to be held on Monday. Both sides are confident of victory and a warm battle is anticipated.

R. L. Hutchinson, the Ignacio Valley farmer, is considering an offer from the R. M. Burgess Realty Company for the sale of 200 acres of the Hutchinson farm near this city. The price is understood to be $200 per acre or $40,000 for the tract.

Superintendent Loh of the Cowell Lines Water was a business visitor in the city during the week.

G. P. De Lo spent a few days this week in San Francisco as the guest of his daughter, Mrs. Stewart Smith.

BAY POINT NOTES.

BAY POINT, April 6.—Mrs. Sam Gilroy and her family entertained the friends of the family this week. Those present were Messrs. S. L. Cronkhite, Hartman, Johnson, Robinson, Olson, Burr, and Mrs. Gilroy.

Mary Johnson, Mable Erickson and Larry Peterson accompanied by Leonard Peterson, driven in Mr. Pedder's touring car to Antioch early in the week for a pleasure trip.

Easter services will be held in the church Sunday. An attractive program has been arranged.

L. Richards spent one day this week in Concord.

After Easter Garment Bargains

Women's Suits Worth Up to $30.00, $9.75.

Women's Suits Worth Up to $35.00, $12.75.

Price is the main argument on these two lots of Suits. Price and satisfactory service. In these two lots we clean up the odds and ends of the suit stock, broken lines from early season selling, individual suits that have been left from sample lines, discards from our factory and suits into which the short ends of materials in the factory have been worked up. It is not claimed for these suits that every one of them is the latest model. It is claimed, however, that all of them are in good style, that the materials are splendid, that the make is good and the linings of a satisfactory character. Any woman buying one of these will get a most unusual bargain and will get a suit which will give her an unusual degree of satisfaction. Broadcloths, chevrons, diagonals and mixtures are the materials and all of them are in plain tailored models.

Suits Formerly Priced up to $30.00 on Sale at $9.75.

Suits Formerly Priced Up to $35.00 on Sale at $12.75.

Splendid new Suits for boys from 8 to 16, made from fancy all-wool serges in bright new browns, pretty grays and other attractive mixtures. Smartly styled coats, well lined, splendidly made and with two pairs of knickerbockers, both pairs full lined. If you paid the full price and only got one pair of trousers you would be getting your full money's worth. The extra pair virtually doubles the life of the suit and adds nothing to the cost to you. On sale Monday special at $4.65.

1915 Leather Watch Fobs Free With Every Boy's Suit
These practical and much-wanted watch fobs are furnished free with everyone of our boy's suits. It is a splendid opportunity for giving the boy up Monday in a suit and at the same time getting a watch fob free.

If your Easter appearance does not please you today, order to-morrow one of our men's made to order Suits at $20.00

Big variety of splendid new clothes to choose from, made any style you may desire, cut by the best cutters in San Francisco, made by the best tailors in our new factory under (week work) system. These suits are worth $30.00 of anybody's money. On sale specially Monday at $20.00.

CITY'S BANK BUILDINGS ARE WORTH MILLIONS

BUILD NEW, REMODEL OLD BUSINESS HOUSES

Activity Shown in the Development of the City's Mercantile District

Large loans for important building operations and a Broadway and Fourteenth street corner lease at a total rental of $200,000 were features of progress in Oakland during the past week. Activity in the erection of new buildings and the remodeling of old structures in the downtown district is at its height. The entire retail district, within a few months, will present a modern and metropolitan appearance.

Outside investors are taking an increased interest in Oakland property, which has made possible much improvement work.

Sixteenth street has shown a remarkable awakening. Numerous sales have been made recently on that thoroughfare, west of San Pablo avenue, and new buildings are being planned.

A six-story bachelors' apartment house is to be constructed by R. J. Pavert on Fifteenth and Jefferson streets, at a cost of $150,000. A loan was negotiated for the improvement during the week.

An important improvement in the heart of the business section will be the remodeling of the corner and the Fourteenth-street side of the Macdonough theater. A stairway into the basement, which has been an unsightly feature of one of the most prominent buildings in the downtown district, is to be removed and the entrance to a basement cafe will be through a lobby immediately west of the Macdonough theater entrance. The corner store has been leased to a cigar company at a total rental, covering ten years, of $200,000.

Final plans for the new Woodmen of the World building on Sixteenth and Jefferson streets are now in the hands of the architect. Announcement of the securing of a loan for $100,000 from the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance company of San Francisco, made in THE TRIBUNE on Wednesday, was followed by the completion of arrangements for the building. The new hall will stand on the northwest corner, fronting 100 feet on Jefferson street and 150 feet on Sixteenth street. It will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000, and is already under way, with the concrete foundation in place. The building will be of steel and brick, five stories in height, the first floor being devoted to one large storeroom. The new structure is another indication of the growth of the business section of the city north and west of its present center.

NEW REALTY FIRM OPENS OFFICE HERE

Miller & Hanly announce the opening of offices in the first National Bank building. They are to handle Richmond properties exclusively for Berry Bros. of San Francisco. Both gentlemen are well known in this locality, Miller having operated for many years in Alameda and Oakland. Hanly is an old resident of Oakland and well known, having been in business here as local representative for a large San Francisco firm.

FOOTHILL TRACT HAS MODERN TRANSPORTATION

The proposed extension of the Key Route has been surveyed directly through the tract. The new extension of the foothill boulevard, by way of Hopkins street, is another important factor in promoting the tract.

IMPROVEMENTS BEGUN ON RICHMOND TRACT

Improvement work has begun on the F. C. Owens Addition to the City of Richmond, and already some of those who have bought lots on the tract are figuring how much profit they will be able to make in the near future. Before the operations began there had been 24 lots sold. Two of these were choice corners, that brought $1600 and $1700.

MILLIONS SPENT ON OAKLAND HARBOR

That the government is justified in making appropriations for Oakland harbor is shown by the immense expenditure on the estuary and western waterfront by railroads and other concerns. Almost $30,000,000 has been spent by the latter in canal diggings, $25,000,000 in piers, tracks, warehouses and other improvements.

The government has spent up to date, exclusive of the $200,000 appropriation now practically assured, $3,833,835. The entire sum has been expended upon the estuary, in the work of widening and deepening. It is about one-tenth of the amount which the city and private corporations and the municipality have devoted to this work.

This sum compares in ludicrous fashion with the $125,000,000 spent on the Manchester (England) canal, to give the city of Manchester an outlet to the sea 35 1/2 miles in length, 26 feet in depth and 120 feet in width.

The metropolis of the east side of San Francisco bay has an outlet to the ocean as deep as the Manchester canal, and about five times as wide. Oakland has the advantage of Manchester in nearness to the water highways of the world.

Along the shores of Oakland estuary $15,000,000 has been spent in improvements by private companies. The city is spending more than a million in seawalls and dockage work on this portion of the harbor.

$4,000,000 IS INVESTED IN STRUCTURES

More than $4,000,000 is invested in the five skyscraping bank buildings and the Realty Syndicate structure, shown in the photographic view on this page, taken from the corner at Sixteenth street, Telegraph avenue and Broadway.

A remarkable record in the construction of tall buildings on Broadway has been made since the completion of the Union Savings Bank's stately home shortly before the disaster of 1906.

Since that date nearly all the other banks have erected buildings at an increased cost of construction, and the rivalry in housing financial institutions in keeping with their importance and the size of the city has been keen and the general benefit to the community has been of inestimable value.

The Security Bank and Trust Company will soon move into the newest of Broadway's skyscrapers, at the corner of Fourteenth street and Broadway, has been occupied for nearly twenty years. It was remodeled a few years ago.

Opposite is the First National Bank. This building has been in use for a little over two years and is known as Oakland's "flat iron building."

$175,000 PRICE OF IVEYWOOD LAND

The Conservative Building and Investment Company of San Francisco has purchased from the M. T. Minney Realty Company of Oakland 232 lots in the Iveywood tract. The consideration was approximately $175,000. The sale was negotiated by Harvey Hinkle, who is now associated with Alfred W. Webb & Co., 1458 Broadway, Oakland.

"This sale to the Conservative Building and Investment Company," said Minney, "means a great deal to the Iveywood district. The company is composed of some of the best known business men of San Francisco and Oakland. This concern will begin at once the construction of several modern bungalows."

"The sale of these lots to the Conservative company brings our total sales in Iveywood to date to nearly $600,000, and practically closes out the tract."

LARGE LOANS MADE ON VALUABLE REALTY

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—One of the largest loans passed this week was made by the Western Mortgage and Guaranty Company to Eva and George Metcalfe, amounting to $150,000, covering the entire fifty acre lots on the north line of Geary street, west of Mason.

This lot will be improved immediately by a seven-story and basement Class C hotel, containing 108 rooms and 102 baths. This property is immediately opposite the Columbia Theater.

FIRM FOUNDATION EXISTS FOR FAITH IN OAKLAND

Statistics Prove That City Is Fast Developing Along Many Lines

OAKLAND PROSPERITY PROOFS A-PLENTY

Bank clearings, January 1 to April 1.....	$50,021,960.00
Building permits (value for March).....	759,858.00
Building permits (value, January 1 to April 1).....	1,405,164.50
Building permits (value for week).....	199,173.00
Mortgages, releases, trust deeds and reconveyances filed in Recorder's office (Jan. 1 to April 1).....	21,178,354.50

In the records of Oakland's progress for the first quarter of 1912 may be found a substantial basis for optimism and confidence.

In the increase of bank clearings, the value of building construction and in the amount of business done at the county recorder's office, showing the volume of realty and other financial transactions, a remarkable growth of the city and its environs is indicated.

The statistics compiled at the close of business March 31 tell a story carrying truthfulness backed up by figures which cannot be challenged.

The financial importance of Oakland is shown by the bank clearings for the last month, which totaled $10,097,859.23, an increase of $2,037,591.40 over the corresponding month of 1911.

Take a glance at the building record. The total cost of buildings erected in Oakland during the quarter ending March 31 last was $1,602,164.35, 1065 permits being issued. The cost of construction for March of this year was $759,858.

BANK CLEARINGS LARGE.
Oakland bank clearings for March showed an increase over the preceding month and over March, 1911. The figures for the past month are $10,097,859.23, being $2,037,591.40 more than the clearings for the corresponding month of 1911.

BUILDING PERMIT INCREASE SHOWN

The Plumbing at New City Hall Brings Up Average for the Week.

The building permits this week show an increase of about $37,000, principally due to the filing of specifications for the new City Hall. A number of three and four thousand dollar dwellings are on the list.

NEW TRACT TO BE A BEAUTY SPOT

"Piedmont of Richmond" Soon to Be Placed on the Market.

The attraction of water is irresistible. The sea has always beckoned man to enjoy and explore, and bays and rivers have ever a sort of fascination for the homemaker and the homebuilder that has overbalanced the lure of the pleasant valley or the lofty hilltop. To make his habitation in a place where the sight of a mighty bay and a land-locked harbor, with ships riding at anchor, might be obtained, with perhaps a great city in the distance, has been the dream of many a traveler and sojourner in this broad land. The love of the hills as a dwelling place has gone hand in hand with this passion for a magnificent view of bay and shore, as witness the fashionable Pacific Heights district in San Francisco and the Piedmont and Claremont sections of Oakland.

The maiden city of Richmond had the need of just such a beauty spot, and she seems to have found it in Grand View Terrace, which is soon to be opened as a residence park for houses of the higher class. Thus does history repeat itself. On a sloping hillside, with a long knoll in the center, just a few minutes from the city, what is to be the fashionable section of Richmond is now being formed. Fast indications go to show that clustered here will be found the elaborate homes of those who have made their fortune in the thriving manufacturing town itself, or who have come there seeking those advantages for a home which have already helped to make a village into a city almost overnight. Grand View Terrace has not yet been put upon the market, but a very short time will see the final arrangements completed, and when the hillside is dotted with costly residences, as the indications show, it will be very soon that this tract should be pointed out as the extension of the Piedmont and Claremont of Richmond. There have been many subdivisions offered in recent years, but Grand View Terrace combines every feature of attractiveness in a restricted residence property. It will be in itself, as the plans are now being completed, a city set on a hill, with a grand view, a beautiful stretch of scenery, and every advantage of transportation to and from the cities of Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco.

This fashionable and most desirable property is to have for its first dwelling a $20,000 residence, to be erected for the family of Mr. D. J. Burg, of Burg Bros., 650 Market street, San Francisco, who are the owners of Grand View Terrace. There are 94 acres in all, and the building restriction has been placed at the high figure of $3000 in order to insure a fine class of homes. In addition to this, proper bars to the placing of stores among the dwellings, and the excluding of others than those of the Caucasian race has been carefully attended to. The property is to be a veritable park, with trees and shrubs lining the streets, which are to be of the finest macadam, and with cement sidewalks and adequate curbing. A sewer system of the most modern type is promised, and the lots have been conveniently arranged in frontages of 25, 35, 50 and 100 feet.

San Pablo avenue, with a carline into Oakland, runs in front of the tract, and soon there will be the Key Route. It takes just six minutes to get into the town of Richmond by car.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE, Oakland's greatest evening newspaper, assures its advertisers that the circulation of this paper reaches every day over 250,000 readers.

MELROSE REPORTS BUILDING BRISK

Ideal Spot for Home-Seeker Is the Verdict of All Visitors.

Within the last few weeks building activities in Melrose have shown a considerable increase. This section is building up with such rapidity that old-timers who have not visited Melrose for some time are surprised at the number of new houses that have been erected there.

Real estate conditions in Melrose are certainly in excellent condition. People from all around the bay are looking to this section as an ideal spot in which to locate.

Blodgett & Shirley, real estate dealers in Melrose, have been doing a large business with outside house-seekers, who are settling in this location on account of its accessibility to trains and street cars. Last week this firm sold a fine four-room bungalow on Central avenue near Broadway and made contract to build an up-to-date house on Douglas near Thirty-fifth avenue, besides several fine building lots.

This firm also sold two fine ranches near Hayward, one of four acres and one of ten acres, to people who have recently arrived from the East.

Charles W. Rudy, another real estate man of Melrose, made several sales to people who wish to build homes in this vicinity. These purchases intend to start building within the next few months.

ORANGE INDUSTRY GROWING IN STATE

Large Tracts of Land in the Northern Sections Being Planted to Trees.

The orange industry of Northern California, together with large fruit growing contracts has recently demonstrated the great activity in this direction. It is conservatively estimated that some 20,000 acres of land recently acquired is about to be set out in orange, lemon and olive groves.

This land is located about six to ten miles south of Palermo, where the orange and olive industry has reached such a high state of perfection, and lying as it does in the first slopes of the Sierra Nevada mountains, is not subject to overflow.

Experts from the United States Horticultural Bureau as well as experts from the University of California, have made extensive examinations of the soil, climatic and irrigating possibilities of the land lying in Yuba county between Oroville and Marysville and are unanimous in proclaiming that the opportunities offered there for the raising of oranges, olives and lemons can have but one ultimate result.

While the report of these experts has been known for some time, to a few on the inside, who have gone ahead and acquired large holdings in the district, it has only been since the orange and olive exposition in Oroville in December of last year, that the attention of the public generally has been attracted.

Already several of the larger land companies, colonizing their holdings and Yuba county is at last coming to her own, that to which she is justly entitled by reason of her superior climate and soil. It is estimated by those who are keeping in touch with the situation, that before the next orange and olive exposition in Oroville in December of this year, preparations for which are now under way, that Yuba county will double her present population. This will be a healthy and substantial growth on account of the addition of settling in the land and not attempting to overcrowd the cities and towns.

Yuba county also boasts of one of the finest irrigation systems in the State, and one of the least costly for operation. The water for this system is taken from the Yuba river and conveyed by gravity ditch to the farmer for the very nominal sum of $1 per acre a year.

The Yuba river is a never failing river, being the fourth largest in volume in the State. The numerous large tracts of land purchased within the past six months show an unprecedented activity in this section of the Sacramento Valley.

The securing of these several tracts of land ten miles northeast of Marysville, the selling of the Diggins 1500 acres of land about four miles northeast of Marysville, Seattle capitalists purchasing some 1400 acres of land in the foothills, and over 3000 acres of valley and hill lands being purchased by San Francisco and Los Angeles capitalists, mark the era of a very elaborate and extensive operation in fruit growing here. The limitless opportunities of acquiring choice land at the right price is at present obtainable, but are long these advantages will have vanished and prices will have soared steadily upwards and beyond the reach of even the most sanguine. The reason for this is climate, moisture and a frostless belt, capable of producing in large quantities oranges and other fruits earlier than any other section in California.

MAKES SALES ON SIXTEENTH STREET

One of the principal sales made by D. F. Minney on Sixteenth street this week was the Wilhelm Apartments on the south side of the street, between Castro and Bush, to L. E. Lewis at a price of $50,000. Another important sale on the same street was the house and lot on the south side, between Jefferson and Clay, at a price of $30,000, to Mrs. R. E. Lyon, a local investor, who secured a place of property also purchased through the same office two weeks ago on this street at a good margin. There was also sold to A. P. Dickinson property on the south side of Sixteenth street, 90 feet west of West street, with six flats and a nine-room house, at a price of $20,000. D. F. Minney sold for A. P. Dickinson property on East Fourteenth street, near Fruitvale avenue, at a price of $7000, and for the account of Anderson & Holbrook of Ukiah the property on the northeast corner of East Fourteenth street and Thirteenth avenue, at a price of $30,000. This was purchased through the Minney agency about two months ago.

HILLSIDE HOMES TO LINE OAKLAND-ANTIOCH RAILWAY

Right of way of Oakland-Antioch electric line through Redwood canyon, which is to be villa section.

One of the most important subdivisions from the standpoint of general interest to the public will be the opening of Redwood (Moraga) canyon tract by the well-known realty operator, George W. Austin, who has subdivided a tract of one hundred acres situated at the Contra Costa county end of the new tunnel for the Oakland and Antioch electric railway, which is now being constructed, and which, it is expected, will be in operation within six months.

The land has been subdivided into small villa sites of one acre or less suitable either for a summer home or camping spot, as it is beautifully wooded with oak trees, and contains many attractive canyons. The land lies along the road of the new Oakland and Antioch railway, and there are two stations on the property. It is estimated that fifteen minutes will be the running time from Oakland or Berkeley, and forty-five minutes from San Francisco—the railway having a thirty year working agreement with the Key Route system, which connects with the latter line at Fortieth street and Shattuck avenue, Oakland. This canyon is free from fog and raw winds and does not get excessively hot in the summer time.

Camping lots of fifty feet or more will be sold, according to location, from $50 up, and building sites of one acre or more will be sold from $200 an acre up with terms to suit purchaser with no interest and no taxes. The promoters are also offering a very attractive building proposition, which will enable anyone desiring a home in the mountains on a spot covered with trees with an acre of ground to secure this for a small payment down and monthly payments.

GOOD AUTO ROADS. The property is very accessible from Oakland and Berkeley by automobile, as there are excellent roads over the hills back of Piedmont, affording one of the best scenic auto trips in California. It is the intention of the promoters to build eventually an attractive mountain inn where meals and refreshments can be served.

Owing to the present lack of railroad facilities the land is being placed on the market at a very low figure, and will, without any question, double in value as soon as the road is running, as it must be remembered that rolling land covered with trees accessible for summer homes and camping spots within fifteen minutes of Oakland and Berkeley will always be in demand as there is such a limited area of this character adjacent to large cities. The trip from Oakland by auto now takes about thirty minutes.

This is the only wooded canyon of the kind on the new Oakland and Antioch railway that is accessible to the bay cities. It will enable a business man to live in the canyon and still be able to reach his business daily. Several sites have already been selected by residents of the bay cities, who contemplate building attractive mountain bungalows.

PRETTY HOMES FOR CROCKER TRACT

Street Work in the District All Completed With Cement Curbing.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—A number of attractive bungalows are under construction in the Crocker tract. One of the prettiest of these homes, which has just been completed, is a two-story cement plaster bungalow of Mission style. One of its special features is a pergola on the second story porch. The house is finished inside with as much care and taste as if it were a much more expensive home. It occupies an elevated situation on Peoria street, and commands a fine marine view.

The street work in this district is all completed. The streets are macadamized, have cement curbs and the space between the curbs and the cement sidewalks has been parked and ornamental figure trees planted. The class of houses that are being built and the nature of the improvements promises to make this one of the most attractive home districts in this city.

Arthur G. Duncan, sales manager of the Crocker Estate Company's subdivision, reports a number of sales during the past week in the Crocker-Amazon tract to out-of-town purchasers.

The abolition of applause in the Congressional Record, however, will not cause any noticeable falling off in that commodity on the floor of the House.

NEW FRUITVALE TRACT ON MARKET

Havenscourt Being Developed as Residence District; Artistic Features.

Undoubtedly the greatest real estate development of the year is that which the firm of Wickham-Havens Incorporated of Oakland have under way. This firm has acquired by purchase what is known as the Pope estate property, near Fruitvale avenue, an absolutely untouched piece consisting of 176 acres. Owing to the fact that it has been in the hands of an estate, it has lain undeveloped while the city of Oakland has grown up entirely around it. It is said to offer opportunities to the real estate firm who have it in hand for a consistent development program.

Plans for this property, as set forth by E. A. Jones, sales manager of Wickham-Havens Incorporated, are ambitious and comprehensive. Through the heart of this property—which is to be called Havenscourt—a broad avenue has been thrown open which will be the main artery between East Fourteenth street and the Fruitvale boulevard. This avenue will afford the main entrance to Havenscourt proper, and as such will be extensively ornamented on either end. Large circular pergolas more than 100 feet in length are to be erected both on East Fourteenth street and on the Fruitvale boulevard. These pergolas will be covered with vines and flowers, and will enclose within their wide-extended arms spaces devoted to lawns and beds of bloom. Under each pergola will be a gravel walk with seats for the convenience of visitors.

But these are by no means the main features of the new property as the plans have been outlined. A civic center is to be created on modern and approved lines. It is situated at the point where the Oakland Tract Company car lines and the Southern Pacific electric meet at an angle in the north central part of the property. Buildings for business purposes at the civic center will be grouped around a central paved court, in the middle of which will be a triangular park. At one end of this park will be the Southern Pacific electric station, built, however, by the firm of Wickham-Havens Incorporated, so that its architecture may be strictly in accord with the surrounding business structures. These, in turn, are to be harmoniously disposed, so as to form an ideal commercial community. The center of the park is to be specially adorned with a temple effect, with seats, fountain and other features yet to be decided upon.

The immense size of the new property renders it capable, when built up, of affording room for a community of 8000 to 10,000 people, giving great scope for efforts in the way of creating a strictly modern "city within a city." Contrary to what might be expected, the building sites in Havenscourt will not be expensive—prices ranging from $400 up, with all the usual improvements in addition to those above outlined.

The sum of $20,000 is now being spent for the sole purpose of filling in an unsightly creek which formerly ran through a part of Havenscourt.

Wickham-Havens Incorporated expect to have this great tract ready to be placed on the market within a few weeks, by which time the Southern Pacific electric trains will be running to the station near the center of the property.

A dog can be more grateful than a man because he has less to make him so. The easiest way for young folk to get into trouble is to have parents sure they won't.

Havenscourt

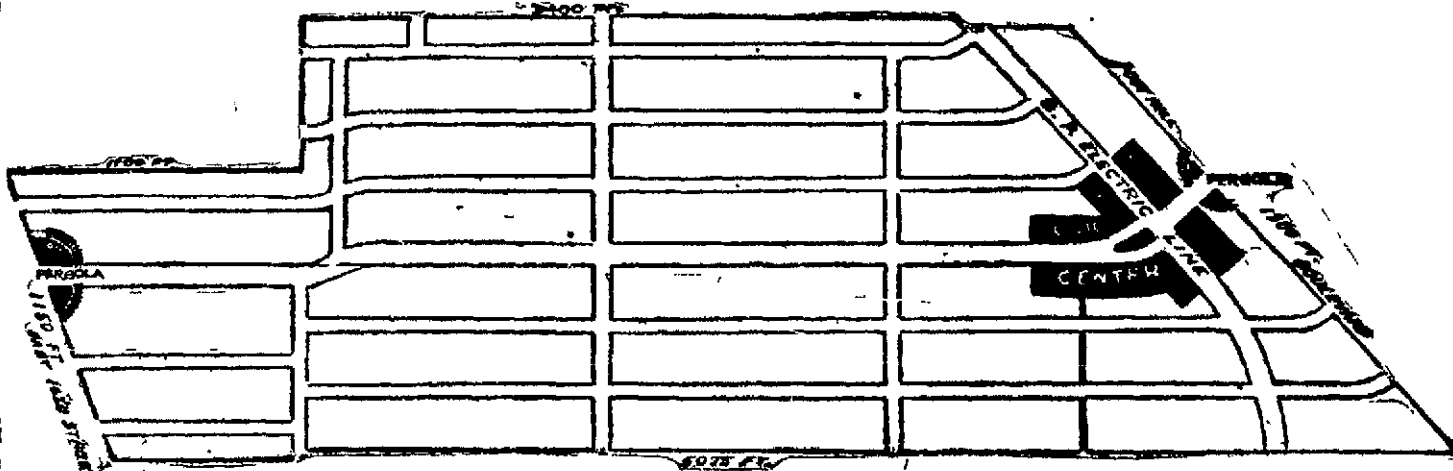

GO IN TO WIN!

$500 GOLD IN PRIZES

Is offered for the best answers to the question:

What ideas or suggestions have you for making Havenscourt the prettiest place for a bungalow home in the whole of California?

If you tell us in simple language what YOU would like, if YOU were going to live there, you will stand the best chance of winning one of these prizes. Everybody has ideas about what kind of surroundings they would like for a home. We want these ideas to help us make Havenscourt beautiful.

Here's the Story!

We are now creating what will be, when completed, the best arranged and prettiest, as well as the largest, single community of bungalow homes in this part of the world—even excelling, we hope, the wonderful places in Los Angeles.

This property, lying close to the heart of Oakland—for years in the hands of an estate while the city built up solid around it—will give room to a big community with its own stores and places of amusement—it will be "a city within a city."

It is nearly a mile in length, a quarter of a mile wide, high and level, with a car line along the south boundary, a boulevard along the north boundary, Southern Pacific Electric through the north central portion and built up on all sides.

Our plans provide for a Civic Center on the most modern lines arranged around a paved court, and with a central park.

The architecture of this Civic Center will be most harmonious and attractive.

A pillared temple effect will yield added beauty to the central court.

A splendid broad paved boulevard, nearly a mile in length, will run through the center of Havenscourt, connecting two main traffic arteries.

This boulevard will be especially ornamented.

At either end of Havenscourt on the boulevard circular pergolas, over a hundred feet in length, inclosing park spaces and beds of bloom with shaded seats, will make perhaps the most magnificent entrances ever created for a residence place designed for inexpensive bungalows.

The pre-eminent place our beautiful Fourth Avenue and East Piedmont Heights properties have in THEIR class, Havenscourt will have over all other properties in its OWN class. Splendid sites will sell from $800 up.

Now, what we want—to add the finishing touch to our plans for Havenscourt—are ideas and suggestions, from practical people—particularly from women.

It may be some very simple suggestion, but something that neither we nor our landscape architects or engineers had thought of; $500 is a small price to pay for a good suggestion for a place that will ultimately be "a city in itself."

You know what you like in the way of surroundings for your home.

Tell us about it in a brief letter.

Never mind the "fine language." You may not be a good writer, but that doesn't make any difference. What we want are good ideas.

It will take only a few minutes of your time.

There are thirty-three prizes.

You can certainly win one of them.

33 Prizes, Totaling $500.00

For the letter with the best ideas we will pay $150 Gold. For the next best we will pay $100 Gold. For the third best we will pay $50 Gold. For the next ten letters we will pay $10 each. For the next twenty letters $5 each.

RULES OF THE CONTEST:

There are no "strings" of any kind on this contest. You don't have to buy anything—now or at any other time.

It is open to all, irrespective of place of residence. (Employees of Wickham-Havens Incorporated, and their families alone cannot compete.)

This contest closes April 15. However, do not delay your replies until that time, but send them right in.

The President, Vice-President and Secretary of Wickham-Havens Incorporated, will be the sole judges of this contest, and their decision will be final.

The names of the thirty-three prize winners will be published in this paper as soon as the awards are made, which will probably be within ten days or two weeks after the close of this contest.

PORKY FLYNN DEFEATS JIM BARRY OVER IN ANTIPODES

Zacher Laces Out Third Home Run of Season and Helps Oaks Win Again

FOUR VERNON BOXMEN FAIL TO STOP ON RUSH OF PAT

Senators Troupe Hogan's Star Pitchers and Easily Win Fifth Game.

SACRAMENTO, April 6.—Frank Arélanes got revenge for the bad first inning with which he opened the season last Tuesday, when he twisted the Senators to a 10 to 3 victory over Hogan's Hapless Tigers.

The Vermonters went up in the air from the first inning and never came down until the fifth. Hogan was chased off the field by Umpire Finney in the second and his team mates went even higher than they had in the first frame. Four pitchers and three catchers tried to stem the Sacramento tide. Raleigh started on the mound in the first but he walked two men and singles by O'Rourke and Miller drove in three runs. Arélanes got the first hit in his three hits leading off in the second and Raleigh was dickered in favor of Reiserberg. Catcher Sullivan also going in to relieve Hogan behind the plate.

But the new combination worked no better. Sullivan had three passed balls, charged up against him before he settled down. Reiserberg issued a walk and allowed O'Rourke to beat out a fluke infield hit. Three runs had chased across in the second and there were more when Roy Elit went in to save the situation.

But southpaws were a treat to the Senators today and they proceeded to pile up two more stolen bases in the second frame. Hitt got by the third with Arélanes second hit on the day but he hit the fourth the balloon went up again.

White Hope Swan drove out the longest hit ever made inside the local grounds when he drove one to within three feet of the fence in the centerfield corner of the lot. It was a legitimate batted ball, but it was a legitimate weight, but it was on the coaches' line and he spurred the big fellow on to the plate where he was trapped. Bayless Hop to Sullivan.

Roseback took a mound for the southpaws in the last two frames, but the Senators had begun to take things easy by then and he did not have to exert himself.

Frank Arélanes got off to four innings as a non-hitter, but he reached first base when Brashers broke the ice by drawing a walk in the fifth. Sullivan picked out the first hit for Vernon and two infield outs sent Brashers across with a run.

Hitt's single and Kane's double chased across another in the sixth. Bayless triple to the leftfield scoreboard and McDonnell's single added a third score for the Vermonters in the eighth.

The score.

SHARPE AND TEAM MATES ARE SHOWING UP WELL

Locals Have Demonstrated That Oakland Will Be Well Up in Race if Team Plays as It Is Now Doing

FIVE times now have we seen the Oaks in action as a contender for the pennant race of the Pacific Coast League and their performances on the ball field have been all that could be asked of a ball team. True, there are a few rough edges yet that need be smoothed off, but these will adjust themselves, and it is the prediction of the writer that Bud Sharpe's outfit will be well up in the running all the time.

Of course, Oakland is playing against San Francisco, and is yet to meet the rest of the teams in the Coast League, but, aside from this, we cannot find where any of the other teams are any stronger than the Oaks. Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle are not playing baseball, that is evident from the reports of the war correspondents and from the looks of the scores. To comment on them is something that must be done at a later date, but as for our men, we can look them over and see that the following conditions prevail:

LEADER IS A GOOD MAN. Bud Sharpe is our leader. He is a ball player. He is well versed in all the fine points of the game, fields his position well, and hits in a manner that will make him a dangerous man at all times for the opposing pitchers to twist to.

He hasn't the same get-up-and-go spirit that Harry Wolverton has, but he must not overlook the fact that Wolverton is a pitcher, and he is not.

BACKSTOP IS BEST OF ALL. Behind the bat Oakland is well fortified, and it is doubtful if there is a better catcher than Carl Mitze in minor league circles today. No one is a better player, but he uses those brains and has a knack of holding up a pitcher in the most trying of circumstances. He is a true thrower and can block a runner at the plate better than any man in the league.

At second base Leard is showing that he is a steady, consistent player, and to the writer's mind, is better than any other second baseman in the league. He is a true thrower and can block a runner at the plate better than any man in the league.

FRICK AND HETTING WILL DO. Third base is well protected. Jimmy Frick started as a regular on the team, but a pitcher's arm put him under the table, and Gus Hetting had to take up the slack. Gus has filled the job to a nicety, and the shortstop position is held by a man who is the superior of any in the league from all angles of the game. True, there are some fielders whom we will see but they will have to show a whole lot to prove that they are better than Frick and Hetting.

BOSTON NATIONALS BAT BOBBY KEEFE OUT OF BOX

CINCINNATI, April 6.—In the first game at the new local park the Boston Americans played both well and badly this afternoon, winning by the big score of 11 to 1.

A team of hard hitters knocked Keefe out of the box and also alarmed Boston manager. The fielding of the Reds was inefficient while they were nearly unable to connect with the curves of Lou Wood and the splitter of Frank (Duke) about 8000 witnessed the contest.

MACK'S MEN ARE ONE BEHIND PHILLIES FOR TITLE

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—The Phillies broke the tie with the Athletics in the local series by winning today's game 2 to 1. This gives the Phillies three wins against two for the Athletics. Mack tried two of his southpaws today, Krause and Danforth, but the Phillies scored three runs on each. Krause went five innings and was hit safely five times. The same number of hits were made off Danforth, but the Phillies scored three runs on each. Krause went five innings and was hit safely five times. ALAMEDA, April 6.—The Lincoln park bantam soccer team defeated the Washington park bantams today in a hotly-contested game played at the local park grounds, the score being 2 to 0.

RIVAL BALL PLAYERS COME TO BLOWS

ST. LOUIS, April 6.—A hot fight with Jimmy Austin and Harry Steinfield, the participants was one of the thrilling incidents in today's game when the Cardinals beat the Browns 6 to 1. The row between Austin and Steinfield came in the fifth inning when the Cardinals called with five runs. Austin pulled a knee on Steinfield, he muffed a throw and Steinfield, coaching, dove into the locked pair. Austin leaped up and scored two runs and Steinfield was hit in the head. The fight was broken up by the police. Steinfield was hit in the head and Steinfield was hit in the head.

OAKS PLAY RINGS AROUND SEALS AND WIN EASILY

Cy Parkin Has a Bunch of Mystifiers, While Team Mates Clout Reddy Toner Early and Often

By BERT LOWRY.

Oakland 3, San Francisco 0.

CY PARKIN did it. This big fellow, aided and assisted by eight other Oaks, smeared a big coat of whitewash all over the Longtoss over at Recreation Park yesterday afternoon, and by so doing annexed the first series of the season, and also went to the top of the heap in the struggle for the pennant, along with the Angels. It was a pretty game to look at, especially if you were one of the rooters that rooted for Bud, Bert, Cy, Elmer, Izzy and the rest of the crew, except that it took nearly two hours again to wade through the nine innings of play.

Big Cy was the star, closely followed by the rest of the crew with Elmer Zacher a great big factor in the run-getting for the home town boys. The elongated slabster started like a star and he finished like a star and put in the little book that Mr. Cy Parkin is going to be some smoke in the back of the head of the Longtoss. He allowed for his hits, none of which caused him or the Oakland rooters the least of worry and he slung them out on the plate with a brother pitcher to the man with a run.

Really, though, the run that Cy sent over the rubber wasn't needed, for in the second round when Elmer took his turn at the bat he shot one out of the lot for the circuit that put Oakland on the scoreboard and that homer was enough to win.

TONER DIDN'T HAVE MUCH. "Reddy" Toner, so-called because he sports a lovely crop of brick red hair, essayed to do the hurrying for the Oaks and we couldn't see so much in the red topped one. Oakland gathered nine hits from his offes and lots of hits were cut off by brilliant fielding by Mr. Hartley, Mr. Ratfey, Mr. McArdie and Mr. Corhan, especially. When he did shoot the ball toward the plate he was generally passed on a line or with the speed of a bullet. McArdie knocked down three that looked like safeties when they left the bat. So did Corhan. Hartley made one long running catch and the ball that Ratfey knocked over was labeled a triple when it left the bat.

Yes, Mr. Toner was afforded glib edged support and that is what kept the Oaks from having twice as many runs as they did.

ZACHER STARTED THE SCORING. Both sides were retired in the opening round with very little damage, for Hoffa and Toner pitched a fine game. The ball into safe territory. In the second Zacher made that long pole that we spoke about. Looking over the scores we see that Mr. Toner has been hit 22 times and has hit safely on nine occasions and three of those nine events have been homers. And this is the fellow whom some of the fans wanted canned because he was not able to knock 'em over the fence in the practice games.

When Mr. Toner was warmly received. Heeling started the round with a liner to center but Sharpe forced him at second because McArdie made a won.

HENDERSON GETS IT ONCE MORE FROM DILLONITES

Frank's Hired Men Clout the Beaver's Star Slabster Good and Plenty.

(By H. M. WALKER.)

LOS ANGELES, April 6.—For Hat some Benny Henderson the show began like a romp but ended in a damaging rip. At the start Henderson had curves, speed, control and a smile. He did not even have the smile at the finish.

The Angels collected six safe hits off Henderson in the fourth and fifth innings. The Angels came over the tape winners, score 3 to 2. It might have been worse, a whole lot worse. The game was not nearly as close as the figures would indicate. The way the Dillonites are lacing the ball around the park and pulling off the tent show stuff on the field would lead an unprejudiced observer to believe that Los Angeles will make a little noise in the percentage column this year.

Henderson fanned Daley and Heilmuller in the opening round and there was sorrow among the faithful to see this pair of heavy hitters so easily disposed of. In the second Dillon, Metzger and Lober all turned up their toes in a row, without driving the ball away from the infielders. When Henderson struck out Boles and Reams in the third the crowd took on the aspect of a gloom convention.

Portland scored a run without making a hit in the third. A base on balls, an out and an error by Page was the combination that started the scoring. The soup with one out Chadbourne was passed by Leverenz. Rodgers grounded out. Page to Dillon. Chadbourne's second, scoring. Lapsley swung into a short drive that got through Page and rolled to right. Chadbourne coming home on the error.

ANGELS HIT IN TWO. Four hits, after two men were out, in the fourth, gave the Angels two runs and made us forget that we had but a few minutes before heard of Henderson Henderson and wishing that he would fracture his una bone or meet with some equally serious mishap that would put him out of the game.

Daley and Page both were pegged out at first by Lindsay and then the base hits began to pop. Heilmuller shouldered since hitting between Lindsay and Rodgers. On the hit and run order Heilmuller trucked his way to second while Dillon slammed out a clean single left Henderson tried to slip a grounder over to Metzger but the slip worked the wrong way, the Angel third baseman hitting a single over second, scoring Heilmuller. Lober followed with a wicked poke, bounding the ball over Lindsay's head. Dillon scored on the bludge but Metzger was aided as he was spiking his way into third.

Catcher Boles opened the fifth with a long triple to right. Heilmuller and Lober were unable to bring home the run, but Daley singled to left, scoring Boles. Portland's last stand was made in the eighth. Frank went standing with the first hit from the danger mark with a double play act that was a beauty. Rodgers had walked, taken second on Lindsay's out, stole third and scored on Hap's hit down the third base line. McDowell bounced a hit into center, putting runners on first and second with only one out. Down on loose with a high line drive when Page went up in the air, spearing the ball with his gloved hand and doubling back with only one out.

A feature worth mentioning was the fact that Bill Rapps caught Dillon on a trick, the origin of which dates back to the time when "ants over" was considered baseball.

Henderson threw the ball to Rapps after Dillon off first in the second but Frank went standing with the first hit from the danger mark with a double play act that was a beauty. Rodgers had walked, taken second on Lindsay's out, stole third and scored on Hap's hit down the third base line. McDowell bounced a hit into center, putting runners on first and second with only one out. Down on loose with a high line drive when Page went up in the air, spearing the ball with his gloved hand and doubling back with only one out.

CALIFORNIA WINS ANNUAL INTERCOLLEGIATE SERIES

Blue and Gold Outbat and Outfield Cardinal Athletes for Honors on the Baseball Field

By L. N. COBBLEDICK, JR.

IN a great game of baseball the University of California Varsity triumphed over the Cardinal in the second game of the annual intercollegiate series on California Field at Berkeley yesterday, thereby winning the same for the second successive year. The game was bitterly contested throughout with the Blue and Gold finally triumphing over Stanford by the score of 3 to 1, with the fighting players from Palo Alto ever striving to even up the score. Many people witnessed the game which was played under the most favorable weather conditions possible. A large roofing section came up from Stanford with a good-sized band to support the crimson, and the Blue and Gold rooters were there with lots of noise and their band. A moving picture machine was on hand.

Stanford went to bat first and was unable to secure a hit off the delivery of Sophomore Conklin. But, as in previous games, California started in right off the bat to score. One, California's first run was the result of a fluke play, yet it was a run and filled the California rooters with delight. Rubke, the first man up, went out on a grounder to Terry, who nailed him at first. Coane also went out, flying out to Argabrite, but Goodwin thrilled the crowd with a terrific drive to deep center field, which not only hit the longest hit in the game, Allen then came to bat and laid down a bunt towards first, with Goodwin crossing the home plate for the first run before Allen was put out.

Stanford was put away by California in the second on the second on a fast and a double play.

California then proceeded to score again. Dodson, first man up, was misplayed by the strike-out route. Foraker, California's twirler last Saturday in the first game of the series, but he held down a little infield hit and stole managed to make first, and then stole second. Stoner, who was the summer choice, and Foraker went to third. Conklin then came through with a pretty drive to left field, scoring Foraker and making the score 2-0. The crowd cheering for the inning was then completed. Foraker flew out to Gault, and but for a close decision, California might have made another score with a hot grounder to the pitcher, who was picked up by a spectacular manner and thrown to first. Rubke was called out by Umpire King Brady on a doubtful decision, but the result did not affect the winner.

Stanford scores in sixth. From this time on the rival teams battled on each line securing a hit apiece in both the third and sixth innings. Terry came to the plate in the sixth and responded with a long single to right field, taking third on Foraker's error, around the dispirited Stanford pitcher to a great enthusiasm. Gault then became Stanford's hero by driving out a hit, scoring Terry. O'Leary flew out to Foraker, who made a sensational one-handed catch, and then made a perfect peg to first, almost getting Gault off the initial sack. Becker then forced Gault out at second, Allen to the sixth and Stanford's hope of tying the score was dashed when Cass flew out to Goodwin.

Stanford scores in seventh. The game terminated not to let Stanford have a chance of winning the California team immediately set to work to increase its lead. Allen went out on a fly to Hahn and Dodson struck out, but Foraker was very gently hit by the pitcher and, being given one bag, immediately stole another when Hahn's back was turned. Stoner, who has recently developed quite a hitting record, slammed the ball to center field, scoring Stoner. Conklin then was out on a high fly to Cass. Thus the score came to the sixth inning, with California leading by 3-1.

SEVENTH LUCKY FOR U. C. At the opening of the ninth, commonly known as "the lucky seventh," the Stanford rooters rose en masse and yelled for a tie score. But the tables were turned and the first half of the seventh proved to be a horse show. The Blue and Gold, Hahn opened up with a single, which rolled away the third base. Foraker then came to the plate and then into the box by Coach Schneider. Argabrite was safe on a hit to right and then took second and third while Hahn was trying to score. Foraker and Rubke quickly relayed the ball to the plate, where Stoner nailed Hahn in a sensational manner. Hahn made first on a grounder, while Argabrite was also nailed at the plate. Dodson to Stoner. Hahn closed the Stanford half of the inning by flying out to Foraker. Stoner tried to score again in the ninth, but was unable, although Chills baited Foraker, and Hahn had previously been walked.

Conklin accidentally received a kick on the nose by Henshaw in the third inning when he went after the latter's bunt, which rolled along the first base foul line. After a hurried treatment he went back into the game, but did not do as well as previously.

CARDINAL RACKET WIELDERS BEAT CALIFORNIA

The First Time in Many Years Since Stanford Scored on Tennis Courts.

For the first time in a number of years Stanford captured the honors in the intercollegiate tennis tournament, the cardinal winning three out of five matches, the first two of which were played on Friday.

Three matches were played today on the University of California courts. The two single matches went to the cardinal racket wielders, while California won the doubles. In the singles Murray of Stanford defeated Charlie Rogers, California, by scores of 4-6, 6-7, 7-5, 6-3. The games were hard-fought throughout. Morgan of Stanford won from Press, California, in the singles by scores of 6-3, 7-5. While the men played fast tennis, the Stanford men showed a decided superiority all the way.

The doubles, won by the Rogers brothers of California, furnished the spectacular exhibition of the day. Fitted against the Californians were Murray and Morgan of Stanford, and there was never a dull moment while the match was in progress. It took five sets to decide the winner.

In the matches on Friday Stanford won the singles and California the doubles.

LICK HIGH SCHOOL IS FAST BASKETBALL TEAM ON SKATES

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The Lick high school basketball team aggregation, which defeated the team from Lowell last night, at the Coliseum rink, 16 to 11. The Lick players went into the lead from the start, and at the end of the first third were the lone stars of the 16 to 11 score. Captain Anderson formerly from Oakland Poly was the star of the game making 14 out of the 16 points. For the Lick team now leads the league with 1000.

The lineup: Lick—Cohen, Anderson (captain), forwards; Trainor, center; Woloszewicz, Hurling, guards. Lowell—Lowell, forwards; Hall (captain) center; Tauffenbach, Wilkins, guards.

AIR-MEN ORGANIZE TO CUT OUT FANCY STUNTS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Walter Brooke, who for many months held the record among aviators for each aerial thrill, as the spiral glide, the ocean roll and the dip of death, is the organizer of a new club of professional airmen, all members of which are pledged not to perform any of the aerial tricks and stunts for which so many lives have been the penalty. The members are further pledged not to permit, wherever they can prevent it, the attempting of follies of flight by other aviators.

The germ for the call for the formation of the club was the death of Captain P. Rodgers, who fell while attempting to do one of the Brooklyn tricks. It is now nearly two years since Rodgers performed his last dip. He declares that he has settled down to be a steady and businesslike flier.

S. P. SHOPMEN WILL HAVE CLASSY TEAM ON BALL FIELD

This afternoon the Southern Pacific baseball team of West Alameda will clash with the Blue and Gold team of East Oakland. The S. P. ball team is one of the fastest the company has had since 1908, having won twelve games and lost one during the season. The lineup will be: Henshaw, cf.; Granger, 1b.; Schnarr, 2b.; Lanzetta, 3b.; short, cf.; Kousa, 2b.; chancellor, ss.; Sweet, c.; Dasha, p.; Jacobson, p.

Stoner, Duffell will be a third in San Francisco. Lick has a big battle of intercollegiate for the King of Beams.

ELIMINATION TOURNEYS NOT VERY SATISFACTORY

Champions Are Not Being Made by the Ones That Are Going On at the Present Time

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SO-CALLED elimination tournaments are a delusion and a snare. Like desert trails, they lead to nowhere in particular. The best in store for any one who follows them is a glimpse of a mirage or something equally unstable and misleading. In the memory of man about the only elimination tourney that held the even tenor of its way and produced a practical result was the one inaugurated at Los Angeles for the purpose of developing a challenger for Abe Attell.

For further particulars see Johnnie Kilbuck.

The main purpose of elimination tourneys is to give promoters a chance to work up interest in the operations of a ring of no-good fighters. Just at present two far Western match handlers are in the throes of middleweight elimination tourneys. McGorry of Los Angeles is running one and Coffroth of San Francisco the other.

It looks as if each of the promoters is impaled upon a double-horned dilemma. He has no material worth while to throw up with and he has failed to arouse anything but the savors of enthusiasm so far as the public is concerned.

It is with the San Francisco tourney that the article has mainly to do. So far in the line of elimination bouts we have had Frank Klaus and Salor Petrovsky; Klaus and Jack Dillon.

Klaus came to us unheralded as the most promising middleweight in fight, with the possible exception of Eddie McGoorty, and he has proved a good deal of a disappointment. In his first encounter he wasn't equal to the task of stopping a fellow who wears a blue-clad uniform, heavily worked out and who knows more about the dog watch than he does about the technique of fighting.

In the next affair he gained the decision mainly through superior condition, but apart from his tendencies towards perpetual motion uncovered nothing to leave a lasting impression on the minds of those who watched him at work.

It is said now that there is some hitch over the bringing together of Klaus and McGorry, but it is hardly likely that the two will meet in the near future, but if the bout falls through altogether, so far as San Francisco is concerned, the middleweight division will be left almost a blank.

The local fight followers know nothing about McGorry, but if he is merely a rival of Klaus, and the term rival carries its usual suggestion of something approaching equality, it is felt that McGorry can be no great shakes.

California fighters feel rather glum over the failure of the middleweight outlook. With a cessation of activity among the lightweights, with the featherweight problem newly worked out and with the heavyweight situation all heads and points on account of the malign influence of one Jack Johnson, it was thought that the middleweight would be able to keep the ball rolling and supply good entertainment. But judging from what has happened so far, the middleweights are a poor lot.

What would Stanley Ketchel have done to your Dillons and Klausers? asked a man coming away from Coffroth's arena. Of course, if a fellow recalls the boxers of even a year or two ago he is a man who has been fighting well, or Hugo Kelley when in his prime? remarked another. PALO ALTO HIGH WINS ACADEMIC MEET ON BERKELEY OVAL

San Mateo County Youngsters Show Skill in Various Athletic Events.

Palo Alto High School won the Academic Athletic League's track meet at Berkeley today with 56 and 5.6 points. Stockton was second with 26 seconds and Lick School of San Francisco was third, with 16 points. The best performance of the meet was Chapman's mile in 4:5.5. The 800-yard race was won easily. Colby of Cogswell College held the league record of 18:15 in the high hurdles. Parker of Stockton surprised the spectators by defeating Rogers of Lick and Mills of Palo Alto in the 100 and 200-yard dashes. Points scored: Palo Alto, 56; Stockton, 26; C. S. M. A. (Lick), 16; Santa Clara, 15; Mission, 12; Cogswell, 9; Udash, 9; Mission, 8; Mountain View, 8; Santa Clara, 8; Wilmering, 4.

BIG AUTO CUP RACE MAY BE HELD AT MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 6.—The 1912 Vanderbilt races will be held in Milwaukee, according to a telegram received for night from W. K. Vanderbilt, if this city offers sufficient polling for the racing course.

TURF GOSSIP

Phil Riley writes from Vancouver, B. C., that the coming racing season at Vancouver and Victoria promises to be the greatest in the history of the far northwest. Riley says that there will be sixteen stakes races divided at both meetings and that the associations are going to make a big thing out of it. There will be seven races every day, with the purse will amount to $100,000.

Bill Short, the California horseman, is located at Palo Alto with Round and Round, Macey, Dennis Stanford and Frank Macomber.

Harry Mason, the veteran trainer, has been looking fine and fit at Palo Alto. Reports say that Mason will have the unprecedented fifty races for the opening day.

Powell and Parker, with their big stable of horses, are now quartered at Palo Alto.

Joekey Roy Golden will leave Oakland in the next week for Palo Alto. The local judge rider will do the saddle work for Millbourne Charles Clark.

John Ireland and W. H. Fisher, two noted horsemen, are now at the Hotel Grand Hotel for a few days before going to Palo Alto.

George Rose, the Chesterfield of horse makers, is reported to have taken $60,000 of bets on the line at the Grand Hotel. This looks good on paper.

Horan, Paul, who at present is located at the Hotel Grand Hotel, will take a hand at the Palo Alto.

Quite a number of prominent turfites have arrived at Spokane.

Trainer Pete Smith, who has been training a select string of runners at Emeryville all winter, left yesterday with his charges for Palo Alto.

George Lawton, who has been wintering with the horses at the Hotel Grand Hotel, will take a hand at the Palo Alto.

Manager H. L. Wilson of the Laguna Race Association, after attending to some routine business in regard to the coming meetings at Los Angeles and Anaheim, left yesterday for Seattle.

"Billie" Waller, who has charge of things at the Hotel Grand Hotel, will take a hand at the Palo Alto.

The majority of horse followers and horsemen who are going to take in the Palo Alto meet will locate at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

CURED IN FIVE DAYS Hydrocele, Varicocele, Hernia

No Detention From Occupation, Family or Home

Consult me at once. You can be cured before returning home. Many cases can be cured in one or two visits.

No severe operation. Many cases permanently cured in one treatment. Most time-saving, most natural, most safe. A radical and permanent cure. I give my word and will cite you to other medical authors and authorities that this is no exaggeration. A fact. I am certainly prepared to cure by experience and treatment, which are the keystones to success. I have the best equipped medical office on the coast.

I invite you to come to my office. I will explain to you my treatment for Nervous Debility, Bladder Trouble, Piles, Prostate, Kidney, Prostatic and all Men's Diseases, and give you FREE, a physical examination; if necessary, a microscopic and chemical analysis of secretions, to determine pathological and bacteriological conditions. Every man should take advantage of this opportunity to learn his true condition. A permanent cure is what you want.

VARICOCELE—HYDROCELE. I have cured many cases of Varicocele and Hydrocele in one visit. In nearly all cases, by one treatment, in such a satisfactory way that the vital parts are protected and strengthened, pain ceases, swelling subsides, a healthy circulation is rapidly re-established, instead of the depressing conditions. I GUARANTEE YOU A CURE OR REFUND YOUR MONEY.

These diseases can have more complications than are presented by any other disease. By my searching examination of the bladder I determine accurately the disease, and by microscopic and chemical analysis I make doubly sure the condition of the kidneys, thus laying foundation for scientific treatment.

Weakness—Its Complete Cure Without Tonic. What is commonly termed functional weakness is generally a symptom of prostatic disorder. To stimulate activity by the use of powerful tonics is an error, but such results are merely temporary drug effects. Most doctors treat "weakness" in this manner because they do not know how to cure the real cause of the derangement. I am the only physician employing scientific and successful methods. I use no tonics at all, and correct every abnormal condition of that vital organ, the prostate gland. My cures are real cures, and are permanent.

Consultation Free.—I offer not only FREE consultation and advice, a careful examination and diagnosis without charge. No other man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about his condition. My office is open all day from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. and Sundays from 9 to 12 p. m. If you are not of time who cannot call, write the diagnosis card.

OAKLAND BRANCH SALESROOM OPEN

Permanent Quarters Finished;
Complete in Every Detail.

The new permanent home of the Oakland motor cars has at last been completed and factory branch manager Henry L. Hornberger and his staff will take possession of the headquarters across the bay, at 542 and 544 Van Ness avenue, today.

While the salesroom and the service station is in keeping with the refinement of the Oakland cars yet it is not so much the favorable impression that they are designed to convey to the prospective buyer as it is to the owners of cars, of the satisfactory service they will enjoy after owning one of these popular makes of automobiles.

Manager Hornberger, in speaking of the opening of the branch, says: "I would like to convey to all owners of Oakland cars and those who may hereafter own them the importance of this latest move on the part of the Oakland Motor Company."

"It means to the owners of Oakland cars that they have the factory right here in the city—right at their door. If the factory 3000 miles away at Pontiac was to be moved bodily to San Francisco they could not get better service than they will hereafter enjoy from the local branch. It is going to be service in the fullest meaning of the word."

"The officials of the company realize the value of California and the coast for future business and they are planning not for today, but for the future."

"There is one point I would like to bring out forcibly, and that is while our salesroom has been designed as a place in which to sell our cars, it is at the same time a showroom in which you will take pleasure in displaying our latest models."

To prevent tarnishing of the bright brass parts of your car when laying it up for a time, rub on some vasoline. It is easily wiped off when you are ready to go into commission again.

Polarine

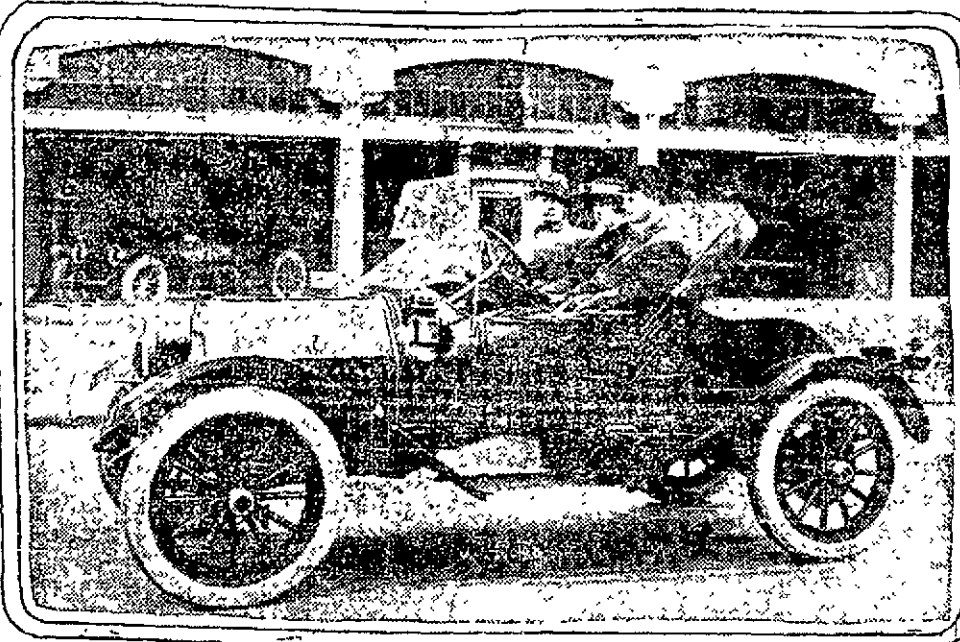

The most important thing to bear in mind, however, is that proper lubrication is essential, if you are to get the best service from your car, and that the Polarine Brands are the best automobile lubricants yet produced.

The Polarine Brands include Polarine Oil, Polarine Transmission Lubricants (in three consistencies), Polarine Fibre Grease and Polarine Cup Grease.

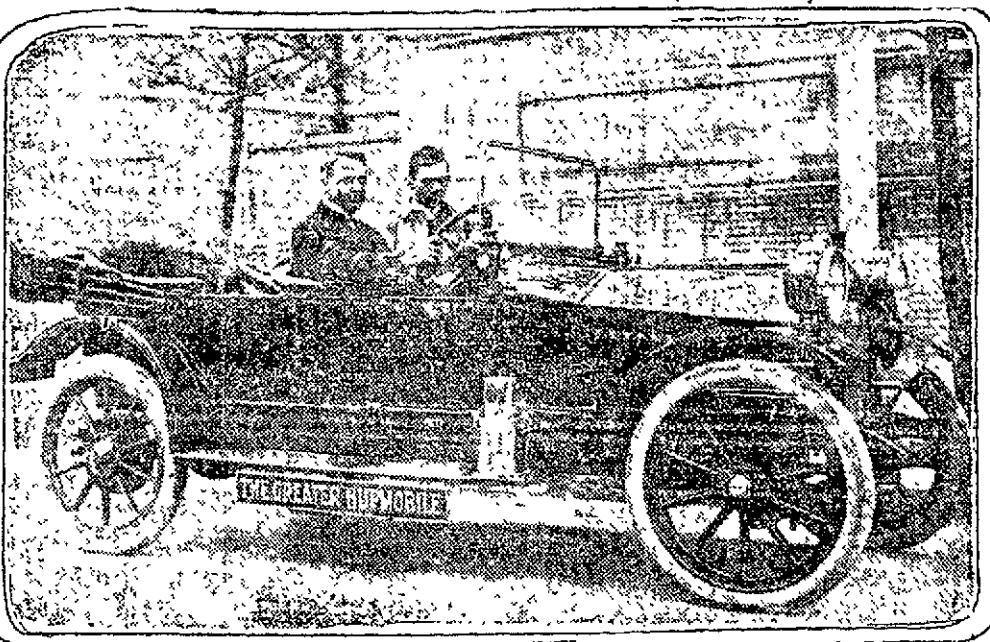

Our Polarine booklet, free, postpaid, gives useful hints on lubrication and the general care of a car. Write for it today, any agency.

FIRST CARLOAD OF AMES CARS HERE

Delayed Shipment Arrives and New Models Attract Attention.

The long delayed shipment of Ames cars, which were due to arrive more than two weeks ago, finally weathered the floods of Nebraska and Missouri, the blizzard of the Rockies, reached Oakland on Thursday, and were unloaded and placed on the floor of the F. H. Dalley Co. for their first inspection to motorists in this part of the country.

Advance folders and literature pertaining to them stated at some length many good qualities of the Ames and claims were made for the advanced features embodied in them.

Let it be said here, that from a surface inspection the statements were not over exaggerated.

The cars are designed for the roughest of going and throughout ideas exclusive in this one make. The motor is rated at 40 horsepower, and is of the modern long stroke type, quiet in operation and simple in construction. Selective type of transmission and full floating rear axle are two other points worthy of note.

The body has the flush sides with fore doors. Unusually hinges and door handles are done away with. Three quarter elliptic springs increase the riding qualities of the Ames.

It is Mr. Dalley's intention to institute an aggressive campaign in the entire state in the interest of his car.

INSTALLS TRUCK SERVICE STATION

"The most serious problem that faces the users of those preparing to use motor trucks and delivery wagons at the present time is how to obtain the highest efficiency from this advanced form of drayage," says H. E. Maslin, general manager of the Standard Motor Car company.

"Dealers in motor trucks can prove conclusively the advantage and profit in their use. Often those who install motor trucks find results obtained are not up to what has been claimed by the dealer. In most cases the trucks are blamed for the deficiency, while in fact it has in almost all cases been the fault of those who have been handling the trucks."

"It is a recognized fact that all drivers of motor trucks, especially if they have previously been driving horse-drawn vehicles, cannot be made perfect chauffeurs in the short time that the motor truck has met with favor. Like everything in life, perfection only comes through experience and ability, with the odds greatly in favor of the former."

"Our company has realized this condition of affairs and, to prove that our statements concerning the Federal and Kelly trucks are strictly in accordance with the truth, we have installed a motor truck service station at 88 Fulton street."

"This service station is for the benefit of all owners of these makes of trucks at all times. We want all the drivers when in doubt to at once come in and we will set them right. We have men there just for that purpose."

"We have even gone further and will garage these two lines of trucks if the owners so desire. This means that the trucks will always be under the watchful eye of our experts. In other words, we offer to owners the same care and service which we give to our demonstrators."

FAMOUS MOTORIST HAS COMPLETED BUSY SEASON

Bob Burman, the American monarch of motoring and world's speed king, is putting in a busy racing season. Burman made his first 1912 appearance in Havana, Cuba, March 10, having one of the record crowds that has been seen in Cuba. Fully 25,000 spectators, it is estimated, witnessed the racing, which was the best ever run in Cuba, under the direction of Burman's manager, E. A. Moross. In fact the event was so successful that there will be another meet in Havana today, April 7.

Meets have also been run in Matanzas and San Diego de Cuba. While waiting for the April 7 meet Moross shipped a few of his cars to South America and is busy with a meet there. After the Cuban meet Burman will ship his cars to California, as it is his intention to take part in the Santa Monica road race.

Moross has written for blanks for the California race and if the prize list is of sufficient proportions will enter the 110 and the 120 Benz racers in the event.

The new 300 Benz and the Blitzen Benz, the present record-breaking cars, will be shipped to the beach for records. The 200 Benz has been ordered shipped from New York for Daytona and will be on the beach awaiting the arrival of the speed king there after the Havana meet, while the Blitzen Benz will be shipped from Cuba to Key West and up the Florida East Coast for Daytona.

As Burman has now to his credit the world's speed records the indications are that he will be able to better them greatly during the coming trials. Last year when Burman lowered the records of Oldfield he did his, fast kilometer, mile and two miles on his twenty-seventh birthday, April, 23. So that he will have plenty of time for trials after the Cuban meet of April 7. He will then go to the coast, returning in time for the Indianapolis motor speedway classic.

At this time Burman is not officially entered in Indianapolis, but as three factories are building him racing cars and he has his choice of the one that best suits him, the indications are that he will be an entrant. One of the three cars being built for Burman for the Indianapolis race is being equipped with a silent Knight motor. As the factory making this car is desirous of giving it a trial before it is made public, Burman refuses to divulge the name of the manufacturer. It is, however, an American car and has been in work for a long time. The recent tests of the motor have been very satisfactory to the speed king, who has made many trips to the United States from Cuba to inspect the work on the machine which is being designed for the long grind.

Burman will drive the best cars in the world as his mounts will include cars in the 450 to 600-horse class, the 601 to 750 class and his two great speed cars, the 200 horsepower Blitzen Benz I, and the 300 horsepower Blitzen Benz II. The present indications are that the speed king is securely anchored to his throne, while with the 110 and 120 horsepower Benzes he should have something to say in the Santa Monica, the Elgin and the Grand Prize road races, as well as with other cars in the Vanderbilt cup race and the Indianapolis motor speedway races.

The speed king has mapped out a vigorous campaign and will meet the best drivers in open competition which has always been his policy.

Next time you are out driving and are dinned with that out-producing affliction, tire-flis, look for the Peart & Elkington trouble wagon. If punctures will out, let them do so along the Foothill boulevard for it is on this highway that the tire van is most likely to be found. Last Sunday was the first day the experiment was tried. More than one driver was profuse in his thanks for the assistance rendered—no charge at that. A stock of all sizes of tubes and the popular sizes in casings are carried on the P and E. hospital wagon as well as a stock of tire repair material necessary for temporary work. Don't hesitate to call on the boys in charge of it for aid. They'll gladly give it.

PATHFINDER HITS SOME BAD ROADS

Arizona Is Sadly in Need of Bridges, According to Autoists.

(By CHESTER LAWRENCE.)

CLIFTON, Ariz., April 6.—The ocean-to-ocean pathfinder case car which is blazing the transcontinental highway, arrived at Clifton this afternoon. An escort of six automobiles bearing many of the most prominent citizens of the Gila valley, escorted the car from Globe and to the scenic town of Clifton.

The worst roads we have found on our entire trip are those in the southeastern portion of California. The highway from Phoenix through the San Carlos Indian reservation is as good as can be found in all the West.

The crying need of the Arizona highways is bridges. It is expected that the Gila river at the San Carlos reservation will soon be bridged, thus connecting the entire state of Arizona on the ocean-to-ocean highway.

Dell M. Potter, vice-president of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, and recognized as the father of the good roads movement in this, the youngest state in the Union, has been untiring in

Spends a Few Days in Town
Caring for Interests of Firestone Tires.

Barney Oldfield, the noted racing speed king, was a visitor last week in this city. The annihilator of world's records is now traveling over the country in the interests of the Firestone tires. His headquarters here were with Holmes & Olson.

Barney is exceedingly jubilant over the fact that his reinstatement into the fold of the A. A. A. is now a matter of but a few days. He is considering a proposition to enter a car in the Santa Monica race and will do so if he can secure one fast enough to give him a fair chance for a share of the winning money.

Needless to comment he will ride on "Firestones." To use his own expression, "They're the only life insurance I carry."

His efforts to have the pathfinder properly plotted from town to town. We leave in the morning en route for Deming, N. M.

FLANDERS ELECTRIC CLIMBS STEEP HILL

Negotiates Fillmore St. Grade
With Ease; Descends
Without Trouble.

A more convincing demonstration of the wonderful power and control of the modern electric could hardly have been given than to have seen the Flanders Coupe negotiate the famous Fillmore street hill. There was no loud exhaust or purring gear, but just a steady climb without sound of any kind. Reaching the top it turned and made the descent, stopping midway to show the power and control of the brakes.

This is the first time a shaft driven electric coupe ever climbed the hill and it is significant of the progress made in electric cars. Such a feat a few years ago would have been a miracle. When you realize that the electric street cars have to be pulled by cable to get over it you will get a better idea of just how steep it is.

The performance will go a great way toward establishing the supremacy of the worm gear which the Flanders uses for final drive work. It has both strength and efficiency and is easily lubricated by reason of its continual submersion in oil in speaking of the climb Mr. Morris of the Pioneer Automobile Company, agents for the car, said:

"We wanted to correct the common impression that electric wouldn't climb. As a matter of fact they will go anywhere that traction can be secured. They will run a little slower than some of the high-powered gas cars, but they are absolutely sure to get there."

An open model of the rear construction of the Flanders Electric showing the worm drive is now on exhibit at the salesroom of the Pioneer Automobile Company and offers an interesting study in power transmission.

Mr. A. Stevenson, sales manager of the Flanders Manufacturing Company, and Ralph Darling of the service department of the same concern, are spending a few days with the Pioneer Automobile Company, Northern California agents for the Flanders Electric.

Mr. Stevenson has not visited San Francisco since the fire and marvels at the wonderful work that has been done

MOTOR SERVICE DURING STORM

Blizzard Does Not Hold Up the Traffic When Autos
Take Field.

A big blizzard March 19 put all regular forms of transportation out of business in certain sections of Illinois. To meet the situation and help out many men who were very anxious to get to their offices the Illinois Motor Sales Company established a 30-minute auto bus service between Champaign and Urbana, Illinois. Several of the large limousines and touring cars were used and did good work. The smallest car on the job, however, was a K-R-I-T touring car and it proved to be one of the best snow fighters used. Loaded with from four to eight passengers during the day's grind, the sturdy little K-R-I-T surprised the business men who took advantage of its service.

During this, quite the worst blizzard in that part of the country, according to the gray beards, the banked snow on the paved streets was well high impossible. A thick and heavy crust over the top made traveling treacherous. The K-R-I-T, however, behaved finely and fought its way through at a surprising rate of speed. The banked snow caused it to sway alarmingly at times, but the car stuck tenaciously to its four wheels in spite of its light weight.

"California is a good country and San Francisco a great city. You have big things ahead of you." He reports a most satisfactory condition in the electric vehicle trade on the entire Coast. He has contracted for the delivery in the States of Oregon, Washington and California of more than four hundred Flanders electric cars before August next. "The idea that the electric of today is not a practical vehicle for hilly cities is fast wearing out. It takes a little more current to go up hill but you don't use any going down. Electric in San Francisco will give all the miles required in any day's work, and that is all they aim to do anywhere."

BIG PRODUCTION BENEFITS TRADE

Automobile Man Differentiates Between Unwise Building and Reason.

"Although George E. Daniels, general manager of the Oakland Motor Car Company, Pontiac, Mich., is strongly opposed to over-production and has always been a 'conservative' in the matter of the number of cars built in any one season, still he believes that a comparatively large production is a decided benefit to the automobile buyer," states Henry L.

Hornberger, Pacific Coast branch manager of the Oakland company.

"Of course there are limits in both directions to the producing and of the automobile industry today," said Hornberger. "The buyer should not necessarily think that because a certain firm is turning out so many hundred cars a month that this particular car is the one for him to buy. Neither should quantity production stand in his way when it comes to purchasing a car."

"It would be impossible to build the medium priced car of today as well as it is being built without fairly large production, for in buying raw material in large quantities naturally better prices can be obtained. This is the first saving for the manufacturer, and also results in a saving for the buyer."

"Another feature, which is seldom considered, is the fact that high salaries, competent men must be at the heads of the various departments of the successful automobile manufacturer, to insure the building of a high grade product. This is necessarily true with the concern which builds but five hundred machines a year, as well as with those who build from 6000 upward. Just this one, seemingly insignificant item has already caused the downfall of more than one small manufacturer.

"Large production makes the standardization of all parts almost an absolute necessity. Each part must fit accurately, in order to save time. The value of the standardization of parts to the purchaser is well known, for it has been widely understood ever since the birth of the industry."

"Another feature which should appeal to the prospective buyer of a motor car is the number of branch service stations and agencies maintained throughout the country, by the manufacturer. The builder of many cars naturally has more such branches and agencies than the smaller manufacturer. This particular feature is of great benefit to the tourist, for it insures his receiving the best attention along the route, from the dealers who handle the particular make of car he is driving."

OF PONTIAC, MICHIGAN

Announces the Opening

On Monday, April 8th, of a Permanent

Factory Branch

At 542-544 Van Ness Avenue

[30 Feet From Golden Gate Ave.]

SAN FRANCISCO

The company's business will consist in giving service and selling cars—equal attention will be paid to both.

The opening of this branch means—in effect and in fact—that an important part of the Oakland factory has been moved from Pontiac to San Francisco, where prompt and direct service will be given at all times to resident owners or those touring in the State.

A complete mechanical department will be maintained and necessary adjustments or replacements will be cheerfully made.

Giving service also includes helping owners sell their old cars—if they so desire. Incidentally every Oakland in California is worth more money today to its owner or to any one else as a result of the opening of this branch.

Each Oakland Car user is invited to call and become acquainted.

An adequate and attractive showroom contains our complete line, including four chassis and eight models, ranging in price from $1250 to $3000 (delivered in San Francisco), seating from two to seven persons, having from 30 to 45 horse-power—luxurious, beautiful, strong cars—delivered under our factory guarantee from a factory branch—right at your elbow—not three thousand miles away.

The Oakland Company's purpose in coming to San Francisco is to give better service and to sell more cars. It will do its best to do both—they go hand in hand.

it is worn out.

THIS is just as true of Diamond Tires as any other. But there's this difference
—the tire that you bought on a price basis costs more than you expected while the Diamond Tire always costs less.

Q. The first cost of Diamond Tires may be a little higher, but they only cost as much as they must in order to be as good as they are.

Q. You can get in Diamond Tires any type that you want. They are made in Clincher, Quick Detachable Clincher, Mechanical, (straight side) and Fisk types—and in Safety, Smooth, Bailey and Grip treads. But in any Diamond Tire that you choose you get what no other tire can give you—the Greatest Mileage and the best service that can be built into a tire of that type.

Q. There is only one sure way to cut tire expense to the lowest and that is to buy Diamond Tires and stick to them. More people buy Diamond Tires today than buy any other single brand of tires in the world.

In addition to dependable dealers everywhere, there are FIFTY-FOUR Diamond Service Stations. Diamond Service means more than merely selling tires—it means taking care of Diamond Tire users.

No-Rim-Cut Tires 10" Oversize

A Thousand Thousand Have Been Used

A million tires—used on some 200,000 cars—have taught the world that tire bills can be cut in two.

And the tires which proved it—No-Rim-Cut tires—have come to outsell all others.

If you pay tire bills, please find out what these 200,000 know.

Now King of Tires

In 24 Months the demand for this tire has multiplied six times over.

In the last 12 months we have sold half a million.

No Rim-Cut-Tires have become the sensation. But we spent 13 years in ceaseless improvement to give you a tire like this.

So the average saving from this patent tire is 23 plus 25 per cent.

No Extra Price

These patent tires now cost no more than other standard tires. The savings are entirely clear.

200,000 motorists have already come to them. 127 leading motor car makers have this year contracted for the Goodyear tire.

One-third of all show cars were this year equipped with them.

Won't you find out why?

The Savings

No-Rim-Cut tires end rim-cutting forever. Statistics show that 23 per cent of old-type tires become rim-cut.

No-Rim-Cut tires are 10 per cent over the rated size. They give you that added capacity.

And 10 per cent oversize, with the average car, adds 25 per cent to the tire mileage.

PORTUGAL FACES A DANGEROUS CONDITION

New Regime Is the Center of Storm of Protest and Dissension.

CHURCH IS CAUSE OF ONE PART OF DISPUTE

Europe Entertains Grave Fears for Peace; Smugglers Are Busy.

LISBON, April 6.—The general situation in Portugal may be characterized as becoming serious, both the financial and political condition of the country being decidedly unsatisfactory. This state of affairs, however, is viewed with a somewhat pessimistic indifference by the nation at large.

At the beginning not only the Republicans, but a good many Monarchists welcomed the advent of a new regime; but the Republican leaders promised a great deal more than they have carried out. The law of separation of church and state offended the religious sentiments of many people, while the increased taxes on capital and the Landlord's Law alienated the sympathies of the wealthy classes.

The civil administration of the country has been by no means satisfactory, many capable and intellectual men being thrust aside, this being due to the fact that they had not become Republicans before the Revolution. At first mistakes were expected, and almost everyone was desirous of giving the republic a fair chance, but since the Republican government took office little has been done to effect reforms. Since October 5, 1910, the annual expenditure has increased, while the revenue has considerably decreased.

Parliamentary debates have become abortive, deputies merely making long speeches which are frantically cheered by their supporters, but few laws are passed. A great number of projects are presented and then referred back to committees for study, after which no more is heard of them. Part warfare and self-interest, which were the chief causes of the destruction of the monarchy, have already begun to disunite the Republican regime.

NEW PROGRAM.
Senhor Almeida, the chief of the Conservative Republicans, seeing the danger of the situation, has reconstructed his party and instituted a new program, the chief feature of which is the removal of the law of separation of church and state, alterations in taxation, a new electoral law and other liberal schemes, the idea being to attract all the moderately disposed Republicans and Monarchists. It is generally considered more than doubtful whether he will have any success, as the greater part of the country has lost faith in all politicians. Moreover, the opposition of the more advanced Republicans is too great to permit of any headway in this direction.

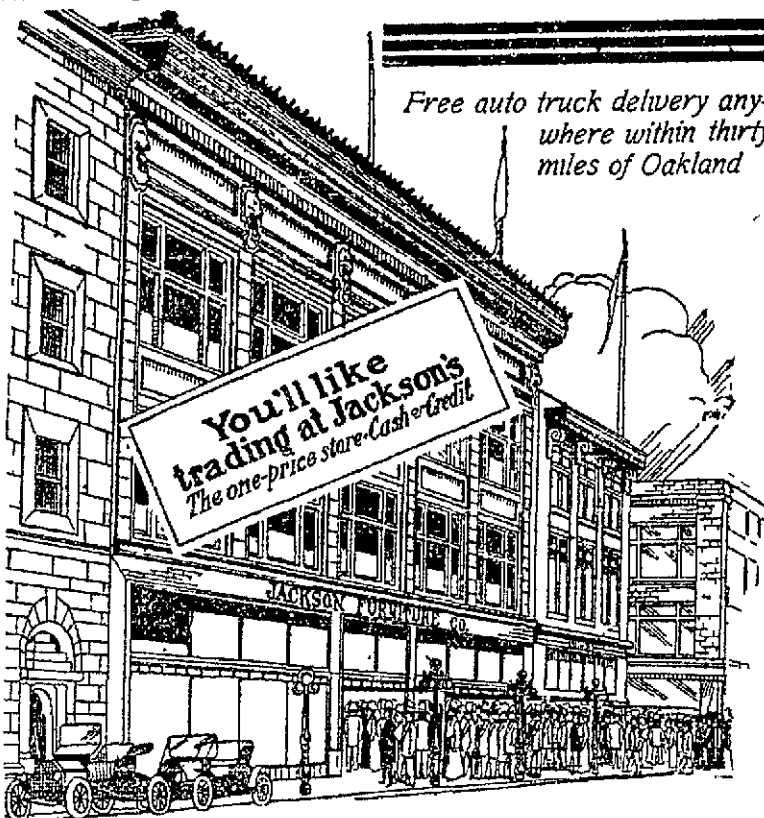

This condition of affairs reacts on commerce. Trade is now considerably paralyzed, while the lack of money is great. In Portugal the bulk of trade is effected on credit, the banks discounting term drafts. During the last few months bankers, due to the lack of funds, have refused such facilities to one-quarter of the previous amount, while the Bank of Portugal, which was the principal bank assisting trade, has practically stopped all private discounts, the cash it has in hand being insufficient to supply the constant demand for the government's depleted coffers. The state now possesses nearly 90 per cent of the total of the issue of the Bank of Portugal. The circulation of notes has increased steadily from the time of the revolution of 1910 without a concomitant increase in the metallic reserve. The floating debt has also been augmented. The actual deficit amounts to about ten millions yearly. People are posing the question of what will become of Portugal in the event of a political or financial upheaval.

FEAR IN EUROPE.
This unsettled condition of Portugal is attracting the attention of Europe, and fears are openly expressed in responsible quarters that European intervention may become necessary. The recent general strike in Portugal, which started as a labor movement pure and simple, was seized upon by anarchists and monarchistic agitators as a means of furthering their movements. The government, therefore, found it necessary to declare a general state of siege, and to pour thousands of troops through the streets of Lisbon and Oporto. Over 1500 leaders of the movement were arrested and imprisoned upon warships in the harbor of Lisbon.

Under a stern repression the strike has died, but there is still left the prospect of an insurrection, the agitation among the friends of the strikers who are still in prison, and more important than these, the declared intention of the monarchists really to attempt the restoration.

One of the problems of the new republic of Portugal is that of smugglers. Smuggling goes on incessantly over the Spanish frontier and it has lately increased in audacity. A large number of smugglers have been arrested and imprisoned. A daring attempt at the escape of smugglers occurred recently at the prison of Viana do Castelo. About ninety prisoners, including brigands and smugglers, with the connivance of jailers, dug a tunnel from the prison and escaped to the beach, where they seized a large sailing boat. After throwing stones at the crew overboard they took to the open sea. The boat, which has been notified of the escape, is in pursuit and engaged the sailing boat in combat, finally sinking it. Eighty of the prisoners were taken off by the gunboat, but two perished.

SMUGGLERS KILLED.
Recently the authorities learned that extensive smuggling was going on near Chusquea and sent a big force of cavalry to watch. At midnight a band of smugglers was sighted emerging from the forest. The cavalry pursued them and finally came up to them as they were entering a tunnel. To their astonishment the troops found themselves in the interior of an abandoned monastery. Brought to bay, the smugglers, who numbered twenty-two and who were armed with guns, pistols and knives, made a desperate resistance. They refused to surrender, whereupon the troops poured in a volley. The fight then became a hand-to-hand struggle. The smugglers were killed after five of them had been wounded and three wounded. The soldiers lost two killed and six wounded.

Sewing rocker

Like cut 75c 40 to be sold

These Rockers were bought to sell at $2.00. When they came in we saw that they were not worth it and would be poor value at that money, as they were a little rough. So we decided to close them out at 75c each, and we can assure you that they are a snap at that price, as they are strong, well made and in the golden finish; would make good kitchen, nursery or bedroom rockers.

PROTEST KILLING OF SEA ANIMALS

Mexican Government May Not Interfere With Plans of Expedition.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 5.—Francisco Olivares, the Mexican consul here, was asked today whether his government would interfere to protect the sea elephants on Guadalupe Island, should the report that an expedition has gone from San Pedro for the purpose of capturing them, prove correct. The consul said that the San Pedro company had the commission for all sealine on the lower coast, and that unless it objected, the government would not interfere.

SUFFRAGE BALLOT AT PRIMARY ELECTION

CHICAGO, April 6.—Voters at next Tuesday's primary election, who do not want to announce their party affiliations, but who are willing to vote on the equal suffrage question will be given a suffrage ballot, according to a ruling of County Judge Owen. Mrs. George W. Plummer of Illinois Equal Suffrage Association said that the ruling probably would mean 1000 additional votes for the suffragists.

ALMOST A MIRACLE.
One of the most startling changes ever seen in any man, according to W. H. Haisclaw, Clarendon, Texas, was effected years ago in his brother. "He had such a dreadful cough," he writes, "that all our family thought he was going into consumption, but he began to use Dr. King's Kidney Pills and was completely cured by ten bottles. Now he is strong and well and weighs 215 pounds. For many years our family has used this wonderful remedy for coughs and colds, with excellent results. It's quick, safe, reliable and guaranteed. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Oakland Book.

Clairvoyant

PSYCHIC ADVISER, PALMIST, DRUGLESS HEALER, 12 YEARS IN OAKLAND, PERMANENTLY LOCATED IN OWN HOME, 513 12TH ST.

PSYCHO DIAGNOSTIC AND METAPHYSICIAN.

A man of international repute, acknowledged leader in clairvoyance and recognized authority on personal magnetism, mental telepathy and the finer forces of nature.

Years of study, travels in far Eastern lands and endless researches, coupled with rare spiritual and physical gifts, have enabled him to become the living exponent of this weird and mysterious profession.

Without knowing who or what you are, without asking you any questions, this strangely gifted man reads your entire past and future life with unerring accuracy. He tells you the names of friends, enemies or rivals, tells whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true, tells how to succeed in business, love, marriage, lawsuits and investments, in fact, everything.

If you are in doubt or trouble of any kind, in ill health or unsuccessful, no matter what the cause or nature of your trouble or illness, this, this strangely gifted man can help you.

REMARKABLE HEALING POWERS. His remarkable gifts further enable him to cure chronic invalids with drugs and other means have failed. His work has aroused widespread wonder in all circles, physicians and scientists being as much in the dark as the layman as to this gifted man's power over disease as the public in general.

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED. It is wrong to know our weaknesses, mistakes, faults and failures and by proper advice and instructions of an able expert of clairvoyance correct them. He tells you the names of friends, enemies or rivals, tells whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true, tells how to succeed in business, love, marriage, lawsuits and investments, in fact, everything.

There is a power in nature, so subtle, so strong, that when properly used by a master, people are influenced without their knowledge into doing the wishes of others, bad habits are cured, estranged lovers are brought about. It reunites the separated husband and wife, troubles are removed, happiness is secured, many things are accomplished by it for the good of those suffering in mind or body.

Clairvoyant

PSYCHO DIAGNOSTIC AND METAPHYSICIAN.

A man of international repute, acknowledged leader in clairvoyance and recognized authority on personal magnetism, mental telepathy and the finer forces of nature.

Years of study, travels in far Eastern lands and endless researches, coupled with rare spiritual and physical gifts, have enabled him to become the living exponent of this weird and mysterious profession.

Without knowing who or what you are, without asking you any questions, this strangely gifted man reads your entire past and future life with unerring accuracy. He tells you the names of friends, enemies or rivals, tells whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true, tells how to succeed in business, love, marriage, lawsuits and investments, in fact, everything.

If you are in doubt or trouble of any kind, in ill health or unsuccessful, no matter what the cause or nature of your trouble or illness, this, this strangely gifted man can help you.

REMARKABLE HEALING POWERS. His remarkable gifts further enable him to cure chronic invalids with drugs and other means have failed. His work has aroused widespread wonder in all circles, physicians and scientists being as much in the dark as the layman as to this gifted man's power over disease as the public in general.

FOREWARNED IS FOREARMED. It is wrong to know our weaknesses, mistakes, faults and failures and by proper advice and instructions of an able expert of clairvoyance correct them. He tells you the names of friends, enemies or rivals, tells whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true, tells how to succeed in business, love, marriage, lawsuits and investments, in fact, everything.

There is a power in nature, so subtle, so strong, that when properly used by a master, people are influenced without their knowledge into doing the wishes of others, bad habits are cured, estranged lovers are brought about. It reunites the separated husband and wife, troubles are removed, happiness is secured, many things are accomplished by it for the good of those suffering in mind or body.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS. Prof. Del Martin has in the past wrought wonders in results for his patrons. He reads the business, health, love, success in business, happiness in their homes, or are attaining social distinction, thank him for his services.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS. Come and learn how to deal with occult forces, how to create harmony and a healthy atmosphere in the home, "mind over matter." How to gain perfect health. How to be successful in business, in life, in business, in love, in fact, everything is made clear to you.

If in trouble or doubt consult an advisor that has had years of practical experience and asks NO MONEY IN ADVANCE for his readings and none at all unless entire satisfaction is given.

Prof. Del Martin is a graduate of the Kendall Occult College and for many years has been a student of the occult. He is a teacher of personal magnetism and attention given to the development of mediums. 14th St. Close In $55,000—Two fine holdings: two 50-foot frontages with good improvements, paying $200 per month. This is a standard buy and has splendid future. (587)

Must Be Sold

$5000—Cost owner over $6000, but owner must meet some obligations; a mutual advantage is obtained here. You get a cheap home—he gets the financial relief. Modern 8-room house; 60 feet frontage with deep lot; flowers, shrubbery; one block to car line; fine charming landscape, lake and hill view; moderate terms; would pay fine revenue in this exclusive district; very little of actual shoreline property held privately. Balance is owned by municipality. (483)

Lake Shore Frontage Apartment Site

$22,500—Beautiful site with gradual slope to shore line of Lake Merritt; over 80 feet frontage; close to business center, car lines and S. P. R. R. and Key Route ferry lines; no more beautiful and accessible site could be conceived; capable of water effects, with charming landscape, lake and hill view; moderate terms; would pay fine revenue in this exclusive district; very little of actual shoreline property held privately. Balance is owned by municipality. (548)

Linda Vista Corner

$2500—Cheapest corner left in this extra desirable district; the location needs no comment; 50 feet corner, with perfect drainage; near Santa Rosa ave. For a beauty bungalow buy this; terms arranged. (215)

Downtown Business Property—May Trade

$13,500—Modern, practically fireproof building under direct influence of downtown Broadway; under lease at $180 per annum; may take smaller property as part payment. (559)

Near 9th Avenue

$1700—North side lot, 50x150, fine location; worth $2250. (521)

Buy Corners—Buy Corners—Buy Corners

$9750—Corners on the main thoroughfares will be at a premium; here's one on main business street, centrally located; size 75x100; 35 ft. on corner, vacant and ripe for store and apartment corner; inside 27 ft. has fine modern buildings of picked material, that pays 7% on whole property; near S. P. R. R. and Key Route ferry lines and on as fine a traffic thoroughfare as Oakland possesses; half cash. (515)

Builders, Attention

$2750—100x100, near Grove and 40th sts.; sidewalk and street complete; 3 cottages and 12 lots for 125 ft. frontage, including corner, in one of Oakland's restricted residential districts; oil macadam streets, cement sidewalks, street lights; good elevation; all new homes; convenient to school and car line. (118)

Do you know of a tract of choice building lots as close in as just north of East Sixteenth street, with the Liese avenue cars passing through the center, where the Board of Education has invested $320,000 in land, and Walter J. Mathews has a contract to erect a $100,000 building, and the Key Route is to run right in front of the property on the Boulevard, with all street improvements in and reasonable building restrictions, where whole fifty-foot lots can be bought for on the easy payment plan?

Telephone or send postal and we'll send you a pretty booklet. Branch office at Leise avenue and East Sixteenth street (on the tract). Open every day.

S. S. AUSTIN

SKILLING'S BEST BUYS

One of the best houses in one of Berkeley's most exclusive residential districts; 8 rooms, laundry, etc. in basement; finished attic, hardwood floors; in short, a splendid up-to-date modern home for a particular family; the lot is 44x135; shrubbery, etc.; place is worth $8500, but look at it and make us an offer and it is yours at almost any price, as it MUST BE SOLD.

A pretty little home in sunny Fruitvale, 4 rooms, summer kitchen, woodshed, chicken house and runs; cherry, peach, apricot, plum and apple trees; lot 75x100; a snap at $1650.

Broadway is the backbone of Oakland; we have one veritable for sale at a price that will double within a year or two; $5000 will handle it, and the buildings on it will pay you $2000 a month any easier than watching this value grow.

THE SKILLING COMPANY,

Rooms 220-221-222 Albany block,

MANY PLANS FOR GOOD ROAD FIGHT

Bureau to Carry on Campaign Through the Eastern States.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The bureau of good roads, which already has sent out several trains to spread the gospel of better road building is preparing to operate trains next fall and summer along the Norfolk & Western and the Boston & Maine railroads. Logan W. Page, director of the bureau, declared today that most excellent results had followed from the "road train work" in the South last year.

To this he attributed in large part the fact that $14,000,000 of the $43,000,000 spent in the United States for improving roads last year was spent in the South. Reports are being received, he said, of well attended meetings in the trains now traveling through the Southwest.

DELEGATES READY FOR BIG FIGHT

Pennsylvania Primaries Will Have Great Influence on Campaign.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—A survey of the political situation in the State of Pennsylvania today makes it evident that the coming State wide primaries on April 13, when 64 national Republican delegates will be selected to the national convention in Chicago, will be the most interesting and vital struggle in the pre-nomination campaigns of both President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt.

Pennsylvania carries 76 delegates to the national convention, 64 of whom are district delegates and 12 delegates at large. This is the State that gave Colonel Roosevelt a plurality of 50,000 in 1904, the largest plurality ever given a presidential candidate in any State, and is for that reason believed to be the strongest Roosevelt State of any size in the Union. It is held, therefore, in many quarters, that defeat for the Roosevelt followers will deal a decisive blow at the nomination campaign of the Colonel, while his victory over the strong State Republican machine, and the control of Senator Boies Penrose, and backed by the business interests, would have an incalculable moral effect upon the voters of the nation.

The situation as it stands today shows the Roosevelt managers claiming 20 of the national district delegates while the Taft allies, with the Warramakers and prominent business men throughout the State, are positive that Pennsylvania will show a solid Taft delegation. In this city and Pittsburgh the fight between the Republican factions has been particularly bitter, many of the communities held by Roosevelt papers showing the Colonel a favorite by 2 to 1. Against these figures the Taft men lodge the allegation of partisanship, claiming the voting will have no effect upon the returns on April 13. These two cities comprise 10 districts, six in Philadelphia and four in Pittsburgh, and will elect 20 delegates.

The Roosevelt fight throughout the State and particularly Allegheny county, is in the hands of William Flinn, a former State Senator of the ward politics type, who has been spending money like water in an effort to sweep the State for his candidate. Flinn, when seen today, was confident in his forecast of victory. He said not only would Roosevelt's doctrines triumph in the districts conceded to entail a Roosevelt tenure, but that many other districts would show a strong leaning for President Taft. "I would be found to have swung over to the Colonel," Roosevelt district candidates are in the field throughout the State.

TOO MUCH LOVE CAUSES DIVORCE

Wife Wanted to Be Caressed in Hubby's Office; Trouble.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Too much display of affection by Mrs. John Rockinger toward her husband has brought the couple into the court of domestic relations.

Rockinger told Judge Goodenough that his wife was not content to caress and listen to his repeated declarations of love at home, but she followed him to his office, and only did so in order to interfere with his business, but her continual display of affection became very tiresome to him, declared Rockinger. So he left her and their two children. Mrs. Rockinger asked that her husband be forced to return home. "All I can do," said Judge Goodenough, "is to see that he provides for your support and that of your children. No wife is to interfere with her husband's business by following him around. On the other hand, a husband ought to jolly his wife as much as possible."

Rockinger was ordered to pay his wife $30 a month. As he left the courtroom his wife clung to his arm.

DANGERS OF FAT

HOW FAT AFFECTS THE BRAIN

Just how fat affects and finally destroys the brain is not exactly known; however, degeneration, and final collapse of brain tissue, due to this cause, is of frequent occurrence.

pains, and head heaviness. Head aches are often experienced by fat people, may indicate that this degenerating process is imminent. The return of this fatty tissue to normal brain substance, may probably result if the over-production of fat is stopped in other parts of the body. Thousands of fat people have depended entirely for reductions to normal weight, upon Marmola Prescription Tablets, which are made after the exact formula of the famous liquid Marmola Prescription. While taking these tablets for the reduction of fat, no dieting nor exercise are necessary, as a reduction of 10 to 15 lbs. a day is accomplished by prevention as well as elimination of fat. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold at all drug stores or the Marmola Co., 233 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., at the uniform price of 75c for a 10-day course. They remove the fat already formed, prevent its reforming, clear the complexion and tone up the entire system.

TO EXPERIMENT IN GRIM DEVICES OF WAR

The Trouble in Tripoli Hailed as Opportunity to Try Inventions.

ITALIANS SEND NATIVE TROOPS TO ERYTREA

Chamber to Discuss Reform of Franchise as Proposed.

ROME, April 6.—The military attaches of the different countries at the embassies here consider the trouble in Tripoli as an excellent field for experimenting in new war systems and machines. The aeroplanes have proved that when the weather permits them to fly with comparative security, they can be employed for offensive purposes. Special automobiles to drive over the sand of the desert have done good service, but are so expensive that it would be impossible to use them wholesale for the advance of a whole army. The railway appears to still remain the best system of transportation and the one which will in the end be even cheaper than camels. Each train is provided with an armored car, which forms a kind of small moving fortress provided with quick firing guns so placed as to command a considerable range in all directions, thus insuring the safety of the train, the troops and provisions which are transported.

TRYING NATIVE TROOPS.

An interesting experiment which is now being made by the Italian military authorities at Tripoli is that of using the native troops of the Erythraean colony against the Turks and Arabs of the new colony. Several hundreds have already landed and have astonished the natives of Tripoli with their order, discipline, loyalty to Italy and especially by their cleanliness. The specialty of these troops is their wonderful mobility, as they do not require the enormous quantity of provisions and accommodations which are necessary for the modern European soldier. Their equipment consists only of sheep skins, which each carries for himself. Most of them are decorated with two medals, one gained through fighting the Abyssinians, and the other in the war against the Dervishes, when Italy occupied the fort of Kassala, which has now returned to the Anglo-Egyptians. They declare that they are now determined to get a third decoration, fighting the Turks and Arabs. "Either get it or die," they say.

While the enterprise of Tripoli is far from being accomplished, the proposal has been put forward to raise a monument to the conquest of that African province. The proposal is even accomplished by the plan of the monument, to the ancient remains of Rome, the meaning of the monument would be the return of Rome to her ancient dominions across the Mediterranean, and a glorification of young Italy.

DISCUSS NEW PLAN.

The Italian Chamber is about to discuss the reform of the franchise proposed by Senator Giolitti, according to which, for the first time, the military and naval officers will be allowed to vote on condition that they have served in the army or that they are over 30 years of age. The Italian suffragettes have risen in arms and have addressed a most violent protest to the members of the government, the senators and deputies, against the exclusion of women from the right to vote, which is against "all the principles of justice and equality," and is not justified, considering the "ameliorated culture of modern woman, her direct participation in the social life of the country, and, indeed, her superiority to the illiterate male masses which the new bill admits to this privilege."

The general committee of the women urges all members of parliament who have declared themselves favorable to the vote to the fair sex to fight now for their cause, especially against the argument of those who, maintaining that it is too grave a problem, would abstain from any concession. Meanwhile the committeewomen will keep up an agitation among the women of the country, which will not be abated until they have obtained their wishes.

NEW INSTITUTE.

The science of vulcanology is about to receive new impetus in Italy through the creation of an Italian 'Vulcanologic Institute' and of an International Vulcanologic Institute. The former will be simply the adaptation, after having been provided with all the new systems and instruments of the old Vesuvius Observatory, which, although not up to date, rendered good service during the last great eruption of 1906, when it was the direction of the late Professor Matteucci, with Frank Perret of New York as assistant. The observatory is now directed by Professor Mercalli, one of the most eminent Italian scholars of the science of vulcanology. The International Institute will be a private enterprise, although supported by several governments and by Italian and foreign scientific bodies, and is due to the initiative of Professor Immanuel Friedlaender, who, although a German by birth, lived for many years in Naples. Professor Friedlaender is a passionate student of the volcanic phenomena which he has investigated, going to Japan, the Hawaiian Islands and Central and South America. King Victor has received Professor Friedlaender, encouraging him in his enterprise, which has the object of making the new International Institute a center of the science of vulcanology, which exists all over the world where volcanoes exist.

THREE BIG MANSIONS MENACED BY FLAMES

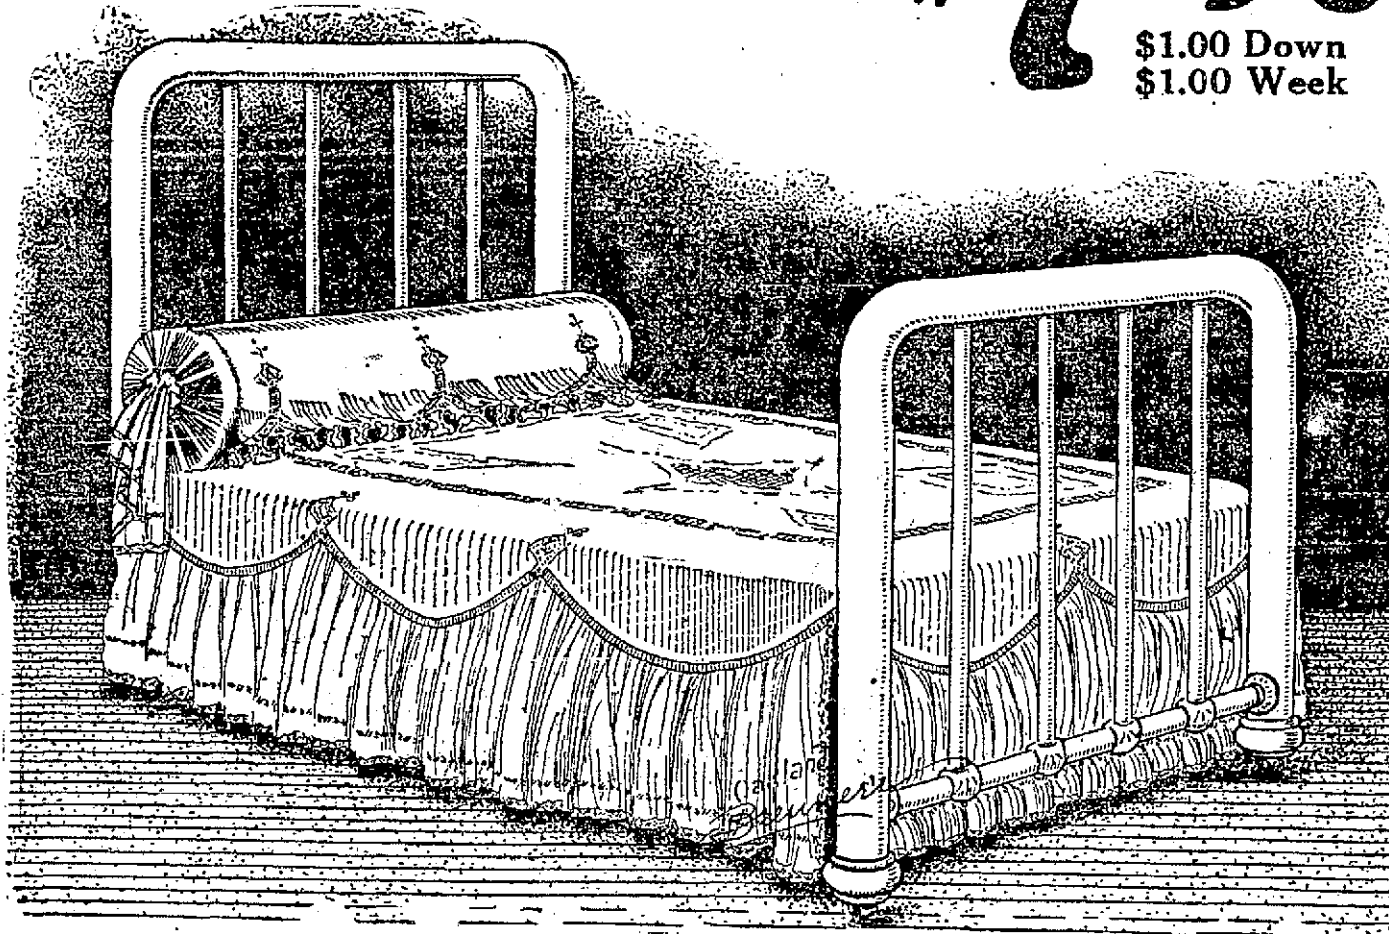

LONDON, April 6.—Three destructive fires in historic country mansions occurred last night. The first was in Lake House, in Wiltshire, a fine Elizabethan edifice, full of priceless Jacobean furniture. Lake House was occupied by Percy Holden, Illinois, worth, member of Parliament, who with his children was saved from death only by the barking of a dog. The family escaped clad in night clothes.

The other fires were in Rossmore House on Loch Lomond, belonging to Sir Ian Colquhoun, and Gibbston Castle near Nairn, County Meath, Ireland, where the damage aggregated $200,000.

SCORES SOCIETY WOMAN WRITERS

"Not Satisfied Until Mothers of Books," Says French Aristocrat.

PARIS, April 6.—Count Robert de Montesquiou, whose aristocratic relations cover all of France, and who is a descendant of D'Artagnan, the hero of Dumas' "Three Musketeers," also the author of the "Blue Hortensias," and well known in Newport and New York society, has just completed a special study of the Blue Stockings of today. Count de Montesquiou, discussing this interesting subject, said:

"Let me begin by distinguishing between the real blue stockings, and the bogus blue stockings. It is the duty of men of letters to cure women of society who are merely such-of-their-mania for writing books."

"Some of the women writers of today recall the 'Precious Ridiculous' earlier generation. They pierce our ears with false theories. Many society women today have an unsatisfied look in their eyes until they become mothers of books. Sometimes they are only foster mothers, for the books are written for them."

"Women today is not only the comrade, but the rival of man. Should she do the blouse of a sculptor, for example, if she has real talent it will become known. I don't believe that a majority of the women will take to masculine pursuits, such as politics, medicine, aviation, soldiery and abandon their powdered, ribboned saccharine life behind the fan. I know we are in an age of contrast when a philosopher dances and a leader of cotillions gives lectures, when artists play poker and millionaire tradesmen paint pictures, and when convent girls read essays on love and when old roués turn trappists."

PICTURE OF BABY TO IDENTIFY HER SON

SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—Somewhere in the cities about the bay there is a fond father named John Harigan, and in his pocket he carries a picture postcard with the photo of his three-year-old baby girl. He may or may not use the cognomen of Harigan, but the likeness of the child is certain to identify him.

This information comes in a communication today from Harigan's mother, Mrs. Butcher, of 1108 Broadway, Cincinnati. She sends a postcard with the baby's photo and writes: "He has another in his pocket." Mrs. Butcher has news of great importance for her son, whose address she is without.

AUXILIARY ENTERTAINERS.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 6.—The Channing Auxiliary heard a reading of the play, "A Well of All Saints," by William Synge, at its monthly meeting, by Mrs. William Lawrence Jones of Berkeley. A group of Irish songs by E. D. Crandall and several traditional Gaelic dances lent interest to the afternoon.
